U.S. Mourns Slain Kennedy

Girl, 6, Survives Highway Tragedy

Car Crushed

A six-year-old Victoria girl was the sole survivor in a family of five when a landslide demolished their car near Revelstoke on Wednesday.

Killed while driving home from a family holdiay at Melville, Saskatchewan, were grocery warehouseman Ernest John Bitterman 42, his wife Annet 34, and two daughters Terri Lynn, 4, and Sandra Lee, 2. They lived at 4185 Carey Road.

The third daughter, Janet, is in hospital at Revelstoke suffering cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred when a mountain slide crashed across the Trans-Canada highway 20 miles west of Revelstoke, near the shores of Griffin Lake.

The coast-bound car was swept 50 feet off the two-lane highway and down an embankment. Police said Janet apparently was thrown from the car which was demolished in its plunge. Janet was covered with mud and debris but almost unhurt, they reported.

Highway crews were using bulldozers and dynamite today to clear a mound of debris 3,000 feet long and 600 feet wide and up to 20 feet deep. Rescue officials blamed a cloudburst in the mountains for loosing the slide which thundered down the mountain-walled bed of Camp Creek, carrying trees and rocks.

Rubble on the road was estimated to weigh 7,000 tons. It was not known at first whether other cars had been caught in the slide.

Relatives of the family were in a state of shock today.

OTHER CARS

"We are almost prepared for accidents involving other cars. But who ever expects something like this?" said a brother, Carl Bitterman of 308 Brunswick Place.

He said Ernest Bitterman was born in Melville where the family of nine was well-known. He had come to the coast following two years in the army in Second World War. He worked for the CPR in Prince

Daughter's Shouts Too Late to Help

REVELSTOKE (CP)—Six-year-old Janet Bitterman desperately shouted and cried for help. But it was too late.

Her parents and two sisters were dead in the family car, tumbled and battered by a landslide that knocked out the Trans-Canada Highway Wednesday night.

"There are four more in the car . . . there are four more in the car," the distraught youngster shouted at the rescuers.

The bodies were not freed from the tangle of wreckage buried in mud and rocks until more than an hour later.

Reject Passion, Violence Implores Tory Leader

(Special to the Times)

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield Wednesday night implored Canadians to reject the passion and violence of Los Angeles as a solution to national divisions.

He urged an evening meeting of some 1,800 persons overflowing a local theatre to soberly ponder the implications to Canada of the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The shock to Canada was deeper because of the nature of the act "which does violence to a system of values and of politics which we share with America."

It was one more reminder, he said, that for all mankind's progress and hopes, each country is still not far from an uncivilized condition.

"I have had occasion before to remark upon the importance in this country of the work of reconciliation, to ease the sense of division between Canadians of different races and different regions, different ages and different incomes," he said.

"That remains an urgent responsibility of all Canadians of good will."

Mr. Stanfield earlier told a press conference he had no intention of requesting special security protection in the wake of the Kennedy assassination.

He has no security arrangements other than local police to control crowd pressures.

VIOLENCE PROBE LAUNCHED

Let Law Rule, Johnson Urges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Let us, for God's sake, resolve to live under the law."

With this solemn invocation to a troubled nation, President Johnson Wednesday night dispatched a select nine-member panel on the mission to seek causes for violence of the sort that struck down Robert F. Kennedy.

In a 7½ minutes address on nationwide television and radio, the president said:

"My fellow citizens, we cannot, we just must not, tolerate the sway of violent men among us. We must not permit men who are filled with hatred, and careless of innocent lives, to dominate our streets and fill our homes with fear.

"We cannot sanction the appeal to violence, no matter what its cause and no matter what the grievance from which it sprang . . .

"A great nation can guarantee freedom for its people and the hope of progressive change only under the rule of law. So let us, for God's sake, resolve to live under the law."

To head the special commission, the president chose Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University and brother of former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Other members are Archbishop Terence Cooke of New York; Albert E. Jenner Jr., a

To Be Buried Beside Brother

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy, felled like his president brother by an assassin's bullet, died early today.

His mourning family prepared to take his body home to New York, across the nation Kennedy had hoped to lead as president.

And on Saturday, the senator is to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, probably at the hilltop plot which is the resting place of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy, 42, never regained consciousness, never showed signs of recovery after a savage burst of revolver fire sent a bullet plunging into his brain—at the pinnacle of his own campaign for the White House.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE

Kennedy, his pregnant wife, Ethel at his bedside, died at 1:44 a.m. PDT—a little more than 25 hours after the assault at the Ambassador Hotel.

Kennedy's body was to be flown from Los Angeles to New York later today on a jet airplane provided by the White House.

SEE STORIES PAGES 33, 34

Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary, said the body would lie in state Friday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

A requiem mass will be held there Saturday morning.

Salinger said Kennedy would be buried late Saturday in Arlington, across the Potomac River from Washington, where an eternal flame flickers in memory of John Kennedy, slain four years and seven months ago.

HOLD POST MORTEM

In preparation for Kennedy's last journey, a post-mortem was under way at Good Samaritan Hospital in downtown Los Angeles.

President Johnson, the man who succeeded President Kennedy, issued a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning for the senator on Sunday.

As Kennedy died, the man accused of shooting him was under heavy guard at a downtown prison hospital, held in $250,000 bail for a court appearance which had been scheduled Monday.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was accused of wielding the .22-calibre revolver which cut down Kennedy and wounded five other people early Wednesday as the senator and his supporters celebrated victory in the California presidential primary.

SEEK MURDER CHARGE

Assistant District Attorney William L. Ritzi said his office would ask the Los Angeles County grand jury to indict Sirhan on a charge of murder.

Sirhan, a Jordanian who had been living in Pasadena, was described by those who knew him as a man inflamed over the hostilities between his native state and Israel. A former employer said he might have been enraged by Kennedy's past words of support for Israel.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy, the family's lone surviving son, was at Robert's bedside at the end along with other members of the family.

WIFE BEARING UP

Salinger said Ethel, the wife, "is bearing up very well."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the assassinated president, was in her brother-in-law's room when he died.

Two of Kennedy's sisters, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, were there too.

Salinger said three of Kennedy's 10 children were in an adjacent room and saw their father before he died.

'Civil Dialogue' Trudeau's Plea To Canadians

By DAVE McINTOSH

SUDBURY (CP) — Drawn and quiet-voiced, Prime Minister Trudeau appealed Wednesday night for a "civil dialogue" by all citizens of Canada.

Even a country as richly endowed as the United States has not solved the problem of violence inside or outside its borders, he said.

Canadians were fortunate that they had no civil disorders. They were remarkably mature. But there were some individuals who shouted such things as "go home to Quebec" and "you bloody Communist."

"This is not the dialogue on which civilized society can be built," he told a packed crowd of 6,000 in Sudbury Arena.

His message about violence was underlined by tighter security measures for him. Mr. Trudeau and his staff occupied one floor of a hotel here Wednesday night and only they were allowed on the floor.

Sudbury police guarded every entrance to the floor. The RCMP occupied a suite across the hall from that of Mr. Trudeau. Provincial police were also involved in the security arrangements, which included patrols by unmarked cars and plainclothesmen near the hotel.

ATTENDS FUNERAL

Mr. Trudeau told his audience at the arena that he had considered cancelling his Sudbury trip after attending the Montreal funeral earlier in the day of his "dear friend" Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, who died in Ottawa Saturday.

But the prime minister said he thought that the best tribute he could pay to Mr. Laurendeau was to come to Sudbury where Canadians of many origins worked together in peace, harmony and prosperity.

Sudbury represented the kind of Canada Mr. Laurendeau was building. The greatest homage Canadians could pay him would be to accept his ideas on how French and English can live together in one great country.

Mr. Trudeau said the shooting of Sen. Kennedy "cast a shadow over all of us."

"One can only reflect on the frailty of human society," he said.

If people wanted to live in peace and prosperity, they must find a civil dialogue.

OTTAWA (CP) — A State memorial mass for Senator Robert Kennedy will take place in Notre Dame Roman Catholic Basilica here Sunday at 3 p.m. with members of the diplomatic corps and government leaders attending.

'We Shot Him' She Said

(Times News Services)

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles police issued an all-points alert today for the apprehension of a woman they said might have been involved in the murder of Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

A police spokesman said Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, arrested on charges of shooting the senator, was seen with a woman shortly before the attack took place.

The woman was described as white, aged 23 to 27, and five feet six inches tall.

Insp. Peter Hagan said officers still believed only one person was involved in the shooting, but didn't want to overlook any possibility.

The case was not considered closed yet, said Hagan, press liaison officer for Police Chief Tom Reddin.

The bulletin was issued Wednesday after a Kennedy campaign worker told police that a woman in a polka dot dress ran from the Ambassador Hotel early Wednesday at about the time an assassin fired eight shots at Kennedy.

BLACK POLKA DOTS

"We shot him," Miss Sandy Serrano said the woman told her.

Police described the woman in their bulletin as a white female, 23 to 27 years old, 5-foot-6, wearing a white voile dress with three-quarter sleeves, and small black polka dots.

Miss Serrano, a 20-year-old youth for Kennedy worker from nearby Pasadena, explained in a television interview after the

'HATES JEWS'

Suspect Inflamed By Mid-East War

By RICHARD E. MEYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His name is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

Police say he is a cool, close-mouthed Jordanian who fired a bullet from close range into the brain of Senator Robert Kennedy, killing him.

Mayor Samuel Yorty says Sirhan aparently wrote in a notebook about "the necessity to assassinate Senator Kennedy before June 5, 1968." That date was the first anniversary of the outbreak of the latest Arab-Israeli war.

Neighbors, former employers and the authorities say he hates Jews.

The record says Sirhan is 24 years old, five-feet five, weighs about 120 pounds, has a swarthy complexion and wiry hair.

He has been an exercise boy at a race track, wanted to be a jockey and worked in a health food store.

He was under maximum security guard in a hospital ward at the Los Angeles County central jail, charged with six counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

WILL CHANGE CHARGE

One of the assault charges will be changed to murder.

He is to appear at 8:30 a.m. Monday for preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Joan Klein.

Sirhan's index finger was broken and his left ankle sprained in a tussle that ended in his capture, seconds after Kennedy was shot early Wednesday.

Kennedy had just thanked his supporters for his victory over Senator Eugene J. McCarthy in California's Democratic presidential primary election.

Sirhan has talked to police, but not about Kennedy or the shooting.

Officers said he was advised of his rights, but didn't want a lawyer. He refused to give officers his name.

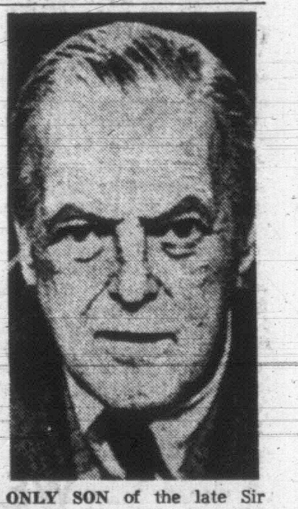
'It Hurts Us Very Bad'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The family of Sen. Robert Kennedy's accused assassin sent a brief telegram to the Kennedy family today which expressed sadness and remorse.

"It hurts us very bad what has happened. It hurts everybody very much. I am crying for them all," said the telegram which was signed "Mrs. Mary Sirhan and family of the accused assassin, Sirhan Sirhan," who reportedly was taken from their Pasadena home to another city under police protection.



ONLY SON of the late Sir Winston Churchill, journalist Randolph Churchill died in London Wednesday night from an undisclosed illness. He was 57. (See story Page 15.)

'IF THEY WANT YOU, THEY CAN GET YOU'

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy always sensed it would come some day.

"I play Russian roulette every time I get up in the morning," he would say.

"But I just don't care. There's nothing I could do about it anyway."

Kennedy has been described as a fatalist, one who never looked beyond the next moment and who was prepared for tragedy any day.

Today, after he had died of wounds inflicted by an assassin, the memory of a long, introspective, and rare conversation surfaced in the minds of the few who had heard it.

Kennedy was relaxing in the rear of his campaign plane, winging through the night sky, taking him home to Hickory Hill, his home in McLean, Va., after a rigorous week of midwestern campaigning.

He spoke broodingly.

Wasn't he concerned, he was asked, about the perils of such wild crowds as he had attracted that day and nearly every day of his presidential campaign?

"No," he said. "I just don't worry about that. There's no sense in worrying about those things. If they want you, they can get you."

He thought for perhaps 30 seconds and then said, "Well, let's not talk about that."

A reporter thought of his brother, John F. Kennedy, assassinated; of an older brother, Joe, killed in wartime; of his sister, Kathleen; of his wife's parents and his close friend, Dean Markham, killed in plane crashes.

But wouldn't it be a national crisis if one of his stature were to be harmed, after the violence to his brother and to Martin Luther King Jr.?

"Perhaps it would, I suppose so," Robert Kennedy said. "But what can I do about that?

"I'll tell you one thing: If I'm elected president you won't find me riding around in any of those awful cars."

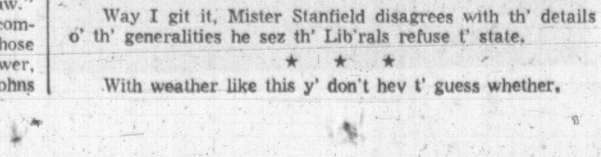
He was referring to the closed, armored presidential limousine President Johnson has used since John F. Kennedy's motorcade assassination.

Bobby Kennedy would ride in open cars, he said, so the people could see their president.

Security on the Kennedy campaign has been a 210-pound former FBI agent named Bill Barry. Faithful to a fault, Barry has ignored battered knees and wrenched muscles to lead his much smaller boss through the frenzied mobs that try to tear him to pieces.

"Of course, I worry about what would happen to my family, to the children," Kennedy mused on the plane. "But they're well taken care of, and there's really nothing else I can do, is there? So I really don't care about anything happening to me."

And then there was a long pause: "This isn't really such a happy existence, is it?"



The best protection for a leading figure is his nation's frame of mind.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Benson Demands Fiscal Caution

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Federal Finance Minister Benson said Wednesday night he would resign if Liberal candidates in the June 25 federal election pledge large government expenditures in campaign promises.

"I hate to say this but it is time to be a small-c conservative in matters of the Canadian economy," Mr. Benson said as he addressed a rally in support of Hyliard Chappell, Liberal candidate in Peel South.

Mr. Benson told about 100 district industrialists that Canada's future is good "providing we realize that we cannot take more out of the economy than we put in in increased productivity."

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP) — Woodrow Lloyd, Saskatchewan New Democratic Party leader, said Wednesday night that the small fines given corporations convicted of price fixing is like a "licence to steal."

"Over the past 20 years, more than 200 Canadian corporations have been found guilty of price fixing—some of them two or three times," he told a federal election rally here.

"The average fine has amounted to 1/10th of one per cent of the firm's annual profits."

BRUCH
. . . two rebuffs

National Social Credit president Herb Bruch suffered a double defeat Wednesday night as Vancouver Quadra and Vancouver Centre Social Credit riding associations ignored his pleas and refused to nominate candidates for the June 25 federal election.

He was a little more successful in Vancouver-Kingsway, however, where the local association nominated Mrs. Lorena Green, 44, as Social Credit candidate.

Mrs. Green is a worker in the education program of the British Columbia Alcohol Research and Education Council.

Meanwhile Premier Bennett refused to comment on his apparent refusal to campaign actively in the federal election.

He told reporters he had no announcements to make at this time.

He did say, however, he is confident the three sitting B.C. Social Credit members of Parliament would be re-elected. They are Bert Leboe, Howard Johnston and A. B. Patterson.

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau is more than a middle-aged pop hero to one publishing house.

In a 32-page, French-language book entitled Le Prince Illustre (The Illustrated Prince), la Librairie Ferron sees the prime minister as a 20th-century incarnation of Niccolo Machiavelli's ideal political leader.

Machiavelli's hypothetical prince has as his goal control of his state and is ready to commit actions judged immoral by contemporary conventions to achieve that goal.

The Ferron edition takes exceprts from Machiavelli and adds photographs of Trudeau to illustrate the advice.

For example, beneath a photograph showing a smiling Trudeau facing several leading Liberal party members on the platform at the Ottawa leadership convention, the text reads:

"The nobles, seeing that they cannot overcome the citizens, begin to give honor to one of their number and make him their prince, so that in his shadow, they may satisfy their wants."

SAINT JOHN — John Diefenbaker Wednesday night was praised as a great humanitarian by the man who succeeded him as leader of the Conservative party.

In his farewell to New Brunswick, Tory leader Robert Stanfield noted the early rapport established between Mr. Diefenbaker and the Maritimes and said it had been passed on to him as a natural inheritance.

"What a vast difference there is between the rather cold and legalistic approach to the rights of the individual, as contained in the Liberal platform, and the passionate zeal with which a man like John Diefenbaker championed the cause of the oppressed and the forgotten people of Canada and the world," Mr. Stanfield said.

School Projects Given Approval By Government

School construction bylaws totalling $5,000,000 were approved Wednesday by the provincial government.

The money will be raised in 20-year debentures unconditionally guaranteed by the province at 6.61 per cent interest.

Among 28 separate bylaws approved were seven Vancouver Island construction projects totalling $1,465,000 in the following school districts:

Vancouver Island west, $504,000; Alberni, $150,000; Qualicum, $277,00; Nanaimo, $150,000; Ladysmith, $60,000; Cowichan, $174,000; Sooke, $15,000.

Hearing Monday On Saanich Apartment Plans

Zoning approval will be sought from Saanich council for two apartment developments at a public hearing this Monday.

Medium-density apartments, where height is limited to a maximum of three storeys, are planned for:

- 2623 and 2637 Richmond Road; and
- South side of Scotia Street and Rutledge.

Another application seeks a change to residential zoning from residential-farming for certain properties on Quadra Street, Saanich Road and Woodhall Drive.

Hart (D.-Mich.) and Roman Hruska (R-Neb.), reps. Hale Boggs (D-La.) and William M. McCulloch, (R-Ohio) and A. Leon Higgingotham Jr., U.S. district judge for eastern Pennsylvania and a Negro.

The president said it would be self-deceptive to ignore the connection between lawlessness and hatred in general and the shooting of Kennedy. Then he added:

"It would be just as wrong, just as self-deceptive, to conclude from this act that our country is sick, that it has lost its sense of balance, its sense of direction and common decency.

"Two hundred million Americans did not strike Robert Kennedy last night any more than they struck John F. Kennedy in 1963 or Martin Luther King in April of this year.

AWFUL EVENTS

"But those awful events give us ample warning that in a climate of extremism, of disrespect for law, of contempt for the rights of others, violence may bring down the very best among us. A nation that tolerates violence in any form cannot expect to be able to confine it to just minor outbursts."

Johnson said the commission "will look into the causes, the occurrence and the control of physical violence across this nation, from assassination that is motivated by prejudice and by ideology, and by politics and by insanity, to violence in our cities' streets and even in our homes.

". . . this is a sober time for our great democracy, but we are a strong and a resilient people who can, I hope, learn from our misfortunes, who can heal our wounds, who can build and find progress in public order.

"We can. We must."

OTHER VOICES

The president's remarks reflected the shock and concern expressed earlier in the day by much of official Washington.

"We have come perilously close to anarchy," said Sen. George A. Smathers, (D—Fla.).

"Unless we set our faces sternly and relentlessly against violence and disorder by anybody, anywhere, in any form," said Sen. Norris Cotton, (R—N.H.), "this nation will shortly become something I don't want to live to see."

Signs of Summer? Grass Fire Fought

City firemen were called to two small grass fires in quick succession Wednesday afternoon.

A fire broke out in a vacant lot in the 1300 block Fairfield at 4 p.m., and 45 minutes later a second fire broke out on the grounds of the Protestant Orphanage, 2691 Cook.

Both fires were quickly extinquished.

. . . KENNEDY

Pale and haggard, Frank Mankiewicz, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the death to news media.

"Senator Robert Francis Kennedy died at 1:44 a.m. today," he began.

Then he answered questions. What was the specific cause of death? Mankiewicz looked up, numb.

"The gunfire attack," he said.

He said "the bullet that went into the head near the right ear" was the fatal shot. It entered Kennedy's brain.

Surgeons operated for three hours 40 minutes to remove all but a fragment in a vain attempt to save the senator's life.

But Kennedy never rallied.

"It was not a question of his sinking," Mankiewicz said, "but of not rising. He needed a rally and a steady improvement in his condition, and that did not develop."

The body was to be taken from Los Angeles between 12 and 1 p.m. PDT. An earlier departure had been expected at first, but the time was moved back because the autopsy examination of the senator's body took longer than expected.

TAKE FIVE HOURS

It began about 3:30 a.m., and was expected to take about five hours.

Kennedy aides announced that at least 33 family members, friends and assistants would be aboard the air force jet on the flight to New York.

Among them were Kennedy's wife, three of his children, his brother Edward, two of his sisters, and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Another passenger was to be Mrs. Martin Luther King, whose husband fell prey to an assassin April 4.

The funeral route will take the cortege past the U.S. Senate office building where Kennedy worked, and the department of justice, where he served as attorney-general.

JOHNSON PAYS TRIBUTE

President Johnson said of Kennedy's death: "This is a time of tragedy and loss.

"During his life, he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy, yet he never abandoned his faith in America."

Kennedy was hit at least twice as his assailant emptied an eight shot, .22-calibre revolver in a swift volley as he passed through a kitchen passageway at the Ambassador.

One bullet struck his shoulder and lodged in his neck, the other penetrated to his brain.

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, in Washington, expressed "profound personal loss" at Kennedy's death.

"We have all lost a great American," he said. The vice-president appealed that Americans may find the strength "to dispel the forces of irrational hate among us."

CAMPAIGNING HALTS

Kennedy's assassination brought presidential campaigning to a halt, as candidates suspended their search for political support. And it left the future Democratic picture in turmoil.

Kennedy's victory in California had pledged to him 172 delegates to the Democratic national convention. They will represent California at the convention despite his death.

Kennedy entered the presidential race March 16, four days after Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota demonstrated the breadth of opposition to the administration by holding Johnson to a standoff in the New Hampshire presidential primary. McCarthy is the candidate Kennedy defeated in the California primary.

Kennedy had just left the victory celebration when the assassin struck.

"We shot Senator Kennedy," was the answer, she reported.

Miss Serrano said she had seen the pair earlier in the evening with another man, but the latter was not with them when they left the hotel.

Rupert for seven years, rising from section hand to engineer

He came to Victoria in 1956 and was two years with CPR freight service before joining Macdonald's Consolidated as a warehouseman. He met his wife here, the former Annet Leland and they were married eight years ago.

FIVE YEARS

Mrs. Bitterman was born at La Glace, Alberta, and her parents moved here in 1942. She attended Craigflower Elementary and Mount View High School and later worked for five years in the provincial motor vehicle branch.

The Bittermans and their children were faithful members of the Pentecostal Church and, except for their home life, the church was their main interest — especially work with young people. They had lived on Carey road for about seven years.

Their vacation, from which they were returning, was a visit to Mr. Bitterman's parents in Saskatchewan.

LITTLE GIRL

Janet, orphaned and bereft of her two sisters, will return from that vacation Friday in the care of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Funk of Kelowna. The little girl will be cared for by her grandmother here, Mrs. Alfred Leland of 3105 Yew.

Janet had been a kindergarten student at Glanford Elementary school.

Members of the Bitterman family surviving are three brothers, Carl, Henry and Alfred, all of Victoria and four sisters — Mrs. John Turner of Victoria, Mrs. Stan Smith of Cranbrook and Mrs. Art Schick and Mrs. Mike Kohlenberg, both of Melville.

Mr. Bitterman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bitterman also live at Melville.

Surviving members of Mrs. Annet Bitterman's family are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leland, 3105 Yew; a brother Julian Leland at Langford; and three sisters, Mrs. Bernice Thompson and Mrs. Christine Leys of Victoria and Mrs. Frank Funk of Kelowna.

There are many nieces and nephews in both families.

Funeral arrangements have been tentatively set for Monday at 3 p.m. at Glad Tidings Church, North Park Street with burial to follow at Royal Oak, the single service being held for the four deceased.

Seven Charges Of Bad Cheques Nets 3 Months

A 26-year-old man was sentenced today to three months in jail for seven charges of obtaining money with worthless cheques.

William Mitton, 2802 Rock Bay Ave., had earlier pleaded guilty to the charges.

Court was told the accused used worthless cheques to obtain $120 from six supermarkets. He also obtained $15.32 worth of groceries from a Sidney store.

Arabs Fear 'Israeli Propaganda'

By DENNIS NEELD

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Arab world reacted with regret today to the news that the accused assassin of Senator Robert F. Kennedy is a Jordanian-born American.

The attack was deplored, but some said the senator paid for what is regarded as the United States' pro-Israel policy in the Middle East.

The suspicion that the murder was a "Zionist plot" designed to discredit the Arabs was widely voiced with concern that Kennedy's death would cause anti-Arab sentiment.

The Beirut newspaper Al Kifah charged the assassination was a Jewish plot to prevent Kennedy from reaching the White House where he would have discovered that "the Jews were behind" the murder of his brother, President John F. Kennedy, in 1963.

Although most newspapers here used the suspect's name, Radio Cairo did not mention it in its early morning newscast. The Syrian press also omitted it.

READ HEADLINES

In Amman, knots of Jordanians gathered at street corners to read newspaper headlines.

"The Israeli propaganda machinery is going to have a field day," one housewife said glumly.

"Poor Kennedy, it's such a pity—but what do you expect?" said a taxi driver here. "Americans are a gangster people."

PESKY CONG NOT FINISHED

SAIGON (AP)—New Fighting broke out inside Saigon today after South Vietnamese rangers had reported crushing the last pocket of Viet Cong resistance in Cholon, the city's Chinese section.

Mop-up operations also continued on the northeast fringe of the capital, in the suburbs of Gia Dinh.

Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese soldiers slipped to the west of a four-block area in Cholon and outmanoeuvred the rangers who had seized the third floor of a large building near a Roman Catholic church.

The Viet Cong manoeuvred into the second floor of the building, cutting the rangers off.

Babysitter Fined

A babysitter was fined $75 today for taking $21 from the purse of her employer.

Jean Lamoureux, 37, of 3552 Tillicum, pleaded guilty to taking the money from Mrs. N. Cave, 4180 Glanford, May 8.

REGIONAL PLANNING

Municipal Governments On Way Out?

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

EDMONTON—Municipal governments will vanish in the near future to be superseded by regional districts, delegates to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities were told Wednesday.

Professor Jacques Parizeau, economic adviser to the provincial government of Quebec, said it would be "utter madness to impose four levels of government on the people."

"The life for three levels of government is exceedingly complicated at present. It would be impossible if a fourth level of government was imposed.

"Once regional governments become established in urban areas, municipalities as we know them today will vanish."

Two years ago at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities in Penticton the same fears were expressed by Greater Victoria delegates.

The Regional District of the Capital of B.C. was in those days a struggling child.

After more than two years of successful operation, local officials now feel that the regional district can work side by side with municipal governments without loss of autonomy.

CIVIL SERVICE

But the Quebec economist doesn't agree.

"No matter how well organized the urgan region is, no matter the competence of its civil service or the initiative of its leaders, there are areas of decision which, at the present time and in present circumstances, no provincial government is likely to delegate, no more than the federal government is likely to give up what it considers to be its own responsibilities.

"In other words provincial governments are likely to persist in establishing the major framework of priorities. Money will be made available for certain types of expenditures but not for others."

Prof. Parizeau said there was little doubt in his mind that as the years go by provincial governments will force regional governments or a form of amalgamation on areas now governed by a multiplicity of municipal governments.

"The concept of an urgan region has been developed to handle that (multiple government) problem. And in the future it (regional government) is likely to come into being either through mergers or as some sort of regional body with powers of its own."

Although historical and parochial pride might block amalgamation for a period, eventually it has to come the professor said.

Touching on the fiscal problems facing urban areas, Prof. Parizeau noted that wages are by far the largest element in expenditures. And he blamed trade unions for the sharp rises in wage costs.

"Until now there has been no such thing as a municipal wage policy either in Canada as a whole or in each province," he said.

"The results have been rather startling in so far as the unions have managed to set municipalities against each other and in many instances to reach wage levels and working conditions that are much better than those existing at the provincial or even the federal level.

"Some order must be introduced in the wage structure to avoid overbidding and keep increases in line with resources."

The professor said Saskatchewan developed a municipal wage structure many years ago, a move branded at the time as socialistic.

"We have now come to realize that, in fact, it is a way of life," he said.

Prof. Parizeau also forecast that some time in the future provincial governments would be forced to remove policy decisions affecting education, health and welfare from the hands of local governments.

"A slight shift in the ratio of pupils to teachers, minor adjustments in the social welfare benefit rates can have such dramatic repercussions on the provincial budget that no government in its right mind is likely in the future to leave such decisions to be taken at the local level.

"When expenditures in health and education rise by 15 per cent a year and strain all available resources, a shift of 20 per cent might be just what is needed to break the rather difficult balance of provincial finances."

HUGH CURTIS RE-ELECTED BY MAYORS

EDMONTON — Mayor Hugh Curtis was re-elected to the executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities Wednesday.

There are five other British Columbians on the national executive group. Mayor F. A. Bishop, Port Alberni; Ald. E. G. Adams, Vancouver; Mayor A. H. Emmott, Burnaby; Mayor Peter Jenewein, Maple Ridge, and Mayor Peter Wing, Kamloops.

Mayor A. M. Campbell, Scarborough, Ont., was elected president of the group replacing Mayor Vince Dantzer of Edmonton.

Manning Urges City Expansion Limit

By Staff Reporter

EDMONTON — Permier E. C. Manning said Wednesday the Alberta government is exploring the concept of limiting expansion of existing cities.

He suggested cities should not be proud of growing bigger than a rival city, that, once they have reached and optimum size, growth should end.

Ney communities should be developed far enough away from the initial city that the two do not grow together, he told the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities convention.

Edmonton Mayor Vincent Dantzer, outgoing president of the federation, said he agreed in principle with Permier Manning "but how do you stop a city from growing?"

"They tried this in Russia by requiring a person going to a city which has reached its optimum size to hold a travel visa. But you can't do that in a free society," he said.

LEADERSHIP

The premier said the change in traditional patterns of urbanization could not come through government edict but through "vigorous and imaginative leadership on the part of all levels of government, business and industry."

"It would require responsibility and self-discipline on the part of society itself."

He related his suggestion to the assassination Wednesday of U.S. Senator Robert Kennedy.

"We are appalled not only by the vicious act itself and its consequences to those involved but because acts of this kind are symptomatic of a spirt of violence and lawlessness which is becoming increasingly apparent," he said.

"This is particularly pronounced in areas where there are vast concentrations of population and where conditions develop that lead to frustrations, animosity, bitterness and sometimes violence.

"And this is coming through mass urbanization."

Earlier John R. Baldwin, deputy minister of transport, said the larger cities are gradually strangling themselves because of their inability to handle traffic congestion problems.

He said answers must be found to the problem and found as quickly as possible.

"If we do not deal with these problems, if we do not break with our traditional habits of thinking, if we lack the courage to try to face the complaints that will obviously come from some groups who feel their own interests are affected when changes in the traditional approach are proposed, what will happen? What will the cost to society be?

"I do not wish to exaggerate but I believe that the economic and social strength of our cities will be greatly weakened as a result of strangulation due to traffic congestion.

Mr. Baldwin said he did not anticipate that the automobile would soon be a thing of the past.

"While we will still see automobiles on downtown streets 25 or 50 years from now, they should not be automobiles as we know them: They will probably be completely new and different types of smaller vehicles suitable to the concepts (of the new city)."

Mr. Baldwin said there was little point in cities planning mass transit systems when the motoring public tended to ignore them.

He noted that some experts were already advocating parking fees in downtown areas at a rate so high that drivers would be forced to leave their cars at home and use the public system.

"Perhaps the real change in mass transportation will come only if we let private automobile traffic slowly grind to a halt through increasing congestion!"

The other alternative, he added, would be to make the automobile owner "bear a major part of the true costs. Perhaps only then will we be able to swing the public to willing acceptance of the obviously disagreeable thought that in the metropolitan world of the late 20th century we cannot continue to accommodate the private automobile as the principal vehicle of city transportation.'

Hunters Fined

INVERMERE, B.C. (CP) — Two Idaho hunters were fined $400 each Wednesday for shooting Rocky Mountain goats in Kootenay National Park with bows and arrows, and for having unsealed firearms in the park. John David Powers, 27, and Charles Bruce Peebles, 29, were charged after two goats were found wounded near Mount Wardle. The animals were shot by park officials.

The Plight of a Friend

THERE IS STARK DANGER IN the tragedy, and deep fear in the sorrow, that now hangs over the United States. The terrible pattern of assassination that has emerged over the past few years—the repeated infliction of violent death as a panacea for real or imagined social and political wrongs—now shocks the nation and the world. A people halts in consternation, almost in terror, to contemplate what the future may hold, as one of America's brightest political figures, himself the brother of an assassinated president, lies in death from a murderous assault.

Only a few days ago, Mr. Joseph Alsop, the well-known Washington commentator, said on this page: "Through (his speech) there ran the basic theme of this man's true compassion, his deep engagement in the problems of our time, his passionate wish to tackle those problems for the sake of America. These qualities are the core of Robert Kennedy; they are also his justification . . . for aspiring to the highest office."

It is an injustice to hold that the United States has turned to violence and lawlessness as a national way of life. Millions of Americans reject such a course. Yet it appears that the conditions of today permit, if they do not encourage, the deranged person, the man obsessed with hatred or frozen in zombie amorality, the self-appointed avenger of fancied injustices, to obtain lethal weapons with ease and carry out his senseless urge to destroy.

There is a background of violence that sets the stage: the street riots, the burnings, the muggings by city gangs and the equally brutal maulings by law enforcement officers. Violent death in the streets has become a familiar accompaniment of the social unrest of the America of today; the prevalence of faceless slaughter carries for some a fallacious implication that society will tolerate premeditated murder.

Today we have the almost unbelievable picture of the President of the United States creating a special commission to study the causes of violence in American life—surely an unprecedented measure of deep-rooted desperation in a modern state. Yet the world-wide dismay at the serious plight of that great nation is in itself a measure of the high regard in which it is still held—for the virtues of civic freedom, personal liberty and economic opportunity evolved in the United States have long been a beacon for the oppressed of many lands.

That light is now dangerously threatened. But no man is an island, neither is any nation, and none today is entirely free of the trends which are to be seen in the United States. Every democratic country now should be making a sober assesement of its own situation and possible development, with a thought to the observable fact that freedom can be abused by the minority it protects, and the idealistic vision of a great people can be clouded by the materialism of many and the anarchy of a few.

For a Federal Study of Pollution

MR. NEVILLE LIFE, THE MUnicipal engineer for Saanich, makes a valid point in his support of the municipality's efforts to seek intensive senior government research on sewage disposal. While manufacturers improve their products, and universities conduct isolated research in many fields, no major breakthrough has been achieved in meeting this increasingly serious problem of society.

In this part of the world, we have long been accustomed to channeling wastes into the sea, accepting the idea that the action of the water will eliminate contamination if installations are adequate.

Mr. Life makes the point that while spectacular technical progress has been made in other fields, science and society seem to have been satisfied with very minor modifications in the traditional approach to the sewer problem.

At a time of lower urban density, this may have been understandable. Conceivably extending outfalls and laying new mains would meet requirements for some time to come. But conditions in various areas—the seafront, Portage Inlet, the Gorge, and some streams — now emphasize the dangers of more severe pollution. Money spent on research in the elimination of contamination, could avoid far greater expenditure in the years ahead when much of what is now attractive land and water has been befouled. The Saanich resolution deserves endorsement.

To Cool the Hot Summer

TO THOSE WHO REGARD EDUcation as the best hope of lifting underprivileged peoples toward a better life—with a resultant reduction in violent discontent—an experiment by a substantial number of American schools this summer should be of interest.

The schools will remain open during the usual vacation period, offering both academic and recreational activity for children confined to the city. The plan has several points to commend it. For the serious youngster, the chance of picking up an academic credit here or there, rather than spending time in idleness, may have an appeal. If the facilities of the school—gyms and in some instances pools and playgrounds — operate under adequate supervision, the program should channel off in acceptable form the energies of those who might otherwise engage in mischief or vandalism.

The programs in various cities provide no guarantee that the long, hot summer anticipated will be completed cooled. There is, however, promise in the plan reflecting a constructive approach to a problem which, unattended, could be explosive.

Reducing the Fumes

MR. WILBUR COHEN, THE United States secretary of health, education and welfare, greets government legislation to raise air pollution standards for 1970 model cars — a measure calculated to reduce tailpipe emissions by 30 per cent—as another step in the efforts of the United States toward controlling sources of air pollution.

The secretary may hear a soulful "amen" from Canada—not because Canada is particularly active in controlling air pollution, but because American models doubtless will influence Canadian cars on the road in 1970, and exert automatic pressures on them to conform to the new standards.

Stanfield Trails With Time Running Out

Western

THERE is very little doubt that, at this stage of the campaign, the flow of reports and opinion samples from the various fronts has established Mr. Trudeau as a firm favorite and Mr. Stanfield as the underdog in the June election. The Conservatives, very naturally, shrug off these appearances, noting that the spread shown by the Gallup Poll was almost as great a month before the 1965 test. In some well-remembered battles (involving, among others, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Harry Truman) underdogs have confounded their opponents and the pollsters as well. The evident hope is that the excitement provoked by Mr. Trudeau will prove transitory; that Mr. Stanfield will be the beneficiary of sober second thought and that, after his faltering start, he will close strongly as the campaign approaches its climax.

This line of reasoning would be more persuasive if Mr. Stanfield possessed the qualities which made his predecessor so remarkable a compaigner. Mr. Diefenbaker's "give 'em hell" tactics were plainly modelled on those of Mr. Truman in 1948 but his showmanship, never better desplayed than in 1965, was his own. If his program was shreds and patches, unsaleable in the metropolitan areas, he could at least pack in the crowds with his Rivard stories, and he demonstrated over and over again an amazing ability to communicate with people in the towns and smaller centres. Although Quebec was considered hopeless, he actually outdrew Mr. Pearson even in hostile Montreal.

There is one upset to Mr. Stanfield's credit and the Conservatives are making the most of it in their current political advertisements. In 1956, he edged out the Liberals of Nova Scotia to begin his successful career in provincial politics. This was his second attempt and it was a victory over an administration weakened by the loss of the great Angus L. MacDonald and bearing the liabilities of 21 years in office. It was the achievement of a patient man who had never been in much of a hurry.

Defensive Challenger

Patience was never Mr. Diefenbaker's most outstanding attribute. He entered his campaigns thirsting for blood and never stopped until the final weekend. Mr. Stanfield, in contrast, began in a much quieter and more leisurely fashion. Although the challenger, he found himself almost immediately on the defensive because he chose, unwisely, to project himself in the Trudeau-Johnson conflict over external affairs. As a result he has only about three weeks left if he is to reverse what now appears to be a strongly Liberal trend.

It may very well turn out that Mr. Stanfield is a good man for the long haul, as he demonstrated in Nova Scotia. But this will not be of much consolation to candidates who are in trouble now.

Mr. Diefenbaker had another advantage not shared by his successor. The Liberals in 1965 were defending their record and promising more of the same. Mr. Stanfield quite rightly believes that the Liberal record is vulnerable and his recent speeches show that he would like to make it his major target. The difficulty is that the target has become elusive because the new Trudeau government has changed course quite as sharply in economic affairs as have the Conservatives in their attitude to constitutional change.

It is one thing to identify the problems from which the country is suffering (inflation, high interest rates, high cost housing and so on) and quite another to prescribe for them. Mr. Stanfield can show that the government was imprudent and extravagant in the past, although he would have a great deal more trouble in demonstrating that the Conservatives in opposition counselled responsible policies. But the fact is that Mr. Trudeau, as prime minister, has in effect indorsed the policies of fiscal integrity which Mr. Winters championed; more than this, he has demonstrated his good faith by an impressive refusal to appeal with promises involving spending commitments.

For all his native caution, it is Mr. Stanfield who has been setting the pace in this regard; Mr. Stanfield who has been arousing expectations of greater benefits while at the same time promising relief from taxes — most recently the sales tax on building materials.

Of one issue that was specifically promised, very little has been heard in the present campaing. At the time of the tax bill defeat in Parliament, Mr. Stanfield bitterly attacked the government because it chose, instead of resigning, to seek a new vote of confidence from the House. The Conservatives claimed that this was improper and unprecedented. They were not able to carry the other parties with them but they insisted that they would submit the issue to the voters, as the highest court. It seemed unlikely at the same time that it would be possible to obtain a clear verdict on this specific matter in a general election. Unless Mr. Stanfield is saving this for the final weeks, it looks as if the attempt has been abandoned, probably in consequence of sober second politics thoughts.

From talks with various Conservatives, it appears that they are counting heavily on the national television debate to swing the campaign decisively in Mr. Stanfield's favor. The impact of television is certainly formidable and there seems to be little doubt that the series of debates between Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Nixon did provide the Democrats with the narrow margin ensuring victory in 1960.

But on parliamentary performance, the Conservative expectation appears somewhat excessive. Neither of the two major contenders has yet achieved a reputation as a formidable debater in the House of Commons. Mr. Trudeau has enjoyed comparatively few opportunities but on each of these (and perhaps more conspicuously in his clashes with Mr. Johnson at the consitutional conferences) he has handled himself with competence and enough fire to arouse Liberal enthusiasm. Although Mr. Stanfield, on at least two occasions, has delivered effective attacks, his speeches have tended to be well-prepared, but generally pedestrian, efforts. There is little on the record to suggest that he could carry any particular advantage into a debate with his alert and quick-thinking adversary.

It is true that a television studio in no way resembles Parliament. Argument may count for less, the projection of personality relatively more than in the House of Commons. The Conservatives presumably hope that the Stanfield image will come through best in the historic confrontation. But since Mr. Trudeau owes so much of his spectacular success to television, it seems a hazardous speculation.

Elections are sometimes decided by quite unexpected developments. Calculations may yet be upset by some unforeseen stroke or fatal blunder. Unless appearances are altogether wrong, however, it is Mr. Stanfield who must now upset the apple carts. What must be harrowing in the circumstances is the fact that time is rapidly running out.

The Oil Insulation is Springing Leaks

Gray

REGARDLESS who wins on June 25, one of the earliest, most pressing and most complicated problems the new government will have to face will be what to do about the National Oil Policy. The National Oil Policy is a hold-over from the Diefenbaker years. It was established in 1960 in an effort to insulate the Canadian oil business from the full impact of the domination of the world oil business by a handful of huge international oil companies. The insulation is now springing leaks.

It would take 10,000 words to summarize the international background of the Canadian oil policy. The basic problem arose from the disappearance from the oil business of Adam Smith type competition with the development of huge crude oil reserves in Venezuela and the Middle East by the international petroleum giants.

The international companies are completely integrated from crude oil reserves to retail gas pumps. When they began to flood their foreign crude into their American refineries the United States domestic oil producing industry was threatened with extinction. The Eisenhower administration adopted a drastic import curtailment policy in 1956 and justified it by national defence considerations.

In 1957, U.S. export markets for Canadian oil production were lost. The huge Ontario market was threatened with imports of foreign crude and products. After exhaustive Royal Commission hearings, which were featured by agitation for a pipeline to Montreal, the Diefenbaker government set up a National Energy Board to operate a National Oil Policy.

It held a gun to the heads of the international companies, arbitrarily divided up the Canadian market and set export targets to the United States. Everything west of Ottawa was to be served by products made from Canadian crude oil. The major companies were ordered to export enough Canadian crude to the United States to balance imports into their Montreal and eastern refineries.

The international companies complied. They switched 125,000 barrels a day foreign crude to Canadian crude in their Puget Sound refineries and increased their exports to associated companies in the U.S. Middle West. They backed out Montreal products from Ontario. For half a decade, all systems were go for the oil producers. Within the last six months the National Oil Policy has shown signs of breaking down.

The Puget Sound refineries are being converted to crude from Alaska which had a discovery boom last year. The down trend in California production has been reversed by offshore discoveries. California cannot use all the production Alaska has developed so Puget Sound has to cut back, perhaps completely, on Canadian crude.

Intermittent Leakage

That is only the first verse. There has been an intermitent leakage of refined products into the Toronto market as the independent wholesale and retail outlets have been bringing in tankers of foreign processed gasoline. When that supply dried up surplus gasoline from the Montreal refineries has been brought in.

There is in plain truth no practical way for the National Energy Board to control the free enterprising Ontario independents. It can use moral suasion on the major companies because it can threaten embargoes against their imports. But the clawing and scratching independent marketers, who thrive on cut-price competition, know that no federal government is likely to take drastic action to limit importation of crude oil into Montreal. Certainly not in the interests of the oil producers of Alberta, who are mainly American-owned anyway.

So the price competition from the independents at the Ontario gas pumps has forced one major refiner to cut back on its Alberta purchases. The cut is only 15,000 barrels a day. But what comes next? More cuts by other refineries which are also being pinched by imported gasoline?

The automobilists are up in arms against the authorities who have been prosecuting them of late for exceeding the speed limit. The local motor club is taking the matter up; a special meeting of that organization having been called for next week.

They claim there are open stretches of roads with few passing vehicles, such as that in front of the Empress Hotel, where there is not the slightest danger in travelling 15 miles an hour.

Weeds in the Garden

Having taken up residence in Victoria a short while ago, it is my observation that Victoria has deteriorated from when I was first here two decades ago. Within the next two decades Victoria will be a city of slums or high rise apartments. Victoria will cease to be the home of retired people. Our country is slowly strangling our older citizens and depriving them of their homes through taxation.

Many of the streets and sidewalks are littered with trash which stays there for weeks on end; the so-called beaches are nothing but glorified dumps and the water stinks.

The bus service is lousy. One is very fortunate to make a connection without waiting anything from 15 to 60 minutes.

One has a hard time to find a washroom and when one does it is not fit to go in.—J. M. Clarke.

Not Pensioners

Public media seem to be adamant in using the word pensioners instead of allowance recipients.

The handicapped and the blind are not pensioners. We must sweat for every nickel we receive, and stretch it twice as far as the average person stretches a quarter.

We advocate that all physically handicapped and blind persons post a board of three orthopedic physicians in order to qualify for the disabled persons allowance, which should be a pension of $75 a month from the federal government and the allowance of social welfare should, of course, continue with a means test.

Those of us who are able to work could take jobs thus relieving the taxpayer of a very large burden. As it is there is no advantage for a handicapped person to seek employment and if he loses that employment must grovel in the dust to find a subsistence allowance which the average union man would dream inadequate to clothe himself, let alone keep himself. — Violet Wallden, Executive Secretary, Federated Societies for the Handicapped, Vancouver.

Bantus, Not Negroes

In recent Reuters reports from Salisbury, in both local newspapers Black Rhodesians have been referred to as Negroes. Anyone living in Rhodesia, as I presume the reporter in question does, should be acquainted with the fact that Rhodesian Africans are Bantus, who have no linguistic connection with their ancient enemy, the West African Negro, who is the cousin of the American Negro. Moreover, the physical differences between Bantus and Negroes are noticeable.

To equate the complex problems of Rhodesian Bantus with sophisticated American Negroes, who have belonged to a unified civilization for 300 years is to confuse the issue. It is like equating the problems of the American Negro with those of Canadian Eskimos.

Surely if we feel it more imperative to solve another country's racial problems than our own, we should first at least know who are its inhabitants. — Sceptical.

A 'DARK PIG' CANDIDATE

By LESLIE MILLIN

(A former Times reporter, Mr. Millin is now a staff writer with The Globe and Mail.)

A group of "Yippies," members of the American Youth International Party who describe themselves as activist hippies, at their recent "Yip-in" at Grand Central Station in New York. As an expression of their revulsion against all the candidates, the Yippies are calling for the nomination of a 300-pound hog at a YIP convention in Chicago.

In the flurry of excitement over such potential presidents of the United States as Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller, Robert Kennedy and even George Wallace, there is a risk that we may lose sight of a dark horse (or, perhaps, dark hog) candidate.

Newspapers from Los Angeles to New York are beating the drums for this candidate, but since the newspapers involved all have fairly small circulations and limited readership, he is not, as yet, well known.

If his supporters have their way, however, he will be very well known by the time the Democratic Party holds its August convention in Chicago.

His name is Pigasus, and he is the candidate of the Youth International Party, whose adherents refer to themselves as Yippees. Yippee spokesman Hugh Romney says the slogan of the party is: Let us rise up and abandon this creeping meatball.

Underground

Yippees are mostly what we might call activist hippies, and the support-Pigasus movement is promulgated through the underground press in the United States.

There have been stories and comments about the Pigasus campaign in several of the newspapers, but the gloves came off recently when Open City, one of the Los Angeles underground papers, ran a front-page story stating bluntly that Pigasus is the ideal choice for president in 1968.

Hugh Romney has written a platfrom for Pigasus, which perhaps is better described as a manifesto. "War is a complicated way of getting acquainted," one section reads. The pig's view of civil rights is somewhat more obscure: "It takes a lot of colors to make a rainbow."

On the problem of crime in the streets, Pigasus says: "Mud is very peaceful." Gold, the pig says, "is indigestible." The pig's comment on birth control is unprintable, but ends with the words ". . . is good exercise."

The nomination of a 300-pound hog for president is a way of showing the hip world's attitude to elections. Jerry Rubin, whose articles are widely read by U.S. hippies, wrote: "Elections in America are mind poison."

Park Meet

Youth International Party has offices in New York and Chicago, and plans to nominate Pigasus during a convention to be held in Grant Park in downtown Chicago. No one knows how many will attend; YIP has simply invited everyone through the medium of the underground-press. Most of the underground papers will have representatives there.

It's a pretty fair bet that the establishment press will be represented as well, because of some well known people who have promised to take part in the YIP gathering: Timothy Leary, Allan Ginsberg, Paul Krassner, Arlo Guthrie, the Fugs and Country Joe, among others.

There have been reports that Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago is worried about the YIP gathering and has said he won't stand for any nonsense.

Pigasus will come out better, apparently, than was originally thought. Hugh Romney's first plan was a parody of certain religious rites; after Pigasus was nominated, the Yippees would roast and eat him, and thus all become candidates. "We will eat the pig to show our politics . . . to devour the candidate before he can devour us," Romney wrote.

But since Romney began his careful stewardship of Pigasus, he has had a change of heart. "Since his conception, we . . . have learned to love our pig, and we plan to eat him in effigy to appease both the vegetarians and our troubled conscience."

THE GALLUP POLL

Canadian Adults 3 to 1 Favor Trudeau Dynamism

By the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

For every voter on whom Prime Minister Trudeau makes an unfavorable impression, there are three who like him, and feel he was a good choice as leader of the Liberal party.

A majority of Canadians (52%) approved his choice as leader. Half of these men and women endorse him because of his youth and energy. They see him as bringing a fresh image to the party, and describe him as brilliant; dynamic; intellectual. Second to this main reaction is a belief that as a French-Canadian, he will unite the country.

On the other hand, the smaller segment (17%) who feel he was not a good choice, give two main reasons for their attitude. His impact on these voters is that he is too frivolous, and lacks dignity. They just don't like him. Close to this point of view is the belief that he lacks experience.

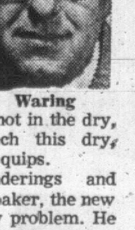
Below is the factual response when Gallup interviewers asked a carefully selected sample of the adult population why they did, or did not, think Mr. Trudeau was a good choice as Liberal leader.

A Good Choice (52%) Because:
He's young; energetic; has new ideas; is dynamic; brilliant; intellectual and will bring a new image to the party	50%
He's a French-Canadian; will satisfy Quebec; is completely bilingual and will unite country	16%
He was the best choice and will win votes; he has a good record; is popular with young people	10%
Like him; like his policies	5%
He knows what he's doing; has a tremendous potential and should be given a trial	4%
Other reasons	5%
Can't say	14%
(Some gave more than one reason)	104%

Not a Good Choice (17%) Because:
He's too frivolous; lacks dignity; too much glamor about him; just don't like him	27%
He's had no experience	25%
He will favor French-Canada; will favor East or West	10%
Other reasons (he's a bachelor; don't like his bill on divorce, abortions, homesexuality; he's travelled too much; not sincere, etc.	22%
Can't say	17%
(Some gave more than one reason)	101%

Time-Tested Stratagems For 'Steadfast Stanfield'

By GERALD WARING



Waring

OTTAWA — If the Conservatives win the election, it will be because the voters prefer a leader who engenders confidence rather than excitement, and who talks as though he might do something about the bread and butter problems of prices, jobs and economic growth.

This isn't to deny Robert Stanfield's quiet charm. But at election meetings it's so quiet as to be inaudible. Even his attempts to be funny often fall flat, because most persons take their humor broad, not in the dry, sparce, low key form in which this dry, sparce, low-key man mouths his quips.

After the Messianic thunderings and barnside-broad drollery of Diefenbaker, the new leader faces a definite credibility problem. He is only now licking it. In the Maritimes they know and love him, but where he isn't known he may go over like a lead balloon, as happened in Winnipeg on May 21. He was a little better in Regina, but it wasn't until Calgary that he loosened up enough to win a strong response from a partisan audience. In Ontario, where there is little residual Tory affection for Diefenbaker, he has been more warmly received.

* * *

Ottawa press correspondents refer to him privately as "Silent Bob" because of his laconism and reticence. This sobriquet ridicules, so a more flattering one was cooked up in top party echelons: "Steadfast Stanfield" as opposed to "Turnabout Trudeau."

Steadfastness is a strong image quality, and is consistent with the qualities of integrity, moderation and caution that Mr. Stanfield brought to the party leadership. But it is a little more difficult to relate steadfastness to his positions on public issues.

Most noticeably, perhaps, he has not been all that steadfast over the Quebec constitutional issue. He imprudently sided with Quebec's Premier Johnson on Quebec's claimed right to conduct an independent foreign policy in matters like education that are provincial responsibilities. This offended Conservatives in English Canada. Then he hedged that this is a matter requiring federal-provincial agreement. Later he announced he is against special status for any province if that means offering powers or rights to any province that are not offered to all. This is exactly the formula for a back-door special status for Quebec that Johnson failed to sell to the federal-provincial constitutional conference in February.

* * *

Otherwise Stanfield steadfastly sticks to the time-tried strategems of smiting the Grits hip and thigh, and enticing votes with promises.

"This government," he charges, "is the most reckless spender in history," guilty of "waste and extravagance," responsible for the "lagging economy," and for a "back-breaking burden of taxation."

His promises reflect his Nova Scotian caution. He did not promise Newfoundland a tunnel, but only a study of the idea. He did not promise wheat growers a flat subsidy, but only aid if their costs rise faster than their receipts. His guaranteed income is a long range goal. His eastern farm aid program would cost little.

According to his strategy, he will hold the Maritimes and the West solidly, and when the people realize that this means the Liberals cannot win a majority they will swing Tory and he will win. It's that simple. And E-Day is three weeks away.

VIETNAM IN SIX FATEFUL ACTS

Dulles Was Determined There Would Be No Vote

By
CHALMERS ROBERTS
(Third of six articles)

Geneva ended with a cease-fire agreement between the French and the Communists and a final declaration of all the conferees.

The former ended the fighting and provided for a political regroupment of opposing forces. The latter sketched out the political future, declaring that the agreed "military demarcation line" at the 17th parallel which now separates North from South, was to be considered "provisional and should not in any way be interpreted as constituting a political or territorial boundary."

The declaration also said that consultations should be held between the authorities of "the two zones" beginning on July 20, 1955, leading to "general elections" which "shall be held in July, 1956."

The elections, of course, have never been held, a fact that has aroused bitter dispute over who was to blame. What happened was that John Foster Dulles decided to make what became South Vietnam a viable state on its own.

The Saigon government, of which Ngo Dinh Diem became the head two weeks before the conclusion at Geneva, disassociated itself from the agreements. Diem's representative in Geneva was Tran Van Do, until recently the foreign minister in the current Saigon regime.

For 'Unity'

The United States, despite Soviet pressure to back the agreements, limited itself to a declaration that supported unity of Vietnam through "free elections" under United Nations supervision to assure their fairness and a statement that it would view any renewal of aggression in violation of the agreements "with grave concern and as seriously threatening international peace and security."

The common expectation in Geneva was that the results would have the effect of getting the French out and preventing the Americans from intervening. It was presumably on this basis that Molotov and Chou En-lai convinced Ho Chi Minh to accept less than full control of Vietnam.

Although there is no direct evidence, the two key Communist leaders must also have argued that in due course South Vietnam would easily fall into Ho's control. In recent years there have been comments from Hanoi which indicate that, retrospectively, the North Vietnamese Communists believe they were sold out by the Soviets and the Chinese. Many consider this a key factor in Hanoi's evident determination not to repeat the process in any new form at the current Paris talks.

South Vietnam did not fall as the ripe apple to Ho and the Communists. Two men worked together to prevent that: Dulles and Diem.

Lt.-General Andrew J. Goodpaster, now on the Harriman delegation in Paris and named by President Johnson to be the number two American military leader in Vietnam after Gen. William C. Westmoreland returns home, was then the top White House military aide to Eisenhower.

In a 1966 statement for the Dulles oral history project at Princeton, Goodpaster recalled that after the Geneva settlement "Dulles thought that it was perhaps not quite down the drain" although, said Goodpaster, "everyone else, I think, felt that it was." Dulles "felt that there might be something in this that would be worth trying to salvage, trying to sustain."

One In 10

To assess the prospects, Dulles got Eisenhower to send Gen. J. Lawton Collins, suggested by Goodpaster, to South Vietnam in late 1954. Collins recalled, also for the oral history project, that when he was leaving Washington Dulles said to him: "Frankly, Collins, I think our chances of saving the situation there are not more than one in 10."

Some months later, after visiting Saigon himself and hearing Collins' report after the general's return to Washington, Dulles commented that it now looked more like a 50-50 chance. Added Collins: "And he was very well pleased."

By now, Stalin's successors in the Kremlin, and the men in Peking as well, were talking up "peaceful coexistence" between the Communist and non-Communist worlds. Dulles remained unconvinced of any change of heart and he determined to hold the line at the 17th parallel in Vietnam as well as the 38th parallel in Korea, the two fringes of what he considered Communist power centred in Peking and, perhaps, directed from Moscow.

It would take a leader in Saigon, however, to make such a holding operation work and that man was Diem. A Vietnam nationalist and a Catholic, Diem had been living in the United States since 1951, mostly at Maryknoll Seminary in Lakewood, N.J., with occasional trips to Washington to discuss Vietnam with such men as Sen. Mansfield and Rep. John F. Kennedy. He also frequently met with Francis Cardinal Spellman in New York.

Diem had wanted the post in Saigon and it had been offered to him by Emperor Bao Dai, but each time Diem demanded a total end of French control and a free hand for himself. This he finally got when he took over the government on July 7, 1954. He had, by then, powerful friends in Washington who were to sustain him in the years ahead as he fought the Communists.

Twenty-six days after the Geneva Accords were signed, Eisenhower tranferred aid directly to Vietnam rather than through France. But the French were unhappy with Diem and wanted someone they felt would be more amendable to protection of their economic and cultural interests in Vietnam.

SECRETARY DULLES
. . . Diem's backer

Dulles balked and his associates called on Mansfield for help. The senator stated, on returning from a Vietnam trip, that "In the event that the Diem government fails . . . the United States should consider an immediate suspension of all aid to Vietnam and the French Union forces there." The French officers in these forces were soon to leave but Diem was long to stay.

The French reluctantly agreed to back Diem. On Oct. 23, 1954, President Eisenhower sent a latter to Diem in response to Diem's request for aid. The President said the aid was to assist South Vietnam in "developing and maintaining a strong, viable state, capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression through military means."

Eisenhower also expressed the hope that Diem's government would be "so responsive to the nationalist aspirations of its people, so enlightened in purpose and effective in performance, that it will be respected both at home and abroad and discourage any who might wish to impose a foreign ideology on your free people."

The letter, drafted by Kenneth Young in the State Department, is the one President Johnson has often cited to show that the current American involvement was begun by Republican President Eisenhower. Eisenhower has complained in private about this use of his letter but has never done so publicly.

By July, 1955, when the consultations for the elections in all of Vietnam were to begin under the terms of Geneva, Diem was in a strong position internally. His government had absorbed the nearly 900,000 refugees from the north, 250,000 of which had been evacuated and brought south in American naval vessels.

Diem said he was for unification and for free elections "to achieve that unity." But he was "skeptical" about holding them in the North, where "a regime of oppression" was in power. Furthermore, his government did not sign and was "not bound in any way" by the Geneva Accords. Hence "nothing constructive will be done" as long as the Communists deny democratic freedoms.

Two States

The North objected, called for a renewed Geneva conference but Moscow and Peking paid little attention. The Soviets seemed so satisfied with the division that in 1957 they proposed admitting both Vietnams to the United Nations along with the two Koreas, but the United States opposed admission of the two Communist states.

To Washington it looked as though Dulles was right and that economic aid and some military training help to Diem would indeed produce a viable state and result in a stable line at the 17th parallel.

Furthermore, Dulles had constructed SEATO and used it to put an umbrella of international support over South Vietnam as a "protocol state." Along with Dulles, two senators signed on behalf of the United States. One of them was Mansfield.

The United States had greater problems elsewhere in the final Eisenhower years, notably with Nikita Khrushchev over the U-2 and the Soviet sputnik and ICBM developments. Few other than those directly concerned paid attention to Vietnam; it all seemed to be going well.

Ho Chi Minh seemed absorbed in rebuilding the North. Despite an abortive coup, Diem seemed well in control in the South and there was talk of a "miracle" of post-war development. And there were no American battle casualties.

Yet the United States was, in fact, sliding into what was to become the second Indochina war. The U.S. understood the Communists' aim, but of their plans and strategy it was woefully ignorant.

Next: Kennedy's intervention.

Pompidou Likely De Gaulle's Heir

By ERIC WENTWORTH

PARIS — "Pompidou," President Charles de Gaulle is said to have remarked two decades ago, "Pompidou — that doesn't sound serious. If you want to get somewhere you'll have to change your name."

Georges Jean Raymond Pompidou never did change his comic-opera name, but he got somewhere anyway. And through the current French crisis, de Gaulle's able prime minister has proven he has staying power to boot. At times, he seemed to be carrying the government's burdens all by himself like a lonely, latter-day Atlas.

Only last Wednesday, desperate Gaullists were insisting that Pompidou and his cabinet be dumped to save a regime that seemed to be teetering on the brink of disaster.

●

But the next day, when de Gaulle launched his 11th-hour counter-attack against a supposed Communist takeover, he made one point very clear: "I will not change the prime minister, whose value, solidity and ability merit the homage of all."

And on Friday, Pompidou announced a broad overhaul of the cabinet which he would continue to run after six years as premier.

Over the past month, Pompidou was unable himself to stem the tide of rebellion first among students and then among millions of workers whose nation-wide strike tied the French economy into a Gordian knot. It was increasingly clear only de Gaulle himself — if anyone — could save the day.

But the 56-year-old premier threw himself repeatedly into the fray with occasional eloquence and unbounded energy.

It was Pompidou, returning May 11 from a trip to the Middle East, who momentarily ended violent street fights between students and police by bowing to some of the students' immediate demands despite later grumbling by the police who felt he had let them down.

●

It was Pompidou again, on May 14 after de Gaulle left the country for his much-criticized state visit to Romania, whose broad-ranging speech with its promise of educational reforms temporarily silenced a National Assembly which earlier in the day had practically come to fisticuffs.

Before his departure, de Gaulle had entrusted Pompidou with emergency presidential powers for only the second time since his premier took office in 1962.

Whether Pompidou has won new friends in the nation at large through these efforts is impossible to assess for the moment. But it would seem clear his willingness to "stay in the kitchen and take the heat" has earned him new stature in de Gualle's own eyes.

●

And in that respect, assuming the general can pick a political heir when the time comes, Pompidou is more likely than ever to be his choice.

When de Gaulle left power in 1946, Pompidou stayed in the government as a tourism promoter and later with the council of state, at administrative appeals court. At the same time, he grew closer to de Gaulle on the side as one of the general's informal aides.

Then, in 1954, Pompidou quit government service to try his keen mind in a new field, as an executive with the Rothschild bank. With triple his former salary, he began to indulge a taste for modern painting and moved with his wife and son to a large apartment on the Ile Saint Louis.

When de Gaulle launched his new regime in 1958, Pompidou served him six months as chief of his administrative staff. He then returned to banking, but handled special assignments for the general including key talks with Algerian rebel leaders in 1961.

●

When President de Gaulle surprised veteran politicians by naming Pompidou his prime minister the following year, however, the general was giving him his first real crack at political leadership. Uncertain at first, Pompidou taught himself to debate skillfully before the assembly and gradually gained a firmer grip on his cabinet and Gaullist politicians.

At first little more than a loyal spokesman for the general, Pompidou earned slow recognition as a leader in his own right. Even before the present crisis he was winning repeated mention as de Gaulle's eventual successor, and seemed to be taking the prospect most seriously.

Assuming de Gaulle's government weathers the crisis, and the signs point that way at the moment, it will probably be some time before the impact of Pompidou's role in it can be reckoned on the prime minister's own political tallysheet. The results, however, bear watching.

Tories Looking For 'Maturity'

By PETE LOUDON

Maturity, if not age, will be the distinguishing mark of a wave of canvassers setting out this week to knock on doors for the Victoria Conservative campaign.

"We are not anxious to have flower children going around on our behalf," explained campaign worker Don Harvey today.

He said enlistment of Tory canvassers is well under way and an energetic canvass is planned over the next three weeks.

"We have put out a call for canvassers of a mature nature.

"We are not looking for dear old ladies with cherries on their hats. But if some youngster started explaining Mr. Stanfield's background to me, I might not be so willing to take his advice," said Mr. Harvey.

Mr. Harvey's comment followed a recent crash campaign on a door-to-door basis which involved about 85 young university people representing the Liberal party.

Organized by Stephen Bigsby, former president of Uvic student council, the youngsters are not necessarily Liberals but all have been enthused by the Trudeau image, he explained.

Many more young canvassers, above and beyond the 85 who travelled in pairs pairs through the north Shelbourne area last Thursday have been inlisted, Liberal officials said. But they won't say how many.

The NDP also has about 30 young people calling at homes.

But many of them are delivering literature and leaving the gospel work to candidate Dr. Harvey Richardson, campaigners stated today.

All three parties are putting emphasis on personal contact in this campaign and public meetings are being kept to a minimum — which greatly cuts campaign costs.

The girls at St. Ann's were such an attentive audience for local Grits Dave Groos and Dave Anderson Wednesday they were promised a preference when usherettes and cheering squads are recruited for the PM's appearance here. The grade 10 and grade 9 girls swooned with delight at the announcement. The grade 11 and 12s are wearing long faces. They'll be writing exams when Canada's most famous kisser arrives.

Good ideas must be catching. A week ago Esquimalt-Saanich NDP candidate Don Johannessen told a rural audience he favored formation of a company of mature Canadians. These would be retired people of experience who could be useful in external affairs, assisting underdeveloped countries. Tuesday we had the same proposal aired by Victoria Liberal candidate Dave Groos.

"I am glad," says Mr. Johannessen, "that the NDP is still fulfilling its role as a supplier of ideas for other parties." Mr. Groos replies the idea was mooted by a Toronto Grit two years ago.

To the electorate at large it's refreshing to see candidates of opposing sides agree upon anything.

Anyone with a sweat shirt and a yen for exhibitionism can have 'Go-Go Trudeau' stencilled across the front or back at Victoria Liberal headquarters for 10 cents. Cards are also available there for anyone requiring a rug or chesterfield cleaned. The owner of the firm which has made the cards available promises that when the card is presented with a cleaning job the money collected will go the Liberal party.

Voters in Esquimalt municipality in 1965 lived in Victoria federal riding but now they are in Esquimalt-Saanich. They voted 32 per cent Liberal, 24 per cent Conservative, 22 per cent Social Credit and 19 per cent NDP.

If the voting pattern is unchanged the switch in ridings should help Liberal Dave Anderson's chances in Esquimalt-Saanich and Conservative Eric Charman's hopes in Victoria. But it isn't too vital to either. Only 4,288 votes were involved.

No tickets will be required for the T. C. Douglas NDP rally at Memorial Arena June 23 but with waves of supporters expected from up-Island areas early arrival at the 8 p.m. meeting is recommended, party officials say. A collection will be taken to boost party campaign funds.

ONLY INDEPENDENT candidate to appear to date in the capital region for the June 25 federal election, George Burnham filed his nomination papers Wednesday. Restoration of the red ensign as Canada's national flag is his main platform plank. He is running in Victoria riding.

WHO GETS WHAT?

Premier, Minister Clash Over Money

Premier Bennett Wednesday rejected claims that B.C. gets more money from Ottawa than it gives and repeated earlier charges that the federal government sees this province as a "goblet to be drained."

The premier was striking back at a claim by federal Minister Without Portfolio Jack Davis that the province receives $1,200,000,000 from federal sources and contributes $1,034,000,000 in return to Ottawa.

Mr. Bennett said provincial finance department studies show B.C. gets only $381,000,000 from Ottawa in return for $1,236,000,000 which it contributes.

The figure might be closer to $1,500,000,000 when the province's share of the federal debt payments and other costs are considered.

Mr. Bennett also said he and some cabinet ministers would take some part in the federal election campaign a bit later.

Previously he had declined to comment on whether he would help Socred candidates.

He said there would be no rallies or political speeches but he would get out to meet the voters.

The wood formed in the later part of the growing season usually has cell walls which are thicker than those formed earlier. This gives the annual ring effect.

One-of-a-Kind Nursery School Seeks Teacher

DUNCAN — Despite an increased enrolment, Cowichan Indians' nursery school will still have only one teacher next year.

President of the Co-operative Mothers' Nursery School Association, Mrs. Shirley Thomas, said today, "We're trying to find a replacement for a teacher who has resigned."

And Mrs. Thomas said the association's dream of a school building of its own may be several years away.

The association is negotiating for renewal of its lease in Duncan United Church hall.

Mrs. Thomas said because of restricted accommodation the pre-school Indian children can only be accepted for a morning session.

SPECIAL SCHOOL

About the mothers' hope for a special nursery school on the reserve, Mrs. Thomas said, "It would be available to non-Indian children also.

"If integration is to be successful it must be a two-way street."

The Cowichan nursery school is the only one in Canada administered by Indian mothers and Mrs. Thomas said, "We consider the program a great asset in preparing our children for the public school system."

Registration of four-year-olds for next year's term takes place Wednesday at Duncan United Church.

Already the nursery is assured of an enrolment of 25 children compared to 21 last year.

Lumber Mill Co-Op Urged For Hillcrest

DUNCAN — Tory candidate Jeff Brock was at Mesachie Lake Wednesday to meet the management of Hillcrest Lumber Company, Ltd.

He said this morning: "I'm exploring the possibility of the formation of a co-operative to operate the Hillcrest mill similar to the operation of Richmond Plywood Corporation on the Mainland."

Hillcrest is threatened with total shutdown in September because of a lack of log supply.

NDP candiate Colin Cameron said Monday the mill could be kept in operation by the expropriation of the CPR and its timber holdings.

Hillcrest has been dependent on cutting timber from CPR holdings and now the latter is logging on its own account through the subsidiary, Pacific Logging Ltd.

Mr. Brock described the expropriation proposal as "irresponsible prattlings by a tired old socialist."

He said: "Purchasing the assets of the CPR would involve a government expenditure well in excess of one billion dollars.

"Where does Mr. Cameron propose to find the money—from the taxpayers' pockets?"

Mr. Brock said CPR remains willing to sell logs to Hillcrest at market price.

FORM CO-OP

He said, "What more can be expected of CPR?"

Mr. Brock stated, "Under the circumstances the solution may well be the formation of a co-operative sponsored by those millworkers affected by the proposed shutdown, encouraged by the Stone brothers (mill owners).

"If this can be accomplished I'm confident the CPR can be prevailed upon to make one further year's log supply available for Hillcrest Mill to ensure a continuing operation while the co-op is being formed."

Hillcrest director Peter Stone said this morning, "Until I have considered this with my fellow directors I can make no comment."

Club Completes First Phase Of Mann Park

DUNCAN — Chairman Bob Lewis of the Art Mann Park development committee reported Wednesday first phase of landscaping and parking for 50 cars has been completed.

The Art Mann Park is a Duncan Kinsmen Club project on the shores of Quamichan Lake.

The club bought five acres of lake front property for $10,000 in 1965 and has paid $8,000 of this total.

Mr. Lewis says Kin members hope to tackle dredging of a bay to provide a safe swimming area. This work will begin in September.

Final part of the park project will be building of an Indian style longhouse, playgrounds, washroom facilities and a playing field.

TOP SOIL

By far the cheapest soil nutrient for your lawn and shrubs. If applied as top dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. ft.) it will, after three yearly applications, develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made. Top-dressed lawns moreover are far less vulnerable to weeds, and most important of all, require less watering. One yard of topsoil weighing about 2,500 pounds, costs you four dollars. In comparison, one dollar of chemical fertilizer will buy only about 15 pounds of fertilizer, which at best contains only three pounds of plant food. It will, therefore, act as a short-lived stimulant without any lasting value.

FIRE GUTS BALL PARK DUGOUT

DUNCAN — South End volunteer firemen saved the grandstands at Pioneer Park from destruction Wednesday afternoon.

The stands were threatened when fire gutted one of the Little League players' dugouts.

Fire chief Pat Clackson said the dugout fire was apparently caused by boys playing with matches.

He estimated it will cost $200 to replace the 12-foot dugout.

A Wednesday evening ball game had to be cancelled because of the large amount of water lying in the playing area.

If the fire had reached the grandstands it might also have engulfed the James Street curling rink next door.

School Addition Bids Under Cost Ceiling

Bids for two school additions in the Sooke district have met the provincial government's cost ceiling.

The school board has approved a price of $176,543 submitted by W. Campbell, Ltd., for an eight-room addition to Edward Milne High School. Only two of the five bids were under the government's limit of $180,000 or $22,500 per high school classroom. High bid was $196,793.

The eight rooms include two shops and a science room, said district superintendent Ernest Hyndman. To meet the price limits millwork in the shops will be minimal and plumbng in the science room will be just roughed in.

The other project is a four-room addition to Happy Valley Elementary School, where T. Lambie & Son, of Victoria, submitted the low price of $61,716. Cost ceiling here was $64,000. There were eight bids.

Architect for both additions is the firm of Peterson & Lester.

WIDE - EYED autograph hunters surround Revenue Minister Jean Chretien during his visit Wednesday to Lake Cowichan Elementary School. Pupils stayed more than an hour after school to listen to the minister and ask questions.

Minister's Act a Tough One to Follow for Tory

LAKE COWICHAN — Revenue Minister Jean Chretien's chat with Lake Cowichan Elementary School pupils Wednesday smacked of politics, so school officials hurriedly rounded up Conservative candidate Admiral Jeffry Brock, ret., to follow the minister on the speakers' list.

he minister's was a tough act to follow.

Despite the officials' pleas, when Mr. Chretien finished speaking and left, most of the pupils left too.

He is the first acting federal minister to visit this community of 2,500 in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding.

When Mr. Chretien asked the pupils, who stayed more than an hour after school to listen and pepper him with questions, whether he should speak in English or French, they exuberantly demanded French. He spoke in both languages.

Between autographs, the minister answered such pointed questions: "Are you married?" And, of cabinet meetings: "Does everyone get a fair chance to talk or are some members squashed?"

Mr. Chretien was stumping with Liberal candidate Miladin Zorkin.

Land Tax on Speculation 'Worth Look'—Minister

A tax on land speculation Wednesday was referred to by National Revenue Minister Jean Chretien as "worth looking at" as a means of stabilizing the cost of housing.

The minister made a brief campaign visit to North Saanich on behalf of Liberal candidate David Anderson, where he met about a dozen party workers, businessmen and private guests in a summer home overlooking Saanich Inlet.

Given the high cost of land as reason why new home construction is prohibitive to many persons, the minister was asked whether he favored a capital gains tax on land sales to discourage speculation.

Mr. Chretien said he could not make further comment on the suggestion other than to say it was "worth looking at. I don't say we'll accept it."

Mr. Chretien said implementation of the Carter taxation report "as such" would dry up provincial revenue sources, which would not help federal-provincial relations.

TAX SYSTEM

"We do plan to reform the tax system, but we have to think of federal-provincial relations," he said, referring specifically to Quebec and B.C.

The 34-year-old minister stopped less than two hours en route by seaplane from a Cowichan engagement to Squamish, after which he was to fly overnight to Edmonton.

Mr. Chretien's tour of B.C. was tight, including Golden, Radium, Invermere, Fairmont, Cranbrook, Kimberley, Vancouver, Ganges, Cowichan, North Saanich and Squamish in a 36-hour period.

But he showed no marks of stress, listened carefully to questions and replied as fully as he could —with humor— despite a "no promises" campaign.

IRRESPONSIBLE

On the subject of land cost, the minister said provincial governments have a greater responsibility than Ottawa, and when confronted with the statement that an $8,000 minimum income is necessary today before an individial can secure mortgage funds, he said: "It is irresponsible to say that everyone is entitled to own a home."

Mr. Chretien was asked to comment on a suggestion that a proposed Canada Development Corporation — to stimulate new investment — could become a "huge political pork barrel."

He said such a body should be as free from political influence as the government-owned Air Canada. It was his personal view that the CDC should be controlled by mixed direction from the government and private sector of the national economy.

The corporation should be used wholly for development of new industry, rather than to buy back Canadian industry in control of foreign investors. The latter role could result in CDC simply acting the role of a broker between potential buyers, he said.

Mr. Chretien said he did not oppose foreign investment in Canada.

Government must "develop confidence in the future," he said. It could not successfully legislate against the outflow of dollars into U.S. securities.

NO DOUBT

Youth, too, will develop investment interests "if there is no doubt about the future of Canada."

The minister said a balanced federal budget would be an example of steps that could be taken to reduce demands on capital, and thus interest rates, rather than monetary means. "I don't say we will balance," he added, but the effort was being made.

Finally, he predicted that out of 74 redistributed Quebec seats—including his own St. Maurice Lafleche — Liberals would win 60, June 25.

Forces Get New Band

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Stock markets appeared today to have done any discounting they would do because of the killing of Sen. Robert Kennedy as gains were posted on both the Toronto and New York exchanges.

There was no immediate reaction in foreign exchange markets although the British pound eased.

'Promising' Uranium Find in B.C.

The first southern B.C. uranium strike in a decade was reported today by Norex Uranium Ltd., which has 66 mineral claims in the China Creek area between Castelgar and Trail.

Norex president Ralph Ernewin, of Vancouver, said preliminary sampling of the property had produced amounts ranging from a trace to several pounds per ton and a $36,000 program of diamond drilling has been commenced.

He called the strike "promising" and said a three-stage exploration program is planned at a possible total outlay of $336,000.

A spokesman in the provincial mines department called the find geologically interesting in that previous uranium strikes have been reported further north but remain undeveloped.

Uranium production in Canada is limited to northern Ontario—Elliott Lake area—and Eldorado-Uranium City area of northern Saskatchewan.

World demand for uranium in the next few years cannot be met with current productive capacity, it is estimated, which has led to accelerated exploration activity in the last two years.

MANY CLAIMS

Mr. Ernewin said several other companies are active in the China Creek area and more than 200 claims have been registered for prospecting and proving over an area of some 40 square miles.

He said the area had been first prospected around the turn of the century.

If justified by the first stage, a second phase of exploration would be undertaken at a cost of $150,000 over three months, with a third for a similar amount pending results of phase two.

Norex recently sold out an initial offering of 250,000 shares at $1 each. Shares are due to be listed on Vancouver Stock Exchange Monday.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — The appearance of U.S. selling in flax contributed to declines at the close of trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Toward mid-session fairly active trade developed in flax and barley but flax prices were erratic in fairly good volume.

Good volume was taken by domestic shippers on declines in barley influenced by local selling.

Moderate activity in oats was associated with domestic trade.

Some inter-month spreading was evident in rapeseed and rye dealings with prices fractionally easier in a light trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Active buying by all facets of the trade sent grain futures prices ahead on the board of trade today.

Soybean meal prices again set some seasonal highs while soybean oil posted new lows. Soybean prices, however, closed on an irregular note. Buying of wheat futures was active from the start.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Record List Of New Firms

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Proliferation of business registrations in British Columbia is going on at an ever-increasing pace.

Kent

The significance usually is taken as a sign of general prosperity, but backing this view with figures can be a lengthy and involved exercise.

There is no ready source of statistics by way of the provincial government's trade and industry department.

The actual numerical volume of new incorporations is of itself accepted as an indicator of business confidence in current and future activities.

Last month's total was, indeed, impressive — an all-time high of 597 new companies, 39 more than the previous record set only in March. The month of May 1967 also set a record for registrations up to that time, a total of 514 new B.C. companies.

May of this year was the 10th consecutive month in which registrations showed a gain over the same month for the previous year.

* * *

It evoked this comment from Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, wearing his new attorney-general's hat as minister responsible for company registrations:

"It is a strong and healthy trend in the economy of the province at a time when it would appear that some other jurisdictions are having some economic problems."

This was apparently a reference to the have-not provinces like Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and possibly Saskatchewan.

But the minister qualified his comment by admitting that other factors have an effect on economic prosperity besides the growth of business. He did not go into detail.

However, it might be asked where does B.C. stand month-by-month in relation to the other provinces when it comes to organizing new corporations? Comparative figures are not kept by the provincial registrar of companies.

(J. K. Young, director of the companies branch for Ontario, said new companies are registered there at a rate of 125-150 per week for a total last year of about 8,000. The last six months has shown a "definite uptrend," and "upwards of 8,000" are expected this year. That puts Ontario — with probably the most company registration of any province—only slightly ahead of B.C. at last month's rate.)

Then, how much capital investment — on a monthly basis — do the new companies represent? How many new jobs do they create? What types of enterprise do the companies engage in? Do they use local raw materials to make a product and is it for export or for domestic consumption? Do they rely mainly on providing services to people? Are they based on speculation? The list could go on.

To answer these questions would mean canvassing each of the new companies added each month to the roll, an obviously difficult task.

The bureau of economics is able to give only partial answers. It does not, for example, distinguish between capital spent by an established firm and a new one concurrently with the issue of monthly totals by the company registry.

And besides, only the manufacturing, utility and construction industries are recorded in this way under the existing system.

To do otherwise might be impractical, especially on a monthly basis since it can be assumed that a proportion of the new companies will be late starting up or never get off the ground.

Meanwhile, some confidence at least may be taken from the fact that in the first five months of 1968 the new B.C. companies registered represent more than half the total added to the roll in 1967—2,622 for the period January-May, averaging better than 500 per month.

In 12 months last year, 5,080 companies were registered for the first time, also a record.

* * *

There was a drop of 10 in the registration of companies with headquarters outside of B.C.—from 49 a year ago to 39 last month.

New societies numbered 36 against 29 in May 1967; co-operatives stood firm at one, and partnerships declined by six to 142.

* * *

Imagination will ever triumph it seems, even over sewage disposal.

One of the most arresting new firms to gain corporate status is a Vancouver business man's creation aimed at catering to a basic but temporary need where facilities are lacking. Walter Roosdahl, of Richmond, with 99 shares, and wife Frances, with one share of the 10,000 authorized, have set up Johnny-on-the-spot Toilet Rentals Ltd., to offer chemical toilets and janitor services where needed.

Mission Hill Wines Ltd., of Kelowna, has shipped its first red wine—a Canadian burgundy. This operation started up in late 1966 and made its first entry to the market eight months ago after capital expenditure of nearly $1¼ million over three years.

Its 600 shareholders are largely resident in B.C. and Alberta.

$1.4 BILLION DRAW FROM IMF BY BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — Britain will draw $1,400,000,000 from the International Monetary Fund, it was announced Wednesday.

The treasury said the money will be drawn from the IMF, under the standby arrangements made last November, to reorganize the British debt arrangements.

The drawing will be used to repay a short-term debt to the central banks.

TO CALIFORNIA

Canadian Gas Export Argued

WASHINGTON (CP) — Argument for and against the import of another 200,000,000 cubic feet daily of Alberta natural gas was presented Wednesday to the Federal Power Commission.

The commission heard 12 submissions in a one-day session called before it rules on the additional gas for California.

A commission examiner has recommended approval of the proposal by Pacific Gas Gransmission Co. of San Francisco to step up its imports by Nov. 1, 1969, to 815,000,000 cubic feet daily.

But he also commended the temporary diversion of half this additional gas to the Los Angeles area. This would mark the farthest-south penetration of Canadian gas since its import was first approved in 1960.

It would also clash with the policy of the National Energy Board of Canada that exports go to the areas specified in the export application, rather than being shifted beyond a temporary period.

OPPOSES ADDITION

The Independent Petroleum Association of America, which wants limits applied to the rate of increase in Canadian gas supplies, urges rejection of the addition. It said Tuesday that approval would make Pacific Gas dependent on Western Canada for 35 per cent of its gas, too high a proportion of foreign gas.

Coupled with the Canadian gas request there is a proposal by El Paso Natural Gas Co. to provide higher volumes to southern California from Texas.

The commission staff, whose suggestions are not binding, has countered with a proposal for a big 42-inch line into California by El Paso. This would make additional Canadian gas in the state unnecessary, the staff says.

The staff view in this and another recent case is that gas from Alberta and British Columbia would serve a better economic purpose in states north of California. Meanwhile, California would be reserved for American gas.

El Paso opposes the big project on grounds California gas needs should be met promptly for the next two winters. Tuesday, it forecast prolonged delay including court cases if the big line is approved.

It said it is not opposed in principle to the concept.

Annual Meet Friday For School Athletes

Friday's sports spotlight will shine on Centennial Stadium, where the eighth annual all-schools track and field meet is scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m.

Organized by the Greater Victoria Elementary Schools Sports Association, the meet promises to produce a lot of entertainment and a few records if it follows the pattern of recent years.

Track events range from 85-yard dashes to quarter-mile relays. Field events will be limited to long and high jumps. Competitions will be held in four sections, from nine and under to open.

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

By Ernie Fedoruk

Just Call It a Sticky Question . . .

That factory fire in Cornwall, Ont., earlier this week really does have the lacrosse people worried.

Tuesday's blaze destroyed Colin Chisholm's plant which reportedly produced about 97 per cent of the world's lacrosse sticks.

DAVE UNWIN

Stories during the past two days made a point of stressing an impending shortage.

Impending?

According to Victoria Shamrocks officials, National Lacrosse Association teams have been pulling their hair all season long in an effort to secure an adequate supply of the gutted sticks.

On Wednesday eve, a chap asked Dave Unwin, the Shamrock coach, "how will the fire affect your supply?"

"What supply?" asked Unwin, "We were trying to get sticks before the season even started. We just can't get 'em."

Chisholm sticks have always been at a premium in recent years. In this era of prefabrication and assembly lines, the production of lacrosse sticks stood out as one of the last outposts of hand craft.

A certain amount of assembly-line tactics and modernization had to be implemented to produce 50,400 sticks last year.

●

The most tedious part of production rests not with individuals, however, but in the wood. The superior product requires careful and lengthy treatment. The hickory must be just the right age when it is cut, then cured and dried. The treatment can take as long as three years.

As it happens, the ingenious Japanese are sitting in the background with a fibreglass stick. Unwin didn't seem overly enthused about the Japanese product, but it may become an accepted import just like "German" cameras.

Another answer may come from the Nanaimo area.

A three-man stick-producing operation was launched up-Island a few years ago. It is still a very small operation which certainly won't match the 74,000 figure that Chisholm planned to produce this year.

If the Nanaimo firm is able to take advantage of the situation, it could lead to a new industry on Vancouver Island.

Shamrocks, in the meantime, take care to repair broken sticks as best as they can.

The team rarely goes through a game without at least one stick breaking. Last Friday, against Vancouver, the Shamrocks broke or cracked five crosses. Wednesday, another one was broken.

Here, now, is employment for a lacrosse stick mender. Full-time employment.

Hubby-Wife Event Carded at Colwood

Some call it the "ball-and-chain" event.

Others refer to it as a "war department argument."

Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club politely titles it the "Mr. and Mrs. Tournament" and the city-wide golf event seems to be gaining increasing popularity among husband-and-wife golfing teams.

The annual 18-hole medal event has attracted 53 couples, including defending champions Dorothy and Andy De Girolamo of Gorge Vale.

This year's hunt for the silverware will be played Saturday, starting at 11 a.m.

PASS RHODESIA

Cricket Bows To 'Pressure'

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The English cricket team which will tour South Africa later this year has bowed to British government pressure and has left Rhodesia out of its 20-match itinerary.

The South African Cricket Board reported: "The Marylebone Cricket Club in consultation with the British government have decided not to play in Rhodesia."

In London the Marylebone club said in a statement: "Following advice from Her Majesty's government and in the light of the present circumstances it has been decided that MCC will not play in Rhodesia."

AT ST. LOUIS STOKERS WIN

Royals Play to Draw

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

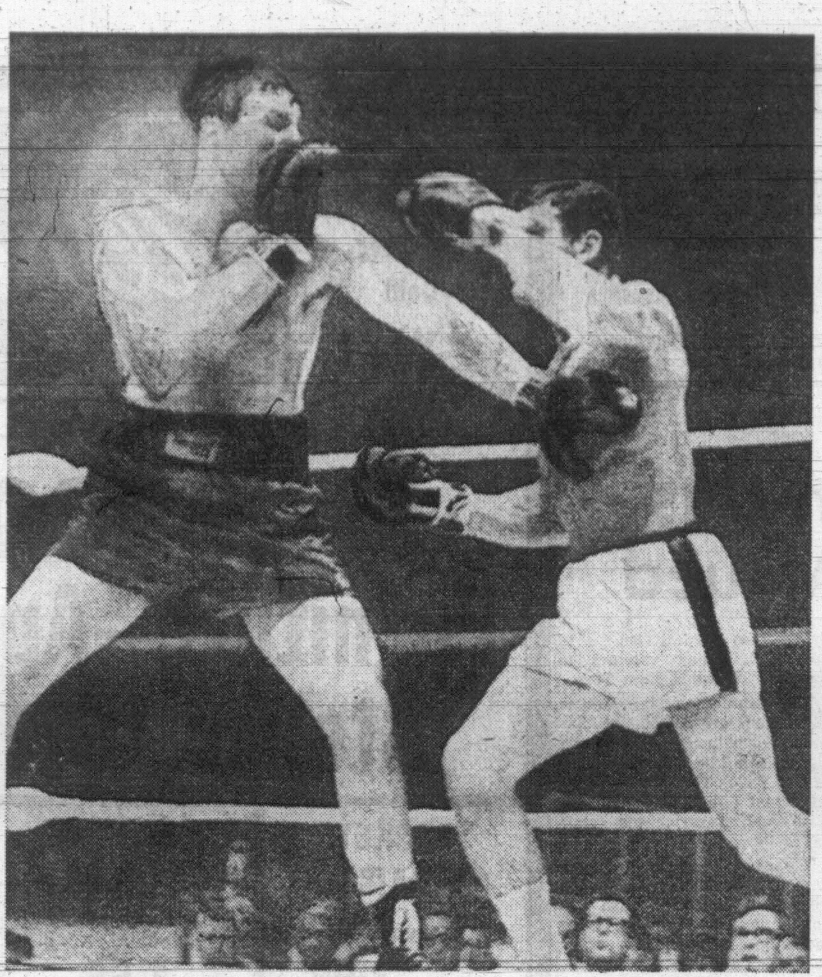
St. Louis Stars and Vancouver Royals struggled to a 0-0 North American Soccer League tie Wednesday night in a hard-fought battle before a crowd of 5,902 at St. Louis.

Both teams had their chances and both teams came up with the necessary defensive plays to keep their goals uncrossed.

Wai Cheung of Vancouver had a great chance when he broke in alone on St. Louis goalie Barny Vidinic in the second half. But Vidinic came out fast, cut the angle and forced Cheung's shot wide.

At Oakland, Cleveland Stokers climbed back into top spot in the Lakes Division with a 3-2 win over Oakland Clippers.

Oakland led 2-1 until Armancio Cid scored the evener for Cleveland at 27:20 of the second half. Enrique Mateos tallied the winning goal at the 43-minute mark.



TOO MUCH FOR CHALLENGER

Weight and experience of Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo were too much for Montreal challenger Jean Claude Roy (right) in title fight Wednesday night in Regina. Chuvalo, with almost 30-pound pull in weight at 212 pounds, took unanimous decision in 12-round bout as he started comeback after suffering eye injury in defeat by Joe Frazier. He now wants bout with Jimmy Ellis. (CP Wirephoto.)

Joe, Dave Had a Ball, But Buddy Had to Pay

By Associated Press

It was a grand evening for Joe Pepitone and Dave Johnson, but not for Buddy Bradford.

Pepitone drove in six runs—four of them with a grand slam home—leading New York Yankees to a 7-2 romp over Minnesota Twins Wednesday night.

Johnson also hit a grand slam as Baltimore Orioles belted California Angels 7-1.

But Bradford—the first victim of Eddie Stanky's campaign to wake up his Chicago White Sox—was $5 poorer.

The Sox bowed 1-0 to Cleveland Indians and Bradford was the only player to violate Stanky's new Golden Rules.

In other American League action Wednesday, Detroit Tigers nipped Boston Red Sox 5-4 and Washington Senators clipped Oakland Athletics 3-1.

COAST AFTER HOMER

Pepitone unloaded against Dean Chance in the first inning and the Yankees coasted after that. Horace Clarke led off with a single and Roy White and Mickey Mantle walked before Pepitone connected.

In the fifth inning, after the Twins had cut the lead in half on consecutive homers by Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva, White and Mantle walked, setting up Pepitone again. This time Joe hit a triple.

Mel Stottlemyre (7-4) had a five-hitter.

A single by Brooks Robinson and two walks loaded the bases for Baltimore against California's Clyde Wright in the fifth inning, and Johnson sliced a 315-foot homer.

Curt Motton had homered earlier for the Orioles and Jim Hardin coasted with a five-hitter for his seventh victory.

FAILS TO SCORE

Bradford failed to score a runner from third base with less than two out—one of three sins Stanky has decided will cost White Sox players $5 for every violation. The others are failure to advance a runner who reached second with less than two out and failure to advance a runner in a bunt situation.

The ground rules were installed after Chicago had dropped 3-2 and 2-1 decisions to the Indians. The improvement was not immediately noticeable.

Stan Williams was in almost absolute control until the eighth so Stanky didn't have much chance to put his system to work.

Duane Josephson opened with a pinch double and Russ Snyder advanced him on a fly ball. But Bradford bounced out, invoking the fine, and Sandy Alomar struck out, ending the inning.

Mike Paul and Hal Kurtz bailed Williams out of a ninth inning jam to complete the shut-out.

DRIVES IN RUN

Jose Cardenal drove in Cleveland's only run with a second inning single after Duke Sims had doubled.

Frank Howard hit his 21st homer of the year, carrying Washington to its victory over Oakland.

Howard's two-run shot in the sixth inning snapped a 1-1 tie.

Two Boston errors and a wild pitch helped Detroit to four runs on only two hits in the seventh inning and a comeback victory over the Red Sox.

Denny McLain won his ninth game with Joe Foy's error helping the Tigers get started in the seventh and Rico Petrocelli's wild throw allowing the tying and winning runs to score.

INTER-CLUB GOLF

Hunt Sparks Uplands To Win Over Champs

Bob Hunt led hosting Uplands Golf Club to a 6-3 win over defending-champion Gorge Vale in the opening matches of the Inter-Club Golf League Wednesday.

Hunt shot a two-under-par 68 to defeat Al MacLeod, 6 and 5, then teamed up with junior Dave McCall, a 3 and 2 winner over Noel Pumfrey, for a 6 and 5 win in the four-ball section giving an early 3-0 lead.

MacLeod, the leader going into Sunday's final round of the Victoria Amateur, and beaten only once in 12 previous inter-club matches, had trouble on the green.

City junior champion Cec Ferguson displayed some outstanding shots while he and young Uplands professional Don Billsborough were posting par 70's. Ferguson won two-up.

COLWOOD UPSET

Royal Colwood, playing at Victoria, lost 6 and 3. Colwood was rated by many as the club to beat this year, but ran into problems after taking an early lead.

Dr. Dick Flanagan gave Victoria a one-up win over a newcommer from Australia, Max Buckley.

Flanagan teamed with junior Carl Schwantje, who halved his match with veteran Laurie Kerr, for a 2-up victory in fourball competition.

Dr. George Bigelow and Doug Munro carded a sweep over John Morgan and professional Bill Court to produce the winning margin.

Next Wednesday, Victoria is at Gorge Vale while Uplands is at Colwood.

COLWOOD 3 at VICTORIA 6

Earl Davies defeated Brian Flavelle, 3 and 2; Rick Kent defeated Jay Wilson, 2 and 1; four-ball was halved.

Laurie Kerr halved with Carl Schwantje; Max Buckley lost to Dr. Dick Flanagan, 1-up; Victoria won four-ball, 2-up.

John Morgan lost to Dr. George Bigelow, 1-up; Bill Court lost to Doug Munro, 3 and 2; Victoria won four-ball, 2-up.

GORGE VALE 3 at UPLANDS 6

Al MacLeod lost to Bob Hunt, 6 and 5; Noel Pumfrey lost to Dave McCall, 3 and 2; Uplands won four-ball, 6 and 5.

Laurie Carroll defeated Roger Bishop, 1-up; Lex Sutcliffe lost to Ken Knott, 3 and 1; Gorge Vale won four-ball, 1-up.

Cec Ferguson defeated Don Billsborough, 2-up; Dave Mick lost to Frank Scroggs, 2-up; Uplands won four-ball, 3 and 2.

Plate Contender

TORONTO (CP)—Merger, a bay colt owned by Max Bell of Calgary and Frank McMahon of Vancouver, Tuesday boosted Western hopes in the June 22 Queen's Plate by winning an allowance race at Woodbine by five lengths.

SPOKANE ANGLER SETS RECORD FOR KOKANEE

NELSON (CP)—A world record kokanee trout (land-locked salmon) was caught Tuesday in Kootenay Lake near Kaslo, 40 miles north of Nelson in southeastern British Columbia.

Stan Bates of Spokane, fishing with John Simchuk,, landed a nine-pound, 12-ounce kokanee. Its standing as a world record was confirmed by the B.C. game branch in Nelson. The previous world record was nine pounds, officials said.

Bates used a triple teaser plug to catch the kokanee, which measured 27 inches long and 19 inches around.

"It put up "a terrific scrap," he said.

Trouble With Putter Ends Johnson's Hopes

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — John Johnson, 42-year-old Canadian golfer, was eliminated from the British Amateur golf championships today when he ran into putting troubles and bowed to former Scottish Walker Cup player Dick Smith.

Smith, 46, beat the Vancouver, B.C., golfer on the 19th hole as Johnson saw his hopes for victory fade on the wind and rain swept Troon Golf Club course.

Johnson got off to a good start and made the turn with a two-hole lead. But he lost four straight on the back nine. On the decisive 19th hole, the Canadian missed a three-foot putt, which gave his rival the victory and advanced the Scotsman into the sixth round.

"I couldn't drop the putts when I needed them. I have only myself to blame," said Johnson, whose earlier showings in the meet stamped him as a title threat.

Kickers Scanned

TORONTO (CP) — Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League held a one-day clinic here for punters and place-kickers, but did not invite anyone to their training camp.

This was the 10th city and the first in Canada in which the Cowboys have held such clinics.

Defensive Muscle Pastes Portland

Rocks End Losing Streak With Victory Over Adanacs

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Victoria Shamrocks did their best to create a "three's-a-crowd" situation atop the National Lacrosse Association's Western Division standings.

There could be two reasons, or a combination thereof: Either (1) the Shamrock players are quick learners, or (2) coach Dave Unwin is a master magician and hasn't told anyone.

Last Friday the Rocks were embarassed almost to tears, 16-5, by Vancouver Carlings.

Wednesday, at Memorial Arena, the Green-and-Whites smeared defensive paste all over Portland Adanacs and came out 6-3 winners.

That example of effective action might have been enough to earn a share of the Western Division lead along with Vancouver Carls and Portland.

However, the Carls wouldn't co-operate. They took a 17-6 decision over New Westminster Salmonbellies Wednesday at Vancouver to stay two points ahead of the Rocks, who are tied with Adanacs.

Between allowing 16 goals and then only 3, the Shamrocks have had time for only one (1) practice and one announcement from Unwin that immediate emphasis would be placed on defence.

Also, goalkeeper Barry Forbes did not play Friday. He did Wednesday.

"And how," the 1,693 customers might add, because, individually, Forbes was the scene-stealer.

As brilliant as he was, Forbes would also attest that he was aided and abetted by a defensive muscle that has been missing earlier, and especially in the previous three games.

RON ZILKIE . . . strong effort

TED LIEBICH . . . defensive star

Hitting Kept Ports Off Balance

The Shamrocks hit on defence.

"That hitting," acknowledged Unwin, "kept Adanacs off-balance and outside. While they did out-shoot us, they were forced into taking many shots that give a goaltender a chance.

"They weren't firing 'em from around the crease all night, as Vancouver did last Friday."

Forbes blocked 39 shots, including 17 in the opening 20-minute session. Atop his agile moves, he played his position extremely well and held Portland scoreless for 22 minutes, 10 seconds.

SPELL BROKEN

It took a power-play situation, and Portland's Kerry Gallaugher, to break the spell. Then Forbes went another 30 minutes, 34 seconds before Adanacs caught the sniff of another goal!

Again, the Adanacs' Alec Carey took advantage of a power-play situation to score his team's second goal at 12:44 of the third period.

By then, the Shamrocks had climbed into a 5-1 lead.

Ron Pepper scored Portland's third goal at 15:30 of the final period.

Bill Gray, Bill Munroe, Ray Beech, Bill Spotswood, Ted Liebich and Ron Zilkie scored Victoria's goals as the Shamrocks moved ahead 1-0 after the first period and 5-1 after the second.

DEFENSIVE STARS

Gray, Beech, Liebich, Ed Kowalyk and the slightly-built Zilkie, returning after sitting out a two-game suspension, played vital defensive roles.

"They learned," said school-teacher Unwin, "that you don't have to be a 200-pounder to hit a 200-pounder.

"Now we'll have to go to work on our shooting because six goals won't win too many games for us."

Shamrocks play their next game in Portland on Saturday night. Between now and then, Unwin hopes to instill greater snap in their scoring efforts.

It shouldn't take too much effort on Unwin's part because the Shamrocks do seem like quick learners.

Carls in Romp Against Bellies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Carlings scored the first four goals of the game and all 10 goals in the second period to romp to a 17-6 win over New Westminster Salmonbellies in a National Lacrosse Association game here before a crowd of 1,360 Wednesday night.

Rookie Brian Davidson, brought up from North Burnaby juniors to replace injured Val Robertson, led Vancouver with three goals and two assists. Defenceman Ron Hemmerling had one goal and five assists for Vancouver.

New Westminster goaltender Les Norman allowed six goals in the first period and was pulled by coach Cliff Speka in favor of reserve Bill Scriver at the start of the second period. But just 20 seconds later, Scriver picked up a minor penalty — which he had to serve — and Norman came back in goal and was the victim of Vancouver's seventh goal.

Scriver then allowed the next nine Vancouver goals. Norman played the third period and blocked 13 of 14 Vancouver shots.

Skip Chapman, who has been stopping 80 per cent of the shots on the Vancouver goal, blocked 28 of 32 before giving way to Don Hamilton for the last 10 minutes of the game.

Bill Armour added three goals for the winners, while Cy Coombes, Ken Ruttan, Jim Patterson, Tim O'Grady and Brian Aherne each scored once.

Toronto got goals from Bill Coghill and Jack Madgett with two each, and MacNeil, Ron Roy and Bob Davidson with one each.

Movers Clip Leaders Despite Error Binge

George Hemming struck out 12 batters and allowed only three hits in leading Greaves Movers to a 9-4 win over Transport Workers in a Senior Amateur Baseball League game Wednesday at Layritz Park.

Victory moved Greaves within a few percentage points of the league-leading Transports.

Although fielding was full of flaws and produced seven errors in the game, the Movers still jumped into a 7-0 start in the first three innings.

Greaves won on the strength of batting and pitching, getting two runs on two hits in the first inning and five runs on five hits in the third.

Dave Graas, Bob Lumley and Hemming each connected with two hits for the winners while Lumley and Bob Bowles each drove in two runs.

Alberta Pro Wins Playoff

TORONTO (CP)—Finn Sorenson of Edmonton Tuesday won a professional-member tournament for pros exempt from qualifying for today's Ontario Open.

Sorenson captured the $200 first prize after a four-hole playoff among three professionals at Markland Wood Golf Club.

Jack Kay of Toronto, Bill Wakeham of Victoria, the defending open champion, and Sorenson were tied after 18 holes with one-under-par 70s.

In the playoff, Wakeham was one over par on the third hole. Sorenson edged out Kay by recording a one over par five on the fourth hole while Kay had a six.

Amateur Wrestling Gets Boost

Canada's first full-time national amateur wrestling coach comes a-calling this weekend.

Bill Smith, former coach and athletic director at the San Francisco Olympic Club, has been hired on a one-year basis by the Canadian Amateur Wrestling Association.

Embarking on a cross-Canada tour, made possible through a grant from the federal fitness council, Smith will conduct a clinic at Royal Roads Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The sessions are open to all coaches, wrestlers and officials.

Friday's two-hour clinic starts at 7 p.m. Sessions on Saturday and Sunday will get under way at 9 a.m. and wind up at 4:30 p.m. each day.

Smith's credentials are impressive. He won a gold medal in wrestling at the 1952 Olympic Games for the U.S. and then coached wrestling in various high schools and at the University of Nebraska. While coaching at the Olympic Club, his team won the U.S. team title nine times.

He also coached the U.S. national team four times and could have remain as U.S. Olympic coach for the October Olympics in Mexico.

His duties include promotion of Olympic-style wrestling in elementary and high schools as well as universities throughout Canada.

Later in the summer he will take over the intensive training program of Canada's Mexico-bound team.

Paddy Ousted After Farmer Blocks Drivers

SHERBROOKE (CP)—Paddy Hopkirk, of Ireland, today was disqualified from the cross-Canada rally because of the addition of a second radiator to his Mini Cooper.

In a letter to British Motor Holdings, sponsors of Hopkirk's car, rally organizer Jim Gunn said the car was no longer eligible to continue in the rally.

The letter was delivered at 3:45 a.m. EDT, only 90 minutes before Hopkirk and his navigator, Mike Kerry, of Toronto, were due to take off on today's run to Saint John, N.B.

The radiator was installed because Hopkirk's car was experiencing overheating problems.

The problem began on the rally's first leg from Calgary to Regina. When Hopkirk's car left Regina Monday morning, it looked much like any other Mini Cooper, but when it arrived at the overnight stop at Fort William, it had a new radiator on the front bumper.

At this point the question arose as to whether the addition complied with international rally rules.

RE-APPEARS AGAIN

On the next leg of the rally—from Fort William to Sudbury—the radiator disappeared. Then, when the car arrived here Wednesday, the radiator was back on the car.

Hopkirk was in 10th place with 74 points when he was told he was out of the rally. He had led on the first two stages.

He lost the lead Tuesday to Scott Harvey and Ralph Beckman, both of Detroit, in their Barracuda. Harvey held his position Wednesday and had eight points at the start of today's run.

Meanwhile, a farmer's wife holding a shotgun caused Hopkirk and Fritz Hochreuter points Wednesday—although it now is of little consequence to Hopkirk.

Hochreuter, driving a Porsche, dropped from six to 10th over-all and from first to third in the private entries class.

The trouble started when a farmer who didn't like cars blocked a road near Huntsville, Ont., with his tractor just as Hopkirk and Hochreuter were approaching.

'MOVE, OR ELSE'

Hopkirk tried to drive around the obstruction, but Hochreuter decided that the best way to handle the situation was by using blunt talk—he told the farmer to get the tractor out of the way or else.

The farmer grabbed a large pair of shears and moved to hit Hochreuter with them, whereupon he was grabbed in a strangle hold and wrestled to the ground.

The farmer's wife ran into the house and emerged with a shotgun which promptly ended the fight. The farmer and the rallyists decided the police should be called and eventually the tractor was ordered off the road.

Paul MacLennan of Toronto in a Rambler American holds second place in the rally with 16 points while team-mate Tom Jones of Port Arthur is third with 18.

Women Golfers Keeping Active

Margaret Briggs, Trudy Peden and Olive Keane were winners in the women's division Tombstone Competition at Uplands Golf Club on Tuesday.

Sylvia Brown, Helen Mooney, Trudi Munro, Jean Olson and Muriel Osborough tied for first in "A" division of an "irons-only" competition at Victoria Golf Club.

Elizabeth MacPherson and Cairie Shearing finished 1-2 in the "B" division.

SHIRLEY NAYSMITH
. . . reaches semis

Maudie's 'Best' Effort Trips Steady Maureen

Maureen Hibberson was a model picture of consistency in the Victoria women's golf championship, but that wasn't enough to get the Uplands member into the semifinals.

Fourth low qualifier with an 87 at Gorge Vale on Monday, Mrs. Hibberson was an upset victim Wednesday. She was beaten, 2 and 1, by Gorge Vale's Maudie Crawford.

A 16-handicapper, Maudie sounded almost apologetic after recording an approximate medal score of 86 — her best-ever round. With Mrs. Hibberson scoring another 87, it proved to be enough to send the Gorge golfer into today's semifinals.

Mrs. Hibberson had an approximate 86 Tuesday to win her first-round match and even in losing Wednesday she found pleasure in her consistency.

Mrs. Crawford met Victoria Club's Marge Todd in one semifinal today while the other matched medallist Joan Lawson with Gorge Vale's Shirley Naysmith.

Mrs. Todd also encountered difficult opposition from Gorge Vale but finally triumphed, 3 and 1, over Elsie Saunders.

Mrs. Lawson defeated Colwood's Flo Chapman, 3 and 2, while Mrs. Naysmith scored a surprisingly-easy, 7-and-6 win over Dorothy Hayward.

Winners of today's semifinal meet in the 18-hole championship final Friday, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Molson's Follow Original Pattern

Carlings today are probably figuring it wasn't worth the effort after getting a ruling from Victoria Senior Men's Softball League officials that their May 16 game against Molsons would be replayed.

Wednesday was the date set for the replay at Central Park and Carlings might as well have stayed at home. The result was exactly the same as on May 16.

Molsons grabbed a 2-0 decision after starting from the bottom half of the third inning at the point of protest, where Dave Lowe was erroneously awarded a double instead of a single in the original tussle.

Lowe was placed on first base. He promptly stole second and, as he did on May 16, rode home on a single by Bob Lowe.

Pitcher Larry Jay stayed with the original script by pitching a two-hit shutout as Molsons repeated their 2-0 win.

Phone Squad Nips Nelsons

B.C. Telephone had to race from behind in the seventh inning to take a 6-5 win over Nelsons in Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League play Wednesday at Heywood Avenue Park.

Perhaps overconfident after grabbing a four-run lead in the first inning, B.C. Tel allowed two runs in the second and three in the third.

A walk to Mel Nelson, and singles by Tom Walker and Ken MacGaskell yielded the tying run and Walker tallied the winner on an infield out.

Italy won its semi-final on the toss of a coin after playing a scoreless draw with the Soviet Union.

SKYROCKETING COSTS . . . . . . BRING RED INK BLUES

College Sports in Money Bind

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's like having 280 kids in college at the same time," one athletic director of a large United States university groaned.

"It's a financial backbreaker."

College athletics are in a money bind. They have become a high-pressured, multi-million-dollar business on most U.S. campuses. Costs have multiplied in the last decade and football, once the breadwinner, no longer pays the freight.

Business managers, with a few exceptions such as at Alabama and Notre Dame, are tightening their belts and putting in new orders for red ink.

Notre Dame's athletic budget has risen to $2,000,000 in the 1968-69 season from $900,000 in the 1963-64 year but Notre Dame manages to operate in the black.

Michigan State has seen its sports outlay mushroom in 20 years to $1,634,000 from $147,000.

In the Big Ten, six members are reported operating at a loss; in the Big Eight, Kansas' budget has risen to $1,400,000 from $850,000 in four years.

At major U.S. universities, athletic budgets run from $1,500,000 to as high as $3,200,000, the figure for Ohio State's 18-sport program.

Everything costs more these days — the gear to outfit one football player runs about $150, four times what it was a few years ago; travel, hotel and food prices have climbed.

The heavy burden, however, lies in the housing, feeding and educating of athletes on the cuff, so to speak. They are the players on grants-in-aid, given a free college education for their exploits on the field.

Many institutions, in order to keep pace with the escalation of big-time college sport, have found it necessary to invest in athletic facilities costing millions.

Purdue has just unveiled a new $17,000,000 field house. Michigan's similar plant cost $14,000,000.

Notre Dame is completeing an $8,600,000 convocation and athletic building. Alabama has just opened a Sports Coliseum that makes the Taj Mahal look like a set from Tobacco Road.

"These are not luxuries, but necessities," says a spokesman for the National Collegiate Athletic Association headquarters.

"They are built to fill the needs of an exploding campus population."

Purdue's enrolment doubled to 24,140 in the last 10 years. The Big Ten, long symbolic of big-time football, has seen its total enrolment jump 50 per cent in six years.

"These student increases mean an expansion in facilities," the NCAA spokesman said.

Also, students are given a priority on football tickets at a nominal fee of $1 each, or nothing at all if included in student fees.

They are crowding out thousands of potential $5 and $6 customers in 60,000-seat stadiums.

BLAST ROCKS HOME OF NEGRO'S WIDOW

FLORENCE, Miss. (UPI) — A 42-year-old Negro man suffered minor injuries today when the home of his sister, the widow of a civil rights leader, was heavily damaged in a predawn explosion.

Authorities said Nelson McIntosh, a truck driver for the state mental hospital at nearby Whitfield, received cuts and abrasions of the arms, legs and face when the blast occurred about 12:45 a.m. He was treated at a nearby Jackson hospital and released.

The blast shattered the home of Mrs. Lillie Byrd, 57, whose husband had been a leader in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People until his death earlier this year of natural causes.

WRITING FATHER'S BIOGRAPHY

Randolph Churchill Dies Suddenly at 57

LONDON (CP) — Randolph Churchill, 57, only son of the late Sir Winston Churchill, died suddenly in his countryside home early today. An aide said he had been ill for some time.

Churchill, rather dour, portly journalist, author and lecturer, was in the midst of preparing the third volume of a five-volume series on his famous father when he became ill earlier this year. He underwent surgery March 8 to remove a portion of his left lung for what was described as a non-malignant condition.

The aide said Churchill died at his East Bergholt home in Suffolk, about 70 miles northeast of London.

Churchill was a controversial figure on Fleet Street in earlier days where his sharp and somewhat acidy criticism of the press brought such descriptions of him as "Randolph, the rude-nosed rascal."

But he was a fearless and outspoken commentator who never pulled his punches. His personal life tended to parallel his public clashes. He was married twice and both marriages were dissolved. His only child, Winston, is making his own name on Fleet Street as an international journalist.

A FAILURE POLITICALLY

Politically, Randolph Churchill was a failure, but a failure so complete that there was a magnificance about it.

Handsome, brilliant, well-tailored, witty and owning the magical name of Churchill, he left Oxford as a young man amid confident predictions he would one day become prime minister.

The closest he ever got to prime minister was his physical proximity to his father, Britain's wartime leader.

Everytime he ran for office against opposition, starting in 1935, he was defeated.

ELECTED WHILE IN ARMY

As an officer in the British army and the son of Winston Churchill, he was adopted by the local Conservatives in Preston and picked as candidate for the House of Commons in 1940.

Under a wartime electoral truce he was elected — unopposed. But he did not spend the war years in Parliament.

Far from it. He fought with distinction in the Middle East, going on numerous desert raids against the Germans. He parachuted into Yugoslavia, when it was heavily occupied, and battled against the German army with Tito's partisans.

Back in Britain, his constituency at Preston threw him out in 1945.

Entering a byelection at Devenport he was frustrated still another time.

In 1951, in the same constituency he was balked.

Partly because he found difficulty in being nominated by any constituency, he never ran for the House again.

Jet Flypast Not Welcome For Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — A jet flypast at Cold Lake, Alta., was a practice for Armored Forces Day, not a welcome for Prime Minister Trudeau, a defence department spokesman said Wednesday.

The comment was made after Douglas Harkness, Conservative member of the last Parliament for Calgary North, criticized Mr. Trudeau Tuesday for using an "indirect means" to get around a ban against electioneering on a military base.

Mr. Trudeau's campaign plane landed at the Cold Lake base earlier Tuesday and four CF-104 Starfighter jets screamed low over the field after the prime minister disembarked.

The defence department spokesman confirmed there is a ban against any electioneering on a military base.

But when Mr. Trudeau's campaign plane landed at Cold Lake, the base was "in the process of practicing for Armed Forces Day."

JOINT EFFORTS

New Flood Pact Serves as Guide

A recent flood control agreement between Ottawa and British Columbia is a model for an inter-government solution to pollution problems.

This message was spelled out Wednesday night at a coffee party meeting by Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate in the June 25 federal election, David Anderson.

"We have heard a great deal of nonsense about new ministries to handle the problem (of air, sea and land pollution), or constitutional amendment to put control in the hands of the federal government."

He said Conservative and NDP leaders "may be able to set up such ministries and persuade Premier Bennett to give up control of water, but I for one, doubt it.

"The history of water and hydro developments in this province has conclusively demonstrated that Mr. Bennett has no intention of doing anything so foolish, which would so greatly reduce his field of activity."

CO-OPERATION

Mr. Anderson said the solution depends on co-operation of all levels of government. Two weeks ago Mines Minister Jean Pepin signed an agreement with B.C. on Fraser Valley flood control.

"It would have been impossible if the federal government had attempted to declare the Fraser a federal responsibility.

"The flood control agreement is a model for those of us interested in pollution ... all three levels of government must be aware of the problem. And they can only be aware if the people who elect governments make their views known.

"What the electors want they can get."

He said federal low interest loans with low interest and 50 years to repay are available to municipalities for sewage disposal systems. "The loan may equal two-thirds of the cost and 25 per cent is not repayable.

In the past six years there have been 1,000 such loans approved in the total amount of $200 million.

Other aid is extended by the federal government through winter works programs. Industries installing anti-pollution equipment receive tax benefits.

At the same time Ottawa is enforcing anti-pollution laws contained in various acts governing fishing and navigable waters and supervises the problem in international waters through international agreements.

Mr. Anderson said federal anti-pollution research is continuing and expanding and joint federal-provincial studies have been encouraged. Ottawa has offered to meet expenses for pilot studies in the provinces, in new legislation now pending.

Water Pact Linked To Park Grant

Central Saanich is prepared to turn over to the regional district its Island View Beach park with the provision that it supply the area with water.

Coun. Charles Mollard, chairman of the water committee, said today if the offer is accepted, Central Saanich would continue to maintain the park for a number of years.

The two-acre park adjoins the 60-acre regional waterfront park, situated between the East Saanich Indian reserve and the end of Island View Road.

The park's water supply will be cut off this summer and this is basically the reason why Central Saanich is prepared to turn over the recreational area to the regional district.

The park, including 12 homes in the district, depends on a privately-owned well for its water supply.

The owner of the well is selling his property and has given the municipality and homeowners until July 1 to find another source of water.

UN COUNCIL ADJOURNS

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council Wednesday night adjourned an urgent meeting on the latest Middle East flareup in respect to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who was shot by a man identified as a Jordanian.

The assassination attempt occurred on the first anniversary of the June 5-10 Arab-Israel war.

Before postponing discussion of border fighting between Israel and Jordan that erupted Tuesday, the council expressed its "sense of shock and deep sorrow" at the assassination of the brother of the late president John F. Kennedy.

Gunfire Echoes Again Over Jordan

By UPI

Jordanian and Israeli troops fought their fourth gun duel of the month across the Jordan River today, a Jordanian military spokesman said.

The spokesman said Israeli troops initiated a five-minute burst of firing with mortars, field guns and machine guns at 8:45 a.m. in the Adassiya area three miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

He said a second 25 minutes exchange of fire was begun by the Israelis at 9:45 a.m. in the same area.

The Jordanian spokesman said Jordan suffered no casualties and during the first exchange "the enemy was seen moving one casualty."

Impaired Drivers

Fined Wednesday for impaired driving were: Victor Keddle, 1844 Crescent, charged after an accident at Humboldt and Government, May 31, $350; Frederick Nason, Port Hardy, stopped after he was observed driving slowly on the Trans-Canada Highway, April 13, $300.

GOLD, ROBOT, FIRST PRAM

British Art Display Looks Like A Million

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

More than $1,000,000 worth of British arts and crafts went on view here today.

There is an English five guinea gold piece, now valued at 650 pounds (about $1,950).

A Royal Doulton china figure of a princess priced at $3,500.

A $7,000 mechanical robot.

A car with a plastic body.

The world's first English pram, made in Leeds, Yorkshire.

Sir Henry Lintott, British high commissioner to Canada, opened this widely diversified exhibition at The Bay this morning.

And Acting Mayor Cecil Parrott proclaimed June 6-12 as British Festival of the Arts week in Victoria.

Simultaneously, an exhibition of British paintings, drawing and porcelain of the 17th and 18th Century was opened at Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

FIVE FLOORS

After cutting a ribbon to open The Bay's exhibition, the British high commissioner toured the displays, which are spread over five floors.

There is an interesting assortment of brass rubbings made from plaques in English cathedrals and churches.

"This used to be a very inexpensive hobby," a Bay spokesman said. "But many of the big cathedrals got smart. They now charge you a fee for making a rubbing."

The influence of the arts on home furnishings and on the packaging of merchandise is demonstrateed along with furniture settings from many periods.

Reproductions of the British Crown Jewels are displayed on the second floor, with a choice selection of the furs for which the Bay is renowned.

MIRROR ROOM

There is a varied display of coins in the Mirror Room on the second floor.

Visiting Victoria for exhibition week is dainty, raven-haired Elizabeth Bayley, head consultant for Canada and senior beautician for an English cosmetics firm.

She said they had been serving royalty for nearly 100 years.

Queen Victoria?

"No," smiled Miss Bayley, "Queen Victoria didn't use any makeup but, if she had, I know she'd have come to us.

"Our factory is located in the garden satellite town of Harlow, Buckinghamshire, and our cosmetics are still made by hand."

Miss Bayley travels regularly between Brtain and Canada and likes it that way.

"They want me to go to Australia, but I much prefer Canada. For many years Australia was a favorite with British immigrants, but now it's Canada. There's more going on here."

ENTERTAINED

The British High Commissioner was entertained at a reception Wednesday evening by J. J. Jellison, assistant manager of The Bay, and members of his staff.

or your money back!

Let you—and your roses—be the judge! Watch Gardal go to work on insects, black spot, mites and mildew. And if it isn't the best rose spray you've ever used, tell us so. Write to Green Cross Products, P.O. Box 489, Montreal. Send us the bottle with label, and we'll send you your money back.

Applied as a liquid spray, Gardal leaves no visible powder or dust deposits. Its systemic insecticide and systemic fungicide go right inside the plant. The systemic insecticide distributes itself throughout the entire plant, protecting tender new growth from insect damage for up to two weeks after application. Systemics cannot be washed off by rain, since they are within the plant.

QUEEN'S VISIT RECALLED

Royal March Record Played

When Queen Elizabeth visited Victoria in 1959, Capt. James Gayfer of the Naden Band School composed a march in her honor.

Entitled Royal Visit, the march was recorded in Toronto by the Howard Cable Concert Band, and the result was heard at Victoria headquarters of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Wednesday afternoon.

"Here is an all-Canadian product," said Norman Cribbens of the Victoria Daily Times, who presented records from his trans-Atlantic collection.

Among them were highlights from the wartime speeches of Sir Winston Churchill, and a one-man opera by Alec Templeton, the versatile blind pianist, in which he impersonated sopranos, altos, tenors and basses.

Mrs. Lily Ashworth, 84, gave humorous recitations made famous by Gracie Fields, who comes from Mrs. Ashworth's hometown of Bolton, Lancashire.

Dramatist Roland Goodchild gave eliquent readings from the works of Edgar Allen Poe.

Mrs. Ena Young sang old-time favorites, with Mrs. L. Holmes at the piano.

Five stars for Seagram's Special Old.

A whisky this good deserves top rating. So we've added a big gold star and five small ones on the label. Easy to spot on the new square bottle.

But inside the bottle is the same easy-tasting whisky that's been a favourite for years here in B.C.

If you want to find out why, that's easy too.

TUPMAN
. . . after 50 years

VISIT TO HOMELAND

Sentimental Trip Planned by Tupman

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Frank Tupman, dean of Victoria choir leaders, will revisit England this month after an absence of more than 50 years.

He will tour his native Devonshire and visit with British musical adjudicator Trevor Anthony in London. Mr. Anthony was adjudicator at Victoria's last Music Festival.

Mr. Tupman, 75, has conducted choirs and choral groups in Victoria since 1920 when he came out here from Saskatchewan.

He is known to hundreds of men and women who sang in the many school choirs he conducted.

Recently he retired as leader of the Arion Male Voice Choir, founded by the late Herbert Kent in 1898. But he continues as conductor of the Sanctuary Choir at Metropolitan United Church, and as manager of a local music store.

A tall, slender, grey-haired man with a ready smile, Mr. Tupman was born at Exmouth, Devon, where his father kept a food store.

He saign in the local choir from an early age and met his wife, Ida, at a choir practice. Both migrated separately to Saskatoon and were married there in 1917. Mrs. Tupman died recently after a long illness.

Mr. Tupman will spend five weeks in England accompanied by his daughter, Myrtle, Mrs. Wilfred Campbell of Victoria.

He'll be back here in the fall. Choir leading? Of course.

Computor Analyses Bird Songs

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Man may never be able to talk to birds, but a McGill University professor Tuesday described how a computer has been used to help analyse the songs of birds.

John Stanley, professor of population dynamics at McGill's department of genetics, presented a paper to the conference of the Computer Society of Canada in which he outlined patterns in birdsong study.

Many birds have a range of sound patterns or songs which they sing in varying succession, with varying numbers of repetitions of each pattern. One succession of songs—called a "bout" of singing—may include 1,000 patterns.

Because of the vast variations in a song succession, a computer has been used to calculate the amount of uncertainty in a song sequence, he said.

City to Complete Causeway Paving

Final asphalt paving will be applied to the Causeway area of Government Street Sunday.

To allow the work to be done the intersection of Belleville and Government streets will be closed between 7 a.m. and noon and Government Street between Humbolt and Belleville will be closed from 7 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Surplus Lands For Parks Urged

Federal government owned land in the Greater Victoria area suitable for public use should be made available for parkland, a Conservative candidate said Wednesday.

George Chatterton, incumbent in the Esquimalt-Saanich election was speaking at the home of Col. J. C. Cave, 3154 Metchosin Road.

"My main concern is that such land should not fall into the hands of speculators, but should be used for the benefit of the people," he said:

"I shall urge that a thorough review be made as to what land is actually required by the government or may be required in the forseeable future.

"Any surplus land should then be considered by the Capital Region Planning Board and any land that is suitable for public use should be released to the Regional District Board or some other local authority."

Mr. Chatterton said the government owns about 4,800 acres of land in the Greater Victoria area. He said much of this, possibly about 1,500 acres may be surplus to the requirements of the government now and in the forseeable future.

He cited 500 acres at Mary Hill (William Head) and the old Colwood Race Track as examples.

The candidate also said he had received a number of complaints about firing on the Heal Range early in the morning and on Sundays.

He suggested that the government may soon have to find another location for the rifle range as they did with the old Gordon Head Camp — now the site of the University of Victoria.

Youth Leaders Honored

About 70 people gathered Thursday night at the YM-YWCA for the annual leaders banquet.

YMCA physical director Art Burgess called the leaders "the muscle and sinew of the Y program."

"Without your help it would be impossible for our four paid instructors to handle the membership we have now."

At the banquet the accent was on youth—and the number of youth awards was surprising.

Although not everyone attended, recognition was given more than 100 youth leaders.

Among the top awards of the evening, the Susan Gray memorial trophy for the outstanding aquatic leader went to Corrine Bell and Frank Costello.

Top junior leaders were Debbie Smythe, Nancy Reeson and Dan Leno. Top intermediate leaders were Heather Gibson and David Tysoe.

Outstanding children enter junior leader training at 12 years of age. They remain in the junior leader classification until 15. Fifteen to 17-year-olds are intermediate leaders.

Five year service pins were awarded Ken Hurn, aquatic worker and swim coach; Peter Ivatts, swim instructor; Russ Morgan, aquatic worker and leader; Lil Marion, swimming instructor, and Ed Ashmore, wrestling coach.

QUEBEC PLANS TO BORROW FROM GERMANY

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's Union Nationale government is on the verge of concluding an agreement to borrow 120,000,000 marks — $30,000,000 in United States currency — from West Germany, Finance Minister Paul Dozois told the legislatirve assembly Wednesday.

The loan, for three years of 6⅞ per cent interest, was being negotiated through a German financial consortium in Dusseldorf.

Mr. Dozois said a number of details still have to be worked out before the agreement can be signed.

The federal government had recently borrowed 250,000,000 marks — $62,000,000 in U.S. funds — at 6¾ per cent interest.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined Wednesday for careless driving were: Alexander Taylor, 1619 McRae, accident on Trans-Canada Highway, May 5, $40; Antonio Barrato, 764 Claremont, accident on Royal Oak parking lot, April 2, $35.

Political Crisis In Italy

ROME (AP) — Premier Aldo Moro resigned Wednesday as head of Italy's 27th post-war government, lumping a political crisis atop a wave of student unrest.

Moro's centre-left coalition broke down last week. The Socialist partners voted to pull out on the grounds that their ties with Moro's Christian Democrats accounted for Socialist setbacks in last month's elections for a new parliament. The Christian Democrats made gains.

The government crisis is expected to be eased but not resolved by formation of a minority Christian Democrat cabinet.

Following the resignation, President Giuseppe Saragat asked Moro and his cabinet to stay on for administrative work while the president looks for a new premier.

GROVES ON PAYROLL

Labor Boosts Political Drive

The Victoria Labour Council stepped into the federal election campaign Wednesday night when delegates approved placing president Jack Groves on the payroll until June 25.

Mr. Groves, who is taking a leave of absence from his job as a maintenance mechanic, said he will be talking with trade unionists in the area in support of Canadian Labour Congress policies.

One of the key political policies of the CLC is its support of the New Democratic Party.

The labor council, in the past, has often gone on record as supporting the NDP but has never hired one man in a political education role.

After the meeting, Mr. Groves said he will explain some of the current problems and their possible answers and let trade unionists choose which party they want to support.

"I am not working for the NDP, I'm on the payroll for the labor council to get unionists involved in politics," he said.

The motion to put him on the payroll was carried with only half a dozen objections among the 38 delegates from 22 unions. The council has a membership of 70 local unions comprising 13,000 persons.

Delegate Ed Haw of the Woodworkers of America, the same union of which Mr. Groves is a member, said "we are just carrying out the policy of the CLC — that the political arm of labor is the NDP."

He added that "at long last the central labor body in this area is taking the kind of action taken by others in Canada."

One objector said se thought the move contrary to Bill 42, which prohibits union dues being given to a political party or candidate for office. However, it was explained that this was not what was being done in this case.

Henry Rhodes of Ottawa, director of federations and labor councils for the CLC, commended the delegates on their action and said similar moves have been made by other labor councils across the country.

A federal bill that died when the House of Commons dissolved for the election would have fragmented national bargaining units into weak splinters, he said.

Council secretary Larry Ryan said the executive's recommendation sprang from a meeting here last Saturday attended by Jack MacKenzie, chairman of the political education committee of the B.C. Federation of Labour.

"The recommendation means that Mr. Groves will be on staff; he will manage the interests of this council in the campaign, and he will work with the various unions to achieve this purpose."

In other business, the council:

- Heard that two unions have contributed $151 towards the proposed A. W. Toone Memorial Burns Unit at St. Joseph's Hospital;
- Sent a message of condolence to the Kennedy family following the assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy in Los Angeles.

It was up to labor councils to provide leadership to their members. Labor was being "kicked into a straitjacket" by legislation.

CARTER PROPOSALS

Taxation Change Pushed by NDP

Only the New Democratic Party will implement the Carter royal commission on taxation which would reduce personal income tax for most Canadians, Esquimalt-Saanich candidate Don Johannessen said Wednesday night.

Implementation of the report would decrease the tax on those earning less than 10,000 a year by seven to 10 per cent, he told delegates to the Victoria Labor Council.

"Neither the Liberals nor the Conservatives will implement this report," he said.

"So if you want lower taxes, vote NDP."

Asked by one delegate why federal governments appoint royal commissions and then pigeon-hole their reports, he said:

"Royal commissions appear to be used primarily to stall problems. The only people who protested the Carter report were the insurance companies and the mining companies."

REVENUE EFFECT

Mr. Johannessen said the revenue effect of the report, using 1964 figures, showed a boost of $532 million in corporation tax but a reduction of $310 million in personal, sales and excise, gift and estate taxes.

The report would make the tax system more equitable, tax income regardless of source, tax capital gains (but with a $25,000 lifetime exemption), eliminate inheritance tax on transactions within the family, tax life insurance companies like other corporations and abolish the three-year tax exemption for new mines.

FIRST BID

Mr. Johannessen, a graduate in economics, is a school teacher making his first bid for election in the June 25 vote.

The Victoria NDP candidate, Dr. Harvey Richardson, said Canada is slipping behind in its productivity and the federal government had not taken initiatives that its counterpart in the United States has done in carrying out technological research.

He also said housing costs have risen by about 10 per cent per year for the last 10 years while wages were up only about five per cent per year in the same period.

"Mortgages are so high it is very difficult for anyone earning less than $8,000 to get an NHA loan," he said.

"This is socialism for the rich and capitalism for the poor."

Dr. Richardson is a designer of astronomical instruments at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. Much of his training is in physics.

Constable Praised For Courage

Constable Kenneth Horsman of Victoria city police showed "great coolness in the face of what was real and extreme danger," Judge Montague Drake said in County Court Tuesday.

He commended Constable Horsman for his courage when confronted by a man with a .303 semi-automatic rifle on Feb. 24.

"His conduct was in the highest and best tradition of the police force," Judge Drake said.

Lloyd Grant, 779 Market Street, was convicted of being in possession of an offensive weapon to the danger of the public and remanded to June 11 for sentence.

Judge Drake said that, had the constable shown any sign of agitation or if he had taken any provocative action, Grant might have been before the court on a charge of capital murder.

Witnesses said Grant pointed the rifle at Constable Horsman's chest, with his finger on the trigger.

Constable Horsman drew his service revolver, identified himself and twice ordered Grant to drop the rifle.

Finally he said, "Drop that gun or I'll shoot," Grant dropped the rifle to the floor and police found a live round of ammunition in the breach.

The safety catch was off.

Bird Feeding Death Cause?

KELOWNA (CP)—A coroner's jury has found that a habit of feeding birds may have led to the death April 3 of Alice Hince, 82, of East Kelowna.

The jury Tuesday found Mrs. Hince died of misadventure and from a fall, shock and exposure.

Mrs. Hince was found dead outside her house by an oil truck driver who backed into the driveway on a regular delivery and hit something.

The jury was told by a neighbor that Mrs. Hince had a habit of feeding birds and to do so climbed atop a slab of wood to reach a basin. Police believed Mrs. Hince fell from the slab and lay in a dazed condition while the temperature dropped to 26 degrees.

Luck Has Kept Our 'Violent Bomb' From Detonation

Only luck and the grace of God has protected Canadian politics from the black smear of assassinations, a Liberal election candidate said here Wednesday.

Esquimalt - Saanich Liberal Dave Anderson told an audience at St. Ann's Academy:

"There is much prejudice in Canada and much stupidity. We may not be in as bad a situation as California and Alabama, but this is not due to any virtue on our part.

"It is only due to good luck and the grace of God."

Mr. Anderson, speaking only hours after news arrived of the shooting of U.S. presidential candidate Robert Kennedy, said that if anyone doubts that similar tragedies could happen here, consider history.

"I suggest you consider for a moment, D'Arcy McGee, one of the fathers of confederation whose assassination was the result of a blind political and religious projudice."

He referred also to "the three or four political deaths that have taken place in and around Montreal as a result of bomb outrages by separatists."

How can Canadians prevent such "stupidity and outrages? Canada must strive for open and honest politics, a political life in which appeals are not made to religious, racial or lingustic prejudice."

He said Canada must ensure that political parties reflect the opinions of all Canadians and that our institutions are capable of meeting change.

"We must avoid the dissatisfaction so evident in many countries abroad and to the south, which leads to violence. This is not the job of the prime minister alone or of Parliament alone, but of every Canadian." Victoria Liberal candidate David Groos, appearing on the same platform, said the event is a lesson for world that we must "learn to live with our neighbor and share with him part of what we have."

He said, "Right here in Canada we must remove more of the causes of violence, the things that fester in men's minds, social injustice, economic injustice and permanent unequal opportunity."

He said democracy is not perfect, "but you younger people who do not suffer from the prejudice of your forefathers, I think through you and your use of the democratic processes, you are going to be the salvation of Canada."

Arthur Mayse

Until the moment that he achieved victory in the California primaries, Robert Kennedy had suffered no more than the casual wear and tear incidental to a hot campaign. He had been snatched at by eager hands, and lost any number of cuff links to souvenir hunters, and even suffered a chipped front tooth in an accidental bumping of heads.

There are always those who must press in on a man of the hour, particularly if he happens to be young, personable and bears a famous name. They want to touch him, as if in hopes that some of the magic will rub off on their anonymous selves.

But not kill him. Not to fire into the theatre box, or steady the cross-hairs of a telescope sight at the upper window, or blast at close range in a hotel corridor.

Lincoln and John F. Kennedy were United States presidents, but Robert Kennedy was still only a candidate. The American assassin grows more hasty.

This one, the killer who insinuated himself within almost point-blank range of his target, remains alive. The stupidities that put John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald beyond reach of interrogation are not likely to be repeated.

What the FBI and the courts learn from Robert Kennedy's killer may reveal more than has yet been learned about the anatomy of assassination.

★

Their findings, however, are unlikely to persuade the hankerers after conspiracy that one violent man with a skinful of hate may have acted according to no plan other than his own.

Admittedly, it is much more titillating to believe that back of the triggerman was an organization composed variously of Black Muslims, smouldering white Southerners, or those young anarchists who are raising hell with the universities.

The choice varies with the antipathies of the speaker.

Evidence indicates that young Senator Kennedy was a victim of the backlash of last year's war between Israel and the Arab states—a foreign conflict, and in no way related to the interior struggle of black against white or Vietnam hawk against dove.

We can be glad of that, at least. Had the evidence pointed definitely to domestic plotting, a nation already cursed with more violence than it can handle might have reacted with explosive fury.

★

Out of the tragic affair, has come renewed pressure for anti-firearms legislation. This, at best, may reduce the number of handguns in casual circulation, and at worst descend full force on the legitimate sportsman.

But whatever the weapon, I think that the hard-hit Kennedy family has suffered from a state of affairs to which we in Canada are by no means strangers.

This is an insufficiency of those safeguards that would keep the walking time-bomb from working the havoc of which he is all too capable.

Oswald, as later evidence turned up, was a psychiatist's nightmare. He should have been under treatment, not walking free in Dallas.

Perhaps if Robert Kennedy's assailant had been subjected somewhere along the line to psychiatric screening, detention and treatment, the bloody episode in the Ambassador Hotel corridor would not have taken place.

Hindsight comes easy. But what screening, what treatment can cure the violence that resides in the American city?

I am not referring here to the studied violence of the racketeers, with their business-like killers who operate on contract. That brings its own taint; but it is less to be feared than the violence of frustration, depression and disillusionment that makes a mockery of the American dream.

Violence, I suggest, is not inborn. It evolves when democracy degenerates into anarchy of the faction and the individual.

Our neighbors are deep in trouble. We sympathize . . . but Canadians should also take warning.

Low-Key Campaign For Newcomer

By ERIC MAURICE

DR. E. H. RICHARDSON
. . . 'voters dissatisfied'

Dr. E. Harvey Richardson is new to the game of politics. His style is unsophisticated, almost apologetic.

As NDP candidate for Victoria in the June 25 federal election, the 40-year-old research physicist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich is involved in his first political campaign. He has worked with anti-war and humanitarian movements and is a former president of the Victoria branch of the World Federalists.

He was born in Portland, Oregon, but moved with his family to Victoria before he was a year old.

What about the candidates? Why are they running? What do they stand for? What are their objectives?

The Times assigned a new staffer, Eric Maurice, to take a fresh look at the Greater Victoria hopefuls in the June 25 federal election.

The interviews appear daily, Victoria candidates first. This is the third.

In an interview, he distilled his low-keyed policy statements thoughtfully. The approach is palatable, but inexperience is not traditionally a big vote-getter.

Dr. Richardson's view of leadership personalities is inscrutable. He feels the NDP will gain from a general dissatisfaction among the electorates with the old-line parties leadership. But the man they will turn to, he feels, is Tommy Douglas, who has been associated with the old school of parliamentarianism much longer than either Mr. Stanfield or Mr. Trudeau.

If elected to Parliament, Dr. Richardson said he could make "convincing arguments" for locating the facilities of a research-oriented Canadian precision manufacturing enterprise in Victoria.

Logical Site

He declined to identify the firm, but said "Victoria is the most logical site under present circumstances." The climate here and the computation centre at the university make the city attractive to such a business.

Once started, the enterprise would attract similar ones.

Dr. Richardson believes Canadian independence is the fundamental issue in the campaign. National unity, the issue the Liberals are most concerned with, is secondary.

The New Democratic Party preaches maitre chez nous economics.

"It is not a narrow economic nationalism, but Canada should have an economy which can stand on its own feet."

He said foreign control of the Canadian economy is the problem, not merely foreign ownership, but he admitted the two generally go hand in hand.

"If the federal government shows a fair amount of leadership, it can keep control."

Not an Issue Here

He said housing is another key NDP issue in this election, but it is not particularly important in Victoria. Nationally, there is an "acute shortage" of housing, he said.

Housing starts are below the minimum recommended in the fourth report of the Economic Council of Canada and the need is up.

"The cost of housing is so high that it is beyond the reach of people with an income of less than $8,000 a year."

This is due to increases in the cost of land and mortgages because the increase in labor and material costs is "comparatively insignificant," Dr. Richardson said.

Provide Lots

He said an NDP government would go into the real estate business by "providing serviced lots at reasonable prices.

"Real estate is a totally nonproductive enterprise," he said, and the way to stop speculation is for government to compete with speculators in providing land.

Dr. Richardson affirmed NDP policy favoring a "made in Canada" constitution containing guarantees of fundamental rights, especially linguistic rights.

He said an NDP government would bring in socialistic measures where they are required and compete with private enterprise where there is an obvious need, but "the policy of the New Democrats is not to nationalize everything."

The NDP would establish a Canadian Capital Resources Fund to mobilize Canadian capital for development and research and set up crown corporations "where it is considered necessary," as in drug manufacturing, he said.

"I believe we have the highest priced drugs in the world."

Scientist Needed

Dr. Richardson thinks it's time to get scientists into politics, because "an increasing amount of legislation involves scientific and technological matters."

A political newcomer, he shies away from predictions about the outcome of the June vote, but said the NDP "might well" form the next official opposition.

"Many voters may be influenced by the candidates and the leaders, but it is impossible to tell which way until June 25."

Dr. Richardson is an enterprising candidate with an unrefined sense of things political.

Whether his grass-roots demeanor can be melded with the NDP hierarchy to produce effective parliamentary representation — indeed, whether he will even get the chance to try — must await the outcome of the June reckoning.

PROJECT 100

Students' Efforts Lauded

A drive by British Columbia school students to send mobile classrooms to underdeveloped countries has almost doubled its objective.

The centennial year campaign by youngsters across the province had aimed at sending five vans abroad.

Five have gone and six more have been ordered.

The youth movement set its sights on $125,000 and romped home with $205,130, Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace announced in an interview today.

Mr. Wallace, who served as general chairman for B.C. centennial celebration in 1966 and 1967 said the campaign was "one of the most satisfying aspects of our celebrations.

"The students set out to share our birthday party with less fortunate youngsters . . . and they did remarkably well."

SPECIAL PRAISE

He had special praise for students of Greater Victoria who contributed $88,000 in a single project — the March of Millions which took place here last fall.

But Mr. Wallace also pointed out that even the smallest schools in B.C. engaged in dozens of pursuits from car washing to bottle collections and every dollar had the same importance to the success of the drive. It was known as Project 100.

A letter is going to all schools next week over the signatures of Mr. Wallace and C. G. Archibald, chairman of the B.C. Centennial special projects committee.

It says countries selected for aid are Guyana, Tanzania, Zambia, Hong Kong, India and Pakistan. British made trucks were converted to teaching purposes in B.C., much of the work undertaken by students at B.C. Vocational School, Burnaby.

Each van carries a generator unit, audio-visual teaching aids, film strips, books, science equipment and in some cases physical education equipment.

DONORS' MESSAGE

Each mobile school carries a framed certificate attesting to the spirit and interest of the B.C. student donors.

The letter will state that a cash grant of $2,000 goes with each van for purchase of additional books and materials and for each of two succeeding years, $1,000 grants will be sent. Total value of each gift is about $16,000.

A follow-up on the project will be conducted.

"This will ensure that the vision of the students who conceived the idea of mobile education resource centres does not fade but will in fact serve the youth in remote areas of our developing sister nations in the Commonwealth," the letter states.

Messenger Pleads Guilty To Taking Money From Mail

An 18-year-old employee of a messenger company contracted to deliver special delivery letters pleaded guilty today to two counts of theft from the mail.

Stephen Lambert, 4649 Cordova Bay Road, was apprehended Wednesday after a special investigator for the post office sent marked letters to himself.

Investigator Carl Hansen said Lambert admitted taking the letters, one of which contained $3.

Magistrate Ostler remanded tht accused to June 13 for a pre-sentence report.

15-Year-Old Admits Rash Of Burglaries

To Be Sentenced On 16th Birthday

A 15-year-old boy appearing in open court today pleaded guilty to 13 counts of house breaking and one of escaping lawful custody.

Court was told the boy was arrested after three break-ins in Oak Bay May 27.

A revolver and ammunition were taken from one house, and Oak Bay police said the accused told them "If I was pushed, I would have used it."

The other 10 break-ins were in Saanich between April 22 and May 25.

City police reported the boy escaped from the Juvenile Detention Home, 1125 Pembroke, on Tuesday. He returned voluntarily with his father early Wednesday.

SECOND YOUTH

An 18-year-old, Kenneth Clements, of 740 Kings, earlier pleaded guilty to four counts of breaking and entering. Police said he accompanied the juvenile on the four occasions.

The loot from the 13 break-ins totaled over $330 in cash, some jewellry and rare coins. Little was recovered. The stolen revolver was located by a police dog in Oak Bay bushland.

Clements is to be sentenced June 11. The 15-year-old is to be sentenced June 19, the date he told the court is his sixteenth birthday.

Freak Accident Sends Driver To Hospital

A man is in only fair condition in hospital today after his car jacknifed on the Trans-Canada Highway at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Roy Starck of 2604 Millstream sustained head injuries in the freak accident just north of the Thetis Lake cutoff.

Police said the car Starck was driving was being pushed south by an auto driven by John Dierick of 2738 Winster Road.

The cars apparently locked bumpers and jack-knifed across the highway, the collision injuring Starck.

In the city, a 72-year-old pedestrian was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after she was struck down by a car.

Police said Mrs. Dorothy McConnell, 1126 Rockland, suffered cuts to her arms and legs when she was struck at Fort and Cook by a car driven by Alois Mayr, 3959 Cedarwood.

Mrs. McConnell was released from hospital after treatment.

City Committee Wants Bylaw To Clean Up Backyards

City hall officials today took the first step in a move to clean up the eyesore caused by automobile graveyards.

A unanimous motion of the finance committee recommended to council that a bylaw be drafted to prohibit the keeping of wrecked cars on city lots and also control untidy or overgrown backyards.

Assistant city manager William Hooson told the committee Mayor Hugh Stephen had expressed concern over the problem and similar bylaws had been passed in Esquimalt, New Westminster and Edmonton.

In May, Island municipal authorities requested through the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities aid from the Motor Vehicles Branch in disposing of automobiles which had passed the time of their usefulness.

Their resolution will be considered by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at the annual meeting in September at Vancouver.

AIMED AT STORAGE

Mr. Hoosen said today a bylaw was not to be considered as an attempt to interfere with a person's rights but mainly to get at persons who were storing wrecked car bodies on their property.

He said the city are receiving a lot of complaints on this matter.

Ald. Lily Wilson said she would be reluctant to interfere with young people working on cars in their backyard.

"It's more important that they be able to work there than be out on the streets getting into trouble," she said.

Ald. Percy Frampton agreed but said he was concerned over who was going to determine whether a property was unsightly or not.

REMAIN UNTIDY

Mr. Hooson said the Edmonton bylaw refers to properties which remain untidy or unsightly and the Esquimalt regulation also uses the word "remain."

"It's the continual unsightliness we're looking for," said Ald. Frampton. "If a lot remains untidy month after month then its got to be cleaned up.

Mr. Hooson said the city solicitor had said there would be inherent problems in administering such a bylaw but that it was within the power of the municipalities to regulate such matters.

Recently Oak Bay proposed a bylaw to restrict untidy lots and caused great furore over a clause limiting boats over a certain length on the property. Following a public hearing the bylaw was revised.

RUDOLPH STANISH
. . . bong, crack, splash

To King Of Omelet It's Art!

By JOHN SLINGER

Jet-set chef Rudolph Stanish, self-proclaimed king of the omelet makers, ferried into Victoria today to conduct a luncheon appreciation of the omelet as objet d'art.

The man who single-handed prepared omelets for 3,000 guests at president John Kennedy's inaugural breakfast is now a one-man band for egg marketing boards.

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board, sponsors of the Empress hotel reception, dearly hope Mr. Stanish, 54, of New York, will convince people that the egg is something more than breakfast fare.

●

Breaking dozens of eggs into a huge silver bowl that bonged as he cracked the shells, Mr. Stanish explained that the egg was the "purest of all foods," and that "the omelet is the most useful single thing you can cook."

Eggs cracked, Mr. Stanish, a former butler who looks much like the one who always did it in those English mysteries, began to concoct his delicacies in specially-built aluminum frying pans over propane burners.

●

Swirling and swishing a mixture of chives and chopped bacon through the beaten egg, he sprinkled cheese over the top and folded in the edges. He rolled the omelet off the pan on to a plate quickly — he can turn out four omelets per pan per minute — and handed it to a lady who tasted it and said: "Terrific."

Mr. Stanish leaves Victoria to begin a world tour for egg producers.

The man who makes omelets for the Vanderbilts and Whitney's and all those beautiful people, at $125 a shot, says that for entertaining at his own home, he relies on his own personal cook.

Jury Trial In Holdup Charge

Lone Survivor of Crash Has Bail Set at $20,000

Bail was set at $20,000 today for the only survivor of a car crash that killed two young men May 11.

Peter Simpson, 21, of Toronto, is charged with armed robbery, car theft, and breaking and entering.

He elected trial by judge and jury and said he was applying for legal aid. He was remanded to June 13.

He was a passenger in a convertible that slammed into a tree in View Royal while it was being chased at a high speed by Esquimalt police.

Robert Rickward, 20, died almost immediately, and Roger McEwan, 22, died later the same day.

Simpson suffered a broken foot, broken ankle, and head cuts. He appeared in court today on crutches.

Shortly before the crash, police were called to an armed holdup at Ernie' Fine Foods, 1616 Hillside.

Three men with sweaters pulled over their faces had entered the store and ordered one employee on to the floor and locked a second in a cooler.

The trio escaped with $158.

Later Esquimalt police gave chase to a car. The car attempted to elude them and was doing an estimated 80 miles an hour when it slammed into a tree on the Old Island Highway near Jedburgh Road.

Pioneer Land Dealer Dies at 79

Pioneer Victoria investment and real estate dealer Robert Hugh Shanks, 79, died today after a lengthy illness.

Until his retirement in 1962 he had been 57 years in the Victoria-based Canadian head office of B.C. Land and Investment Agency, of London, starting as office boy and leaving as president.

During the Second World War Mr. Shanks acted as a dollar-a-year consultant for the federal government and was instrumental in the purchase by the defence department of Hatley Park, home of Royal Roads Services College.

TRADING CO. AGENT

He also was agent for the Hudson's Bay Co. subsidiary, Rupert's Land Trading Co., which owned acreage where the University of Victoria and a housing subdivision now stand.

His wife, daughter of a pioneer Victoria family, predeceased him in 1961.

Among Mr. Shanks' offices were the presidency of Victoria Real Estate Board and the Society of Residential Appraisers. He also had been honorary treasurer of B.C. Protestant Orphanage for 21 years between 1935 and 1956.

His home was at 1017 St. Patrick Street, Oak Bay.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Monday at Hayward's chapel.

LOFFMARK:

No Comment On Hospital Fee Hike

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark today declined comment on the possibility of an increase in the $1 a day co-insurance charge for general ward care in hospitals.

But he confirmed his department is studying the possibility of giving local and regional hospital boards added powers which could include the right to offer a higher standard of care than the provincial and national average.

Asked if this would mean some hospital boards might charge patients extra, Mr. Loffmark smiled and said: "No comment."

He explained it is felt by hospital boards they are unable to operate in a "normal" way because they are required to obtain permission from BCHIS for a number of routine policy decisions and actions.

EXCEED STANDARD

If a national standard of health and hospital care results from the medicare plan it is possible that hospital boards would be given the right to exceed that standard—or a similar provincial—if they wished, he said.

This would be part of a broader range of options that might be given local and regional boards.

A similar provision has already been included in new school financing legislation passed by the legislature this year. Educational programs offered above a provincial average become the responsibility of local boards—and taxpayers.

Ask The Times

Q. I was interested in the great philanthropist and friend of the Negroes in the 18th century named Anthony Benezet; could you tell me what nationality he was, where he was born and his religion? E.N.

A. Benezet was an American, born Jan. 31, 1713, at St. Quentin, France. His family moved to London to join the Society of Friends (Quakers) and went to Philadelphia in 1731. Benezet wrote several pamphlets against the slave trade (1762-71) and on behalf of the American Indians. He died in Philadelphia, May 3, 1784, according to the Century Cyclopedia of Names.

Q. Is there any local organization that collects used stamps? M.M.

A. The SPCA collects used stamps. These are sorted and sold at about seven cents a pound. Proceeds are used to help in SPCA work. The Victoria branch of the SPCA is located at 3150 Napier Lane.

Little Green Plants Invade Saver House

By PENNY SAVER

Our house has been invaded. The invaders may be recognized by their extreme green color and their craving for water. Some exhibit delicate, brightly-colored appendages known as flowers. As you may have guessed my invaders are the houseplants of a vacationing friend. She will be gone a week and is afraid to leave her precious plants alone lest they dry out completely. "Now just add a cup of water every other day then leave them strictly alone," were the instructions I was given. My friend knows that when it comes to plants I scarcely class as an expert. She checked the whole house completely when the plants arrived, trying to find a spot with just the right conditions for the tender things—I do wish she had left them at home!

When my friend returns I am determined to tell her of a way she can provide for her houseplants but still leave them in their own, familiar room. Plastic pots with a difference in a variety of colors and three shapes are 49 cents and 59 cents. These pots have a wick leading from the soil into a tray of water. As evaporation and the plant dry out the soil above, the wick brings up water to replace it by capillary action. This way the moisture level is kept constant throughout the soil. Since this is all regulated by natural laws, the plant can be set in a tray with enough water to keep it for the length of the vacation. These pots are raised slightly to let air circulate and recharge the soil, with oxygen. They snap out of the trays they come in so they can be set in the larger trays for longer vacations. A larger tray of the same plastic is 49 cents. This tray is perfect for all base-watered plants as it will not let water reach the table top.

Cat Litter Has Many Uses

Cat litter may not sound like it has much to do with plants, but my friend assures me it makes an excellent mulch. Made of expanded clay, cat litter is treated with a deodorant to keep kitty's box fresh smelling. Its absorptive qualities make it perfect for plants too. Both plants and cats love it, but watch out for them in combination. Cats love to chew plants and many a tiny kitten has been poisoned because neither he nor his owners knew that some houseplants could do him harm. A five-pound bag of cat litter is 59 cents and a 10 pound bag, 79 cents. It is just the thing for absorbing oil and moisture in garbage pails, barbecues or on garage floors. Should snow ever come to fair Victoria, this cat litter is excellent for giving traction to spinning wheels. Even if you don't have a cat, it is handy to have a bag around.

If you have ever scraped baked-on pie fillings from the bottom of the oven you will welcome the pie plate I found the other day. This plate is coated with a non-stick surface. One and a half inches deep, it measures eight and a half inches inside and 11 inches outside. That two and a half inch rim includes a trough running the whole circumference of the plate. This trough catches any bubbled-over juice and keeps it from reaching the racks and floor of your oven. The trough is coated, too, for easy cleaning. These pie plates will be on sale until the middle of June. The regular price is $2.75; sale price, $2.19.

If you would like to know where these items may be found, please call me at 382-3131.

DEMONSTRATION AT TEA

Ribbons, Net and Tape Are Part of Florists' Art

Pieces of ribbon folded in special ways, squares of net, florist's tape and other special accessories help florists construct the magnificent flower arrangements that are so difficult to duplicate with just flowers and a vase.

Tricks of the florist trade were cleverly demonstrated to guests at a tea Wednesday afternoon presented by Florence Nightingale Chapter, IODE, at the nurses' residence, Royal Jubilee hospital, when Shirley McAree arranged several bowls of summer flowers for guests.

Later, one of these arrangements, a bowl of red roses, was presented to Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd, municipal regent, who officially opened the tea after an introduction by chapter regent Mrs. W. M. Blair.

Another highlight of the afternoon was a boutique treasure auction, with guests bidding on interesting and unusual articles made by members.

General convener of the tea, which raised approximately $200 for the chapter's hospital, educational and charitable work, was Mrs. T. Lumsden.

In charge of the treasure auction were Mrs. G. C. Baker and Mrs. O. Minnis, and tea arrangements were made by Mrs. Karl Mills. Serving were three student nurses, Glenys Jones, Veronica Schwantje and Joan Hall.

Mrs. J. R. Hamilton was responsible for the charming table centres and flower arrangements which decorated the room for the occasion. Mrs. W. J. H. Patterson was in charge of publicity.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Along with the pleasures of summer come some nuisances such as mosquitoes, sunburn, sand fleas, stubbed toes, periodic heat waves and increased perspiration. We just have to take the bad with the good and do all we can to lessen the discomforts of this season.

The average woman does not have any problem at all controlling perspiration during the colder months. During the hot season she must take more care, and frequent bathing and the modern anti-perspirants are staunch allies and do the job.

Be sure that you use an antiperspirant instead of a simple deodorant. The antiperspirant decreases the output of perspiration while the deodorant simply controls odor. Today they are often in combination so that one product takes care of both problems.

It may be annoying, but if we didn't perspire we would have serious trouble. The sweat glands excrete a small amount of waste material but their main function is to regulate body temperature. Perspiration is mostly water, and when this evaporates from the surface of the skin, it cools the epidermis and also the blood in the superficial blood vessels. This in turn cools other areas of the body.

Do not be afraid to use deodorant-antiperspirants freely under the arms, on the hands or feet. The other sweat glands will compensate for those which you slow down. However if you have any reaction, such as redness or rash or swelling, discontinue the use of that product and try another brand. It is best not to use an antiperspirant immediately after shaving under the arms.

We women owe the cosmetic industry a note of thanks. With the weapons they have given us, we can solve most problems in good grooming.

Truly offensive body odor is very rare. In such cases medical advice is indicated. Excessive perspiration such as "night sweats" should also be investigated by your physician.

There are many things a woman must do every day to look her best. Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Essential Daily Routine For Beauty and Health," will help you get into the habit of staying more young and beautiful. To obtain your copy of this leaflet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Suffered for Being Christians in an Islamic Country

JORDANIANS SEEK PEACE IN VICTORIA

By PAT DUFOUR

The assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy has special undertones of tragedy for Mr. and Mrs. Eleia Y. Kayal.

Shortly after this picture of the couple and their three-year-old son, Joseph, was taken on Monday they learned that one of their countrymen, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, has been charged with the killing. They were stunned. All Mr. Kayal could say was, "I can't believe it."

Four months ago, they sold their thriving business and home in Jordan's capital city, Amman, and headed for Victoria. A driving sense of urgency and fear for their small son was the guiding factor in their decision.

BLAMED FOR DEFEAT

Both Christians, they've suffered under the pressures brought to bear by the Islamic majority who blame the United States and Britain for Israel's overwhelming victory a year ago.

"The Islams are convinced that the United States and Britain were responsible for Israel's success. They are also convinced that Israel was preparing the attack long before it actually came, massing troops on the borders of Egypt, waiting for a justifiable reason to go into action.

"Because we are Christians, the Islams include us in their hate, feeling that we, too, are responsible for the defeat and the loss of that part of Jerusalem which was once part of Jordan.

Mr. Kayal sees no easy solution to the torment in the Middle East, with the Arabs deeply convinced that Israel supremacy was abetted by American and British officials. Treatment of Arabs in Jerusalem also adds fire to the explosive situation.

TAX ON EVERYTHING

"Most Arabs are less educated there than the Jews and, consequently, their standard of living is usually at the bare minimum. Everything is taxed, stoves, refrigerators . . . everything. It's impossible for an Arab family to live in a three or four room apartment. Whole families live huddled in one room. There's also a tax levied on every room."

Mr. Kayal reports that official pressure is being brought to bear in various ways, geared to discourage Arabs from living in Jerusalem.

"You can get permission to leave Israel permanently within a matter of days. But, if you want to visit relatives in Jordan, just for a day or two, it takes three or four months negotiation before that precious permit is in your hands."

After the 1967 clash, Jordan lost part of the fertile land which was mainly used for the cultivation of crops. Consequently, there's a steady stream of trucks crossing between the east and west banks.

They bring vegetables from Israel to Jordan, returning with porcelain, clothes and other items that are difficult to obtain in Jerusalem.

The Kayals have relatives in Jerusalem and report that news of them is hard to get. "To send a letter to them, we must first mail it to England and then have it re-addressed to Jerusalem. The truck drivers who travel to Jerusalem are too terrified to smuggle in letters. They are examined on the border, and if letters were found, their truck would be taken from them and they would be put in prison."

WORRY ABOUT SON

The Kayals chose Victoria as their new home because, to them, it was the epitome of all they wanted. "We wish only to live a good life, in peace with our neighbors, with the knowledge that our son will be able to grow up to a good future."

Their decision was founded on reports by two of Mr. Kayal's brothers who have already found a life in Victoria. Saad is a professor of new mathematics at the University School and Nai'm is a typesetter with a local printing firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Kayal's flight in search of peace has demanded its price. Mr. Kayal, once the official writer for King Hussein and the Jordanian government, and the successful operator of a sign-writing business, finds that, to date, there are no openings available to him in Victoria.

"I've been to several firms here and they tell me that there is nothing now, but perhaps later I'll be able to get a job."

This week, friends rallied around him and helped him stage a show of his own Islamic art which is so outstanding that the Jordanian ministry of arts and culture presented it as an exhibition 13 months ago.

BORN IN JERUSALEM

Born and raised in Jerusalem, Eleia Kayal graduated from the University of Jerusalem with an arts degree and honors in Arabic calligraphy. He has used that training with great effect, producing scrolls that are all artistically based around quotes from Christ's sermon on the Mount and other parts of the Bible, as well as the Koran. He's also used the designs to be found in the interiors of ancient palaces of the Middle East and Spain as a base for his works. These include beaten copper, beadwork, filigree woodwork and ceramics.

Beginning Wednesday, continuing today and Friday, the works are on display at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

All of his works show a love of the Middle East's culture.

More important, his decision to cut off all ties in an effort to find a better way of life for his family, shows that Christians everywhere are motivated by the same ideals.

Jordanians Mr. and Mrs. Eleia Y. Kayal and their three-year-old son, Joseph, fled their own country to escape the violence and threatening hate that contributed to the assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy. (Bill Halkett photo.)

WIDOWS OF VIOLENCE BECOME PART OF AMERICAN SCENE

Procession of Tragedy Brings a New Type of Woman

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — In the last five years, the assassin's bullet has thrust upon the U.S. scene a new type of woman — the Widow of Violence.

The shooting of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, who died today in a Los Angeles hospital with his wife Ethel at his side, drew attention anew to the procession of tragedy.

First, shortly after midnight June 11, 1963, a bullet killed civil rights leader Medgar Evers in the doorway of his Jackson, Miss., home. Evers' wife Myrlie and their three children survived.

Five months later, Nov. 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy was shot down during a Dallas, Tex., motorcade with his wife Jacqueline at his side.

And two days later Lee Harvey Oswald, who the Warren commission said killed the president, was killed by Jack Ruby, leaving Oswald's Soviet-born wife with their two youngsters in an alien country.

April 4 of this year Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was slain while standing on the balcony of a Memphis, Tenn., motel, leaving behind his wife Coretta and their four youngsters.

Of these Widows of Violence, only the wife of Oswald has been able to regain a measure of private life. The two widows of civil rights leaders chose to remain in the spotlight to carry on their husbands' crusades. At the same time, Jacqueline Kennedy remains in the national limelight.

"When Medgar died, a part of me died, and I have just existed," said his widow a year after the tragedy. Eventually Mrs. Evers, haunted by memories in Mississippi, moved to Clearmont, Calif., where she enrolled at Pomona College. She will receive a bachelor's degree June 8.

Mrs. Evers, 35, said of her widowhood: "You learn to adjust and keep going, but you never get over it."

TRIES TO ESCAPE

The courage that sustained Mrs. Kennedy during her husband's death captured the admiration of the world. To escape the curious, she gave up her Georgetown home in hope of finding privacy in New York — without success.

On occasion, she has been criticized for living a peripatetic, over-fashion-conscious life among the Jet Set. Yet the rich and beautiful woman whose elegance once glamorized the White House has preferred not to take an active role in public life; rather perpetuating her husband's memory with various educational and cultural memorials.

As for Marina Oswald, she has blossomed into a well-coiffed, smartly dressed beauty. On contributions from sympathizers, as well as sums paid for exclusive interviews, she attended a university where she learned to speak English, married a Fort Worth salesman and settled with her two children into middle-class anonymity.

Resolute will has carried Coretta King, 41, through the events and emotions since King's assassination.

In the weeks since, Mrs. King has not paused. One day she was in Hollywood to enlist support for the Poor People's Campaign, the next she was in Washington parading through the slums in the rain. She has hesitated only long enough to comfort her four children from time to time, then she goes on.

Lady Lintott, wife of the British high commissioner to Canada, takes time out from a busy schedule to admire the Government House gardens with Mrs. J. H. McKay (right) and Mrs. James Sim. Sir Henry and Lady Lintott leave for Vancouver today.. (George N. Y. Simpson.)

DEAR ABBY . . .

Brother Ridicules Funny-Talking Sister

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was born in Vermont, where I lived for over 50 years. Now, owing to ill health, I am living with a younger brother in Nevada.

I have had little formal education, and my brother and his wife are both college graduates. To them, my way of speaking is hilariously funny. Even their children will repeat something I have said, and the whole family will laugh uproariously.

My brother will say, "We're having company tonight. Stick around. They'll get a kick out of hearing you talk." Should I be flattered? Or should I suggest they charge admission?

I respect my brother and his family for their kindness to me, but how does one keep from feeling resentment? I sometimes wonder if others are also going through the same thing, and if so, how do they handle it?

HURT

DEAR HURT: In all probability, your brother and his family are not aware of how you feel. So tell them. People with accents, (southern, Yankee, eastern, midwestern, and foreign) are frequently the objects of "curiosity," away from home. Of course it is rude and unkind to laugh at such a person, even though the laughter may be more from amusement than ridicule.

DEAR ABBY: Unlike the 14-year-old girl whose problem was a mustache, our 13-year-old daughter, Cynthia, has thick, black sideburns which are very conspicuous.

I think they look terrible, and when she goes anywhere with me, I make her comb her hair to hide them, but Cynthia thinks they look so "neat" she loops her hair over her ears to show them off!

Abby, she tries to tell me they are "in" now. In fact, she picked up a newspaper at a barbershop showing an ad of "HIS AND HER" sideburns, sold by some wig-maker in New York. (Do they actually make such items, or is it a joke?)

Cynthia boasts that she's the only seventh grader (male or female) with genuine sideburns — like Dino Martin.

I never thought I would produce a freak like her. Maybe she'll outgrow it, but in the meantime, will you pray for us?

PASS CHRISTIAN, MISS.

DEAR PASS: The only problem I see here is a mother who is making a problem where none exists. Let the child alone. When Cynthia's sideburns become a liability to HER, together you can find a solution. In the meantime, I'll pray for a better understanding between you two.

DEAR ABBY: Last year we put in a swimming pool. Please don't get the idea that we are millionaires. We aren't. We're just average folks in moderate circumstances. We like to share our pool with our neighbors, but some people don't know when enough is enough.

We started serving soft drinks to the kids, and beer to the adults, but that didn't last long. We did a bigger business than the country club.

How can we let our neighbors know that there are days when we've invited guests, and the whole neighborhood gang is not invited? I know we should not have been so big-hearted last year, but now that we realize our mistake, what should we do?

PORTOLA VALLEY

DEAR PORTOLA VALLEY: Fly a little "flag" on a pole to let your neighbors know that the pool is open for "all." If you plan a private party, no flag. Then educate your neighbors. It's as simple as that.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too gentle in your answer to the teen-ager who looked her mother in the eye with hat and said, "I DON'T OWE YOU ANYTHING. I DIDN'T ASK TO BE BORN."

If she were my daughter, I would have said, "That's right, and I didn't HAVE to raise you either. I could have sent you to an orphanage."

ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR ABBY: There is a humane society to protect dumb animals from starvation and neglect. Too bad they don't have a humane society for husbands!

I know a woman who sends her husband to work every morning without any breakfast. (He eats an orange on the way.) Not only that, but she doesn't pack him a lunch, either, and she knows there's no place to buy anything within a mile of where he works. If I didn't pack extra sandwiches in my lunch this guy would starve to death.

When he gets home from work he has to clean up the house and take care of the kids. And on weekends HE does the laundry. What do you think of a wife like that?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: Before passing judgment, I'd have to know if the wife is sick or just plain lazy. If she's sick, I'd try to get her some help. If she's lazy, and her husband puts up with it, he may qualify for help from the humane society. (It's for "dumb animals.")

STUDENT-APPROVED CANDIDATES ONLY

SFU to Search for New Chief

BURNABY (CP) — Peace was expected to return to Simon Fraser University today, at least on the campus, following a Wednesday night decision by faculty to put only student-approved candidates on its slate for an acting president.

Earlier Wednesday, Dr. Archibald MacPherson, dean of arts was endorsed by the board of governors as temporary acting president.

A five-man faculty search committee now will be elected by mail ballot, and the search will begin for potential acting presidents.

The names then will go before the governors, who will select one to succeed Dr. MacPherson. The university's president, Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, was placed on indefinite leave of absence by the board of governors last week, following censure of the school by the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

Meanwhile, both students and faculty are on record as favoring replacement of the present board of governors.

The board, however, issued a six-page statement Wednesday saying it has no intention of resigning.

Criticism was also levelled at the CAUT's manner of invoking censure against SFU. The statement said a CAUT committee spent three days on campus and advised university officials that it was investigating communications between administration and faculty.

Governors said they were amazed and dismayed that the president of the CAUT, during a later visit to SFU, did not speak to the chairman of the faculty committee about such listed issues as salaries, promotion and tenure.

The statement denied allegations in the censure report that governors had interfered in academic matters and faculty policies.

It said governors made every effort to attain from all parts of the globe professors of the highest calibre, and accepted their recommendations in setting university policy.

It also said recommendations regarding SFU, made by the CAUT, were under consideration.

IT'S ALWAYS A MAN!

TORONTO (CP)—An indignant woman demanded to know Wednesday why all heart transplants are being made to men.

The woman, who did not give her name, asked the question at a hearing of the royal commission on the status of women.

"Sometimes the donor is a woman, but the recipient is always a man," she said. "Could it be because the majority of doctors are men?"

'Heinous' Attack Costs Two Men Fines of $400

"There is no room in this society for jungle justice," Magistrate Ostler told two young men Wednesday.

The city magistrate fined Rickie Barnswell, 1512 Fairfield, and Alfred Reid, 646 Admirals, $400 each for assault causing bodily harm.

Earlier, court was told the two, accompanied by three others, went to the room of Gerald Meyer, 1321 Minto, and assaulted him.

Magistrate Ostler called the incident "a heinous offence" and said "the Criminal Code has a message for you and that is this country lives under the rule of law."

He said the offence "clearly indicates" a jail term, but favorable pre-sentence reports led him to decide on a fine.

'NEW LOOK' PROGRAM

Foster Parents Being Recruited

The capital region's Foster Parents Association is hiking up its skirts and wading into the community to recruit foster parents.

The monthly meetings will be small gatherings in each of southern Vancouver Island's 14 foster districts rather than the single large gathering in Spencerhouse.

The forbidding word "prospective" — which the association feels scares off many possible foster parents by making them think they are expected to apply — has been eliminated from the billing. The meetings are to be "foster parents information forums."

"This is the new look," said Mrs. B. Levitz Packford, supervisor of the program.

The meetings will be chaired by actual foster parents in each of the districts. This, Mrs. Packford said today, will help eliminate the aura of social workers and red tape that often surrounds such gatherings.

The association had been meeting in Spencerhouse for the last five years. Mrs. Packford said it has "sort of been keeping ahead" of the demand for new parents but there was always a need for more.

At the end of April there were 499 foster children on the association's active list, an increase of 69 for the year.

They were being cared for in 250 approved foster homes.

What Mrs. Packford calls "the high rate of attrition" — parents who adopt the children, parents who move, who retire — maintains the level of demand.

She said the likely success of this new approach has led the association to plan similar meetings for prospective adoptive parents. Ther is no program for them now and the plan calls for starting one in late summer.

The first community meeting will be Thursday in the association's James Bay-Fairfield district, at the Dialogue Centre, 520 Niagara.

Chairmen of the meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pocha, 221 Ontario, who have had seven foster children and now are caring for a 19-month-old boy.

Vandalism On Lights Scored

In an effort to arrest vandalism on navigational aids—lights and buoys—the Department of Transport is asking public help.

Anyone observing an act of vandalism is asked to contact either the DOT or the RCMP.

Marine Superintendent of Lights Bill Exley said lights are put out of commission by shooters or rock throwers on an average of one per month.

"Sometimes three or four are damaged."

Captain Exley said lights are damaged as far up the coast as Nootka sound.

"The inner part of Vancouver Harbor is the biggest problem," he said.

Bad weather conditions have resulted in the past in as many as three days spent in the repair of a single light destroyed by vandals.

Lady On The Rocks Not Dry

Ever take a drink to calm your nerves?

Sure, you say. Once in a while.

Do you have a drinking problem?

Not a chance, you say.

But are you sure?

To demonstrate the "it could happen to you" aspect of the alcohol problem, the Alcoholism Foundation of B.C. has produced a one-act play showing how an average middle-class housewife, not quite coming to grips with her role in life, falls into alcoholic pattern.

Lady on The Rocks is designed to demonstrate how frighteningly easily alcoholism can occur. It will be presented in Victoria next week.

Vancouver actress Pat Barlow plays the lead role in the play which seeks a new approach to present a perennial problem.

Drama provides one of the best ways of doing this, a foundation spokesman said.

Written by established playwright Elizabeth Blake, Lady on the Rocks was first presented at the foundation's annual meeting in Vancouver May 21.

The play will be presented in the Langham Court Theatre June 14 at 8:30 p.m.

Fined $25

Lawrence Wyatt, 1822 Government, was fined $25 Wednesday after he was found guilty of common assault.

Court was told Wyatt struck Joseph Furstenburg early May 23 in a dispute over some lumber.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a recent expert team game, both North-South pairs reached an impossible spade slam. At each table, the opening lead was the heart king and each South player saw a chance to make his contract. He would discard a club on dummy's ace of hearts and start on diamonds. Unfortunately for all South players, West was unkind enough to ruff the third diamond with the nine of trumps and the hand would collapse.

The bidding in the box is that of the first table. South was rather critical of North's jump to four spades and pointed out that, if North just had five spades to the king and nothing else, the slam would be practically a lay-down.

We agree. North's hand might hold the cards to produce game opposite some minimum opening bids but we play percentages and, in general, there would be no game unless South could rebid over a single raise by North.

At the other table, North made the bid that we consider correct and raised to two spades. South might well have simply bid game but he was looking for a slam and bid three diamonds. North proceeded to jump to four spades, whereupon South bid six. The same lead and the same one down resulted.

North and South had one of those happy partnerships in which each partner tries to blame himself for any bad result. North said immediately, "I should have bid three hearts over your three diamonds. That surely would have warned you of duplication and you would have contented yourself by merely going to game."

South replied, "Yes, I would have, and three hearts would have been a better call, but I did not have to go to the slam. I might well have bid only five spades. After all, you only raised to two as your first bid."

We think both North and South were correct in their analysis and even more correct in their parnership approach to discussing disaster hands. They will improve with each session of play together.

In today's housing shortage, it is nice to have a spare house — but oh, so costly. This vendor's first home is a good buy close to university entrance, elementary and high schools, bus stops, and shops. It is a fine family home. Just over a year ago, all new wall to wall was installed in the 13x19 living room, 10'x11' dining room and through halls. The kitchen is big with eating area plus about 40 feet of cupboarding. The Master bedroom is nearly 13x15 with good closet space. This home is about $4,500 under replacement cost. Level 70'x169' lot is nicely landscaped. So call on this 3-bedroom home (has area in basement for extra bedroom and rumpus room). Asking $25,950 with about $6,500 down and new mortgage or more down and assume $10,300 mortgage at 6 per cent at $122 monthly including taxes. Call

"It's nice to remain incommunicado," Inspector Pete Hagen quoted him as saying.

He "may have been inflamed" by Kennedy's call for U.S. jets for Israel during a televised campaign debate Saturday night, said a New York committee on American-Arab relations.

"He was violently pro-Jordan and anti-Israel," said John Shear, who worked with Sirhan at Hollywood Park race track. "When there was trouble between Jordan and Israel, he

"Senator Kennedy said the other day he wanted to help Israel," said Sirhan's recent employer, John H. Weidner, 57, operator of a Pasadena health food store chain.

"So I was not surprised after he was shot that Sirhan's resentment had pushed him emotionally to do what he did."

Police recovered two notebooks from his room. They contain 18 to 20 pages of handwriting. Some in Arabic, most in English.

In a notation entered either May 17 or 18, the mayor said, Sirhan apparently wrote "a direct reference to the necessity to assassinate Senator Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

Kennedy was shot when June 5 was only a few minutes old.

"There's much scribbling, repeated phrases, many references to Senator Robert Kennedy, even some references to . . . Arthur Goldberg," Mayor Yorty said of the notebooks.

Goldberg is the retiring U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. He has taken part in UN debate on the Arab-Israeli war.

"He does a lot of writing pro-Communist and anti-capitalist, anti-United States," said Yorty of Sirhan. "Evidently he was quite pro-Arab in the Arab-Israeli matter."

In Sirhan's possession when he was captured was a clipping of a column of David Lawrence on what the mayor's press secretary called "Kennedy's dove position on Vietnam and his hawk position on the Middle East."

COULDN'T BELIEVE IT

"My son—it can't be. No, Oh, no," cried Mary Sirhan, when she learned her boy was arrested. Mrs. Sirhan is a housekeeper at a Presbyterian nursery school in Pasadena.

"Ever since he had a fall about a year ago, he hasn't been the same. I can't talk to him."

Mrs. Sirhan said her son fell from a horse and "hurt his head here." She pointed to her right temple.

"All I know is he is a nice kid," commented Said Sirhan, one of the accused man's four brothers.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was born March 19, 1944, in Jordan territory seized by Israel during the lightning war last June.

As a child, Sirhan saw an Israeli soldier cut off the breast of an Arab woman with a bayonet.

The Sirhans came to the United States in 1957. The father, however, later returned to Jordan.

VICE-PRESIDENT SEEMS CINCH

Humphrey, McCarthy In 'Uneven Race' Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy's death has removed in a tragic manner the chief challenger to Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey's quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

With the New York senator's death, the fateful 1968 election year turned a fatal corner and left what many observers see as an uneven race between Humphrey and his fellow Minnesotan, Senator Eugene J. McCarthy.

Although the Humphrey name has not appeared on any primary ballots, he claims to have built up a long lead by picking up delegates in the tough backstage battles in the non-primary states while Kennedy and McCarthy were battling it out in primaries.

Many observers felt only the Kennedy mystique and dash could overcome Humphrey's strong base of Democratic "establishment" support among party leaders and labor unions.

Humphrey and his aides had refused to speculate on the political impact of the Kennedy shooting and, along with McCarthy, clamped an indefinite moratorium on campaigning even before the senator's death.

"We think it's not only inappropriate to speculate," said a Humphrey aide, "we think it's offensive."

POSTPONE CAUCUSES

After the Kennedy shooting, a strategist said, Humphrey aides sent appeals to supporters asking that planned caucuses of Ohio and Michigan delegations, where the vice-president hoped to nail down more support, be postponed.

And, the strategist said, Humphrey called off plans to begin campaigning in New York for that state's primary June 18.

He cancelled a schedule calling for him to open his California campaign June 13.

McCarthy, returning to Washington Wednesday night, said he would confer with President Johnson and the vice-president "before taking on other political activities of any kind."

A Humphrey aide had said the vice-president would welcome a meeting with his old friend and political ally from Minnesota.

Kennedy's death came at a critical turning point in the preconvention campaign.

FINISH SHOWDOWNS

With their primary showdowns concluded, Kennedy and McCarthy were preparing to wrestle Humphrey for votes in states that pick their delegates in caucuses and conventions—or by non-binding primaries.

After his victories Tuesday in the California and South Dakota primaries—which he had proclaimed only moments before being shot—Kennedy had 274½ votes in the Associated Press tabulation of Democratic national convention delegates already selected. Humphrey has 308½ and McCarthy 234½ in the AP tabulation.

It will take 1,312 votes to win the nomination at the Chicago convention in August.

Humphrey has said he has more than 600 pledged delegates. But he has also said it would be insulting to the delegates to claim he had the convention locked up.

The delegate-rich states of Illinois and New York have yet to select their delegates.

Kennedy's death is expected to swing most of those party leaders—like Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley—who had not yet chosen sides to rally under the Humphrey colors.

'Raised My Children To Be Good'

TAIYEBA, Jordan (AP) — The father of the young man accused of shooting Senator Robert F. Kennedy locked up his house today and cried from a window: "I am sorry. I brought up my children to be good."

Scores of reporters converged on this sleepy mountain village 2,500 feet high overlooking the city of Jericho.

Bishara Sirhan, 53, a short, swarthy man who lives alone in his stone cottage in a field, retreated behind the shutters and would only say:

"I am very, very sorry. I brought up my children as best I could and to fear God. I am sorry for what happened."

The villagers of Taiyeba—which means "the good one"—believe Bishara Sirhan is a Jehovah's Witness by faith but he insists he is a practising Greek Orthodox Christian.

The village, which has 2,000 residents, is populated by Greek and Roman Catholics and Greek Orthodox Arabs, who look down on Jehovah's Witnesses as "too pro-Jewish."

Neighbors said Bishara Sirhan first went to the United States in 1950, and brought his wife Mary and sons Sherif, Adel, Munir, Sa'adullah, and Sirhan to the U.S. in 1957.

Bishara quarrelled with his wife and returned to Jordan in 1961, neighbors said.

Sirhan, who is jobless, said he had had no letters from his sons since he returned to the village, which fell under Israeli rule in the Middle East war a year ago.

Violence Once Begun Tends to Be Repeated

By SID MOODY
and
JOHN BARBOUR

NEW YORK (AP) — With the shooting of Senator Robert F. Kennedy on Wednesday psychiatrists saw violence shown once again as coming closer to the surface of American life.

"Once the pattern of behavior is established, it tends to be repeated," said Dr. John Spiegel, director of the Centre for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University.

"It is in the public mind that this kind of thing can be done. The pattern was set with Lincoln. And it always seems to be with a gun."

"The populace as a whole is conditioned to expect violence," said Dr. Spiegel.

"Behind this is America's gun fettish and the notion that a gun can be used to solve conflict. It begins with children, acting out with guns."

And it began long ago.

"Violence by gun is an American trait," said Dr. David Abrahamsen, a New York psychiatrist experienced in criminal cases.

"We are still living under the legend of the Wild West where action was the easiest solution. On the frontier, settlers solved their problems with the gun."

Dr. Abrahamsen added: "Our society is not built on the restraints of family or class. It's built on success. If you don't have it, you're frustrated."

Frustration. The wet nurse of violence.

"Students at Columbia are frustrated, so they seize the university," said Dr. Abrahamsen. "Negroes are frustrated, so they riot."

Violence gains currency. But from the frustrated many come the few — the assassins.

"They think of themselves as avenging angels," said Dr. Jacob Chwast, a New York psychologist. "They are destroying someone they think threatens them and the people they feel they represent. Such people are very vulnerable to the stimulation of a public appearance by a national figure."

"Public figures are symbols of what America stands for," said Dr. Abrahamsen. "They become authority figures and as such have to be killed by those who feel frustrated by authority."

"The person who delivers the act is a highly isolated individual," said Dr. David Hubbard to the U.S. Medical Centre for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

"He feels himself wounded by the life machine around him, yet thinks he is a very special person quite close to the godhead. He may very well feel he is called to this action as a substitute for speech."

Does the name of the Kennedys — controversial in national politics — haunt this type of individual?

The psychiatrists doubted it although Dr. Chwast said:

"You can't overlook the impact of the Kennedy family on the American mind, the jealousy of its wealth."

"We Americans don't like violence," said Dr. Abrahamsen.

"We love it."

There are so many potential triggers on the streets, it is impossible to round them up."

So the assassins remain, waiting.

WANDERER IS SUSPECT

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Sirhan, the name of the man arrested in the shooting of U.S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy, means "wanderer" in Arabic.

"Sirhan" is a fairly common name in the Arab world and is used by both Moslem and Christian Arabs.

The use of a double name, as in Sirhan Sirhan, is not uncommon. Surnames are frequently used as given names too.

RIGHT TO THE END

Kennedy Worried About the Others

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Is everybody okay? Is Paul all right?"

These were the words that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy uttered seconds before lapsing into unconsciousness early Wednesday, according to Paul Grieco, 21, Woodbury college senior.

Grieco was among the first to extend aid to Kennedy after the senator was shot down in the Ambassador Hotel. He held Kennedy's bleeding head in his hands until an ambulance crew arrived.

"Kennedy's first thoughts were for the other wounded," Grieco said.

"Kennedy said, "Is everybody okay? Is Paul all right?'" Kennedy was referring to Paul Schrade, a union official who suffered a scalp wound in the shooting. Schrade was a few steps behind the senator when the shooting occurred.

"I told him everybody was okay and you're going to be okay—just lie still" said Grieco. "Then I held his head because I thought he shouldn't be lying down like that. I thought he would bleed less if I held his head up a little."

TRYING TO HELP

Grieco of Ontario, Calif., said Kennedy "was at the height of his consciousness" when he expressed concern for the others.

"He didn't seem to be in too much pain, although I could see the wound in his head clearly, he wasn't bleeding a great deal," Grieco recalled. "All I could think of was trying to help the man and keep people back as much as I could."

Grieco said the gun "sounded like a kid's capgun going off very fast. The next thing I knew I was by Kennedy's side trying to help."

Grieco, employed as a part-time bookkeeper with a Los Angeles construction firm while going to college, said he and a friend who lives nearby decided to "look in at the party in the hotel." Grieco said he is a Republican.

DRIVE TO EXCEL

He Ignored Dangers To Follow His Star

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how far or how high Robert F. Kennedy has climbed, he ha always seemed driven to go even farther and higher, to do it better.

It was that way in his recreation — the mountain climbing in Canada, football, shooting rapids, skiing. If was that way when he was a young lawyer with a Senate committee, when he ran his brother John's presidential campaign, when he was attorney-general, when he ran and was elected senator.

And it was especially that way in his current presidential campaign.

"I run to seek now policies," he said March 16 in announcing his candidacy.

"At stake is not simply the leadership of our party or even our country — it is our right to moral leadership on this planet. I cannot stand aside from the contest . . ."

And he plunged into the campaign with typical Kennedy zest and typical Kennedy disregard for danger.

A reserved, essentially shy man, Kennedy endured the mauling, pulling and tugging from adoring crowds.

There is little protection for any man in such large throngs.

Robert Kennedy knew this more than most men in public life, having gone through the tragedy of his brother's assassination in Dallas, Tex., in 1963.

He had in common with other children of Joseph and Rose Kennedy a drive for public service and to do it, above all, superbly.

He joined the justice department soon after graduating from the University of Virginia Law School in 1951, dealing principally with prosecution of graft and income tax cases.

He went with the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee when it organized in 1953, but feuded with chief counsel Roy Cohn over the handling of the hearings of Senator Joseph McCarthy involving the U.S. Army.

TANGLED WITH HOFFA

Kennedy became chief counsel and head of the 65-man investigative staff when a Senate committee was formed in January, 1957, to investigate labor racketeering.

That got him eventually into an epic feud with President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union, who called Kennedy "a young, dim-witted, curly-headed smart-aleck" and a "ruthless monster."

Kennedy was to hear the "ruthless" charge again and again in later years.

As attorney-general in his brother's cabinet, Robert was considered the second most powerful man in Washington.

After John Kennedy was shot, Robert's relationships with John's successor — Lyndon B. Johnson — began to worsen.

It is a mutual dislike that is widely known and little denied.

RAN FOR SENATE

When Kennedy ran for senator from New York in 1964 he said:

"I like to be involved in politics. I like to be involved in government."

The charges of ruthlessness and opportunism came up again this year when he jumped into the race for the Democratic presidential nomination — after waiting to see how Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota came out in the New Hampshire primary election.

He pointed to Tuesday's California primary election as the ultimate test before the Democratic party's nominating convention in Chicago in August.

He won the primary and at the celebration afterward flashed the victory sign and said "on to Chicago and let's win there."

Moments later he lay bleeding in a kitchen corridor.

Candidate Guards Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The senate, in a rare break with tradition, met today within hours of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's death to authorize secret service protection for major presidential candidates.

The move broke a long-standing precedent that the senate does not transact business on the day a member dies.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he had been in touch with the Kennedy family and "they said this is what Bob would like to have done.

He said the Senate would stand adjourned Friday as a "further mark of respect" for Kennedy.

Mansfield said a "sizeable" delegation of senators would fly to New York in an air force plane Saturday to attend Kennedy's funeral, then return in a special car on the funeral train which will carry his body to Washington.

He said the lawmakers will then form part of the funeral procession to Arlington national cemetery where Kennedy will be buried with his slain brother.

QUICK MOVE

President Johnson ordered secret service protection for the major presidential candidates a few hours after Kennedy was shot during a victory celebration in Los Angeles.

Mansfield said, however, the agents guarding the candidates are technically "acting without any authority until the legislation is approved.

The senate session opened today in almost routine manner with only a few members on the floor. The galleries were about half filled.

Mansfield introduced a resolution expressing the Senate's "profound sorrow and deep regret" at Kennedy's death. It was immediately adopted. Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey was in his chair as presiding officer.

Canadian Shooting In 1868 Recalled

TORONTO (CP) — When Senator Robert Kennedy was shot in Los Angles, some Canadians reacted with: "It couldn't happen here."

But 100 years ago, Thomas D'Arcy McGee delivered a ringing speech on brotherhood and Confederation in the House of Commons. He was shot to death on his way home and died of a gunshot wound on downtown Sparks Street.

James Patrick Whelan, known to be a Fenian, was hanged for the murder.

McGee had fought efforts by the Irish extremist group to create disloyalty among Irish immigrants to Canada.

On April 7, 1868, he told the House he spoke "not as the representative of any race or of any province but . . . bound to recognize the aims of my Canadian fellow subjects from the farthest east to the farthest west. . . ."

A House of Commons page found him crumpled on the doorstep of his rooming house, dead of a single gun shot.

Before coming to Canada in 1857, he worked in London and Dublin as a politician and journalist. He was elected to the legislative assembly of the Union of Upper and Lower Canada and to the house of Commons of the new Confederation.

Poor Mourn Death of RFK

By AUSTIN SCOTT

WASHINGTON (AP) — For many poor people at Ressurection City, the shooting of Senator Robert F. Kennedy became a black versus white issue.

In that respect, their feelings differed little from the sentiments expressed on the riot-torn corners of 7th and 14th Streets three miles away where, ironically, the senator had been billed in a primary he won last month as the only candidate who could walk safely through urban slums.

They were also similar to feelings in New York's Harlem, Detroit's Dexter Avenue, or almost any Negro slum.

"Every time a colored or a white fellow tries to help us make a better life for ourselves, somebody will cut him down for no reason," said housewife Annie Mae Vargas in Harlem.

Aside from an afternoon prayer service for Kennedy, who was then still fighting for life, the shooting did not disrupt the relaxed pace of life in the plywood shantytown by the Lincoln Memorial.

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., who lost her husband to a sniper's bullet April 4, sent a telegram of condolence to Ethel Kennedy. And Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded Dr. King, said he was "profoundly shaken. . ."

HOW HE SAW IT

Abernathy saw the shooting as more than an isolated event. He called it, together with the deaths of King and President John F. Kennedy, a conspiracy aimed at leaders who try to help the poor.

But when the subject came up between friends, conversation frequently turned bitter and nearly everybody drew parallels between these shootings and those of half-a-dozen civil rights workers in southern campaigns during the last five years.

RELIGIOUS LEADERS ON U.S. VIOLENCE

'Moral Sickness Strikes Nation'

NEW YORK (AP) — Something is wrong with Americans, something blind, hard and wanton that sets off the fury and the fanatic's bullets. That is the assessment of religious leaders of the United States' virus of violence.

In the aftermath of the shooting of Senator Robert Kennedy, they saw in that event and in other recent destructive upheavals and deaths both a moral sickness and smouldering hostilities pervading American society.

"We've lost the sense of the sanctity of life," Rabbi Dr. Abraham Heschel, a noted Biblical scholar, said Wednesday. "We've become a nation of cynics, master debunkers of quality, nobility and the great values.

"We've surrendered our religious traditions for a cheap, self-regulating attitude which assumes it has no need of higher laws. It's a conspiracy of all of us. We've all failed."

STANDARDS SHATTERED

It is this general environment of shattered standards, strong-arm tactics and undisciplined behavior—not just the mania of individual perpetrators—which the religious thinkers cited as a catalyst to the violent acts.

"Statistically, the number that commit the acts are small, but they're inclined to do it by the whole atmosphere of brute force," said Rev. Robert McNamara, a Fordham University sociologist.

"We're sick, sick, sick. We've allowed the mass entertainment media, television, movies and comic books, to glorify violence in a terribly unhealthy way. The amount of sadism and masochism is incredible."

Others cited the growth of militarism including the Vietnam war, the trend toward permissiveness and the over-all mechanization of life as engendering intense frustrations coupled with exploding disorder.

"This crushing burden of our enormously complex social structures produces an inner tension and a sense of helplessness that makes people feel threatened and to react violent," said Rev. Avery Dulles, of the Jesuits' Woodstock College in Maryland.

"It's a perilous time. We're going to have to find some more orderly way of channelling the new dynamics of change."

The widespread availability of arms also was seen as accommodating the outbreaks of sniper fire in cities and assassinations, including those of the late President John F. Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"The ease with which deadly weapons can be obtained in this country is really shocking," said Rev. John Macquarrie, a British-born Anglican now teaching at Union Theological Seminary.

He also cited a spreading attitude that people, in confronting society's power structures, "must be violent to establish their own identity." While historically such measures may sometimes be justified, he said "so much of the present violence seems completely mindless and directionless."

CANDIDATES UNSAFE AMONG PEOPLE

Campaign Methods to Change?

By WALTER R. MEARS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the United States, the men who would be president have walked freely among the people whose votes they sought.

But can they now, after Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated by a gunman who lurked among cheering supporters?

The tragedy already has changed, and could doom, the free and open campaign style which has marked the politics of presidential year 1968.

Kennedy based his campaign for the White House on the argument that the people, not politicians, should choose the Democratic nominee. He walked through surging crowds, a friend and former FBI agent named Bill Barry often his only shield.

Senator Eugene McCarthy, Kennedy's rival in the primaries, was not a security conscious man. There never was any evidence of bodyguards around him.

Even as Kennedy lay on the operating table in a Los Angeles hospital, President Johnson made a major change in the campaign security system.

He ordered the Secret Service to assign a protective detail to each major candidate.

The wide-open campaign style survived the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. President Johnson campaigned through crowds on his way to a landslide victory four years ago.

But his style has changed now, too. The White House has kept secret his destinations until the president was en route.

Television, heretofore a valued campaign tool for its reach to the voters, may come to be valued more, for it provides a candidate with safety and an audience at once.

For if Robert F. Kennedy was not safe in a hotel crowded with his friends, where and among whom can the candidates of 1968 feel secure?

TIPS FOR HOME GARDEN

Rhodo Full of Surprises

By JACK BEASTALL

Some gardeners are elated, some dismayed, others puzzled when they find their pink or red rhododendron has suddenly decided to produce mauve flowers. The elated gardeners feel they have, at last, acquired a plant that has sported and could be worth a small fortune.

Jack

The dismayed gardeners would much prefer the pretty pink or the brilliant red they purchased for a predetermined effect.

And the puzzled gardeners wonder what has happened, while the pessimists forecasted such dire effects would result when man finally split the atom.

The truth of the matter is that rhododendrons are often two plants in one and the two flower colors show that each part is growing.

For years rhododendrons were produced in quantity by grafting the desired hybrid to the roots of rhododendron ponticum, a very old favorite with mauve flowers.

When mauve flowers appear on plants of other colors it means that the shoots (or growths) bearing mauve flowers have grown from the root stock, and have nothing to do with the grafted variety.

Such shoots should be removed immediately, clear back to their point of origin, even if it is necessary to remove some soil to reach an underground root, although this is seldom necessary.

If these root suckers are allowed to persist, the common ponticum stock will soon take over and the desirable hybrid will gradually die.

With increased knowledge and improved techniques, growers are able to produce rhodos on their own roots, and that is why some gardeners never experience this problem of two flower colors on the same plant.

When a rhodo on its own roots is damaged, any new growth from the roots will be the same as the damaged portion. But when a grafted plant is damaged or killed back, new growths from the roots will be the unwanted kind.

IT FEELS LIKE HADES

He's Walking His Way Through Church College

LAIE, Oahu, Hawaii (AP) — Simau Manumaleuna has an unusual way of putting himself through college. Simau, a Samoan, is a fire-walker.

Four to six times a week, he dances and prances through a curtain of flame at Hawaii's Polynesian Cultural Centre which is operated by the Church College of Hawaii where Simau is a student.

With two other fire-walkers, Simau shows the tourists the ways the boys back home in Samoa traditionally prove their courage.

For his fancy footwork, the 25-year-old student earns a small fee that helps toward his education.

Simau became a fire-walker as a matter of chance. They were short one fire-walker one night and he volunteered for the assignment.

ESCAPED INJURY

Cued by his two other fire-walkers, Simau leaped onstage and raced into the flames. His first and completely unrehearsed performance went flawlessly—no burns.

"You keep moving, fast, but not too fast," Simau said, in explaining how a fire-walker walks.

"The movement of your body, your feet, sets up a cushion of air that pushes aside the flames. You can dance through and not get burned."

Simau and his fellow Samoans perform atop three small wooden platforms less than a yard wide. Gasoline-soaked fibrepaper, something like cardboard, rims each platform on three sides. When ignited, a wall of flame shoots two or three feet high.

Simau said it's relatively safe in the centre of each platform but dangerous at the edges.

"Once in a while we get a little singed," he says. "One of the others got a painful burn a few weeks ago, but it wasn't serious.

"He runs faster now."

Clowns Register Faces

LONDON (AP) — Nearly all clowns have bulbous noses, big red mouths, flapping ears and the like. But every clown has something special in his makeup which makes his face unique.

By unwritten agreement, clowns never copy each other's makeup. And to ensure that it doesn't happen accidentally, clowns' faces are registered—on eggshells.

Jack Gough, 45, organizer of the International Clown Club, records the professional faces of more than 150 members.

He takes an ordinary chicken egg and drains away the yolk and white through a tiny hole in the shell.

From photographs and sketches, Gough reproduces the clown's face in color on the eggshell. It is then filed away with more than 200 others which have been recorded down the years.

Once it is copied, the face is the property of that particular clown for life and not other member of the club would dream of imitating it.

The International Clown Club was founded by the late Stan Bult, who died two years ago. Gough, a transport clerk of Croydon, South London, took over as organizer.

Gough's eggshells show the face of Coco, Smokey, Gerbola, Nonny, Tina, Camillo and dozens of others who have made the Big Top shake with laughter during the years.

Soon he hopes to get more detail and realism by using bigger eggs — ostrich and crocodile eggs.

CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—An inquest has been ordered into the death Wednesday of Winnifred Collis, killed when a heavy store canopy fell on her. Police said large metal bolts holding the Variety store canopy, about 20 feet long and 10 feet wide, apparently gave way.

Aid for Students

OTTAWA (CP) — University students finding it difficult to get jobs this summer in a tight labor market may be entitled to unemployment insurance benefits under certain conditions, officials of the unemployment insurance commission said Wednesday.

A chief requirement is that within the last 52 weeks the student worked eight weeks and paid unemployment insurance contributions.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Bonnie Lutton, age 11, of Muncie, Indiana, for her question:

What kind of creature is a protozoan?

Ordinary folk call him a one-celled animal or a single-celled animal. Biologists refer to the miraculous midget as a protozoan. Scientists need meaningful scientific terms to name their subjects so that their colleagues who speak other languages know what they mean.

There was a time when biologists spelled this word "protozoon." The "zoo" syllable is borrowed from an older world meaning "life" or "living." We meet it in such words as "zoo," a place for the display of living animals, and in "zoology" — the branch of biology that copes with the study of living animals. The "proto" syllable of our scientific term is coined from an older word meaning "first" or "original." The first or original life forms tended to be simpler than the more complex forms that developed from them and appeared later. In the sciences, the "proto" syllable may be stretched to mean the simplest form of something.

Protozoon is a rather clumsy word, and since scientists strive to grasp things at their simplest levels, they tend to shy away from clumsiness. In this, they are merely copying nature. In nature, the tiniest items have to work perfectly or perish. The rule is a neat and well-balanced pattern with no excess parts to foul up the smooth operation. Designs of this sort are always beautiful to behold. So it was natural for scientists to change their clumsy word "protozoon" to the more musical "protozoan."

A protozoan can be any single-celled animal who is a member of the vast animal Phylum Protozoa. The number of there miraculous midgets that share our world is beyond the imagination. Almost all of them are too small for our eyes to see. Most varieties enjoy aquatic lives in streams and ponds or in the sea. Most protozoa are harmless creatures, though some live as parasites in larger plants and animals. A few species infect plants, animals and even people with diseases.

Splits in Two

Each of the countless species of protozoan is different, though all of them share basic family features. Each depends upon one and only one small cell to carry on all the processes of life. That one cell must be able to find food, devour and digest it. It must be able to absorb oxygen or some other fuel from its surroundings and use it to operate the chemical processes that keep the little cell alive. These chemical processes create waste materials and the cell must have its own garbage disposal system to eliminate them. Every protozoan is a miraculous unit of animal life in which all these wondrous systems and processes operate economically on miniature scale.

Life, of course, must multiply or it would soon be wiped out by hardships and unexpected events in the world of nature. Even the tiny protozoan must cope with the problem of multiplication. But the bitsy creature hands on life in its own astonishing way. At the right time, the tiny living cell simply splits itself into a pair of twins. It produces no children and never ages. The humble protozoan has the secret of immortality—for, barring accidents, he can go on living indefinitely.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Freddie Robinette, age 12, of McConnell, West Virginia, for his question:

Where are dugongs found?

The dugongs are fat and lazy aquatic mammals. Like the seals, their arms have become flippers. They have no back legs or flippers and their wide, fishy tails are notched in the middle. Their blubbery blue-gray bodies may be 10 feet long. Their floppy faces resemble piles of old rubber tires and their mobile noses are bedecked with beards of stubby bristles. The slow-moving fellows feed mainly on seaweeds and their favorite haunts are shallow coastal waters.

They are found off the warm shores of the Red Sea and along the coasts of the Indian Ocean. Dugongs also live lazily off the mild shores of East Africa and Eastern Australia. Others browse in the shallow seas around Formosa and the Solomon Islands. All of their haunts are in the Old World, but the dugong has an American cousin who resembles him very closely. This fellow is the manatee, alias the sea cow. This floppy fellow lives in shallow waters off South and Central America and he may be found off the shores of Florida.

Girl, 6, Survives Highway Tragedy

Car Crushed

ERNEST BITTERMAN
. . . from prairies

A six-year-old Victoria girl was the sole survivor in a family of five when a landslide demolished their car near Revelstoke on Wednesday.

Killed while driving home from a family holdiay at Melville, Saskatchewan, were grocery warehouseman Ernest John Bitterman 42, his wife Annet 34, and two daughters Terri Lynn, 4, and Sandra Lee, 2. They lived at 4185 Carey Road.

The third daughter, Janet, is in hospital at Revelstoke suffering cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred when a mountain slide crashed across the Trans-Canada highway 20 miles west of Revelstoke, near the shores of Griffin Lake.

The coast-bound car was swept 50 feet off the two-lane highway and down an embankment. Police said Janet apparently thrown from the car which was demolished in its plunge. Janet was covered with mud and debris but almost unhurt, they reported.

Highway crews were using bulldozers and dynamite today to clear a mound of debris 3,000 feet long and 600 feet wide and up to 20 feet deep. Rescue officials blamed a cloudburst in the mountains for loosing the slide which thundered down the mountain-walled bed of Camp Creek, carrying trees and rocks.

Rubble on the road was estimated to weigh 7,000 tons. It was not known at first whether other cars had been caught in the slide.

Relatives of the family were in a state of shock today.

OTHER CARS

"We are almost prepared for accidents involving other cars. But who ever expects something like this?" said a brother, Carl Bitterman of 308 Brunswick Place.

He said Ernest Bitterman was born in Melville where the family of nine was well-known. He had come to the coast following two years in the army in Second World War. He worked for the CPR in Prince

REVELSTOKE (CP)—Six-year-old Janet Bitterman desperately shouted and cried for help. But it was too late.

Her parents and two sisters were dead in the family car, tumbled and battered by a landslide that knocked out the Trans-Canada Highway Wednesday night.

"There are four more in the car . . . there are four more in the car," the distraught youngster shouted at the rescuers.

The bodies were not freed from the tangle of wreckage buried in mud and rocks for more than an hour later.

Reject Passion, Violence Implores Tory Leader

(Special to the Times)

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield Wednesday night implored Canadians to reject the passion and violence of Los Angeles as a solution to national divisions.

He urged an evening meeting of some 1,800 persons overflowing a local theatre to soberly ponder the implications to Canada of the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The shock to Canada was deeper because of the nature of the act "which does violence to a system of values and of politics which we share with America."

It was one more reminder, he said, that for all mankind's progress and hopes, each country is still not far from an uncivilized condition.

"I have had occasion before to remark upon the importance in this country of the work of reconciliation, to ease the sense of division between Canadians of different races and different regions, different ages and different incomes," he said.

"That remains an urgent responsibility of all Canadians of good will."

Mr. Stanfield earlier told a press conference he had no intention of requesting special security protection in the wake of the Kennedy assassination.

He has no security arrangements other than local police to control crowd pressures.

To Be Buried Beside Brother

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy, felled like his president brother, by an assassin's bullet, died early today.

His mourning family prepared to take his body home to New York, across the nation Kennedy had hoped to lead as president.

And on Saturday, the senator is to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, probably at the hilltop plot which is the resting place of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy, 42, never regained consciousness, never showed signs of recovery after a savage burst of revolver fire sent a bullet plunging into his brain—at the pinnacle of his own campaign for the White House.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE

Kennedy, his pregnant wife, Ethel at his bedside, died at 1:44 a.m. PDT—a little more than 25 hours after the assault at the Ambassador Hotel.

Kennedy's body was to be flown from Los Angeles to New York later today on a jet airplane provided by the White House.

SEE STORIES PAGES 33, 34

Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary, said the body would lie in state Friday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

A requiem mass will be held there Saturday morning.

Salinger said Kennedy would be buried late Saturday in Arlington, across the Potomac River from Washington, where an eternal flame flickers in memory of John Kennedy, slain four years and seven months ago.

HOLD POST MORTEM

In preparation for Kennedy's last journey, a post-mortem was under way at Good Samaritan Hospital in downtown Los Angeles.

President Johnson, the man who succeeded President Kennedy, issued a proclamation calling for a national day of morning for the senator on Sunday.

As Kennedy died, the man accused of shooting him was under heavy guard at a downtown prison hospital, held in $250,000 bail for a court appearance which had been scheduled Monday.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was accused of wielding the .22-calibre revolver which cut down Kennedy and wounded five other people early Wednesday as the senator and his supporters celebrated victory in the California presidential primary.

SEEK MURDER CHARGE

Assistant District Attorney William L. Ritzi said his office would ask the Los Angeles County grand jury to indict Sirhan on a charge of murder.

Sirhan, a Jordanian who had been living in Padadena, was described by those who knew him as a man inflamed over the hostilities between his native state and Israel. A former employer said he might have been enraged by Kennedy's past words of support for Israel.

Senator Edward M. Kennedy, the family's lone surviving son, was at Robert's beside at the end along with other members of the family.

WIFE BEARING UP

Salinger said Ethel, the wife, "is bearing up very well."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the assassinated president, was in her brother-in-law's room when he died.

Two of Kennedy's sisters, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, were there too.

Salinger said three of Kennedy's 10 children were in an adjacent room and saw their father before he died.

'Civil Dialogue' Trudeau's Plea To Canadians

By DAVE McINTOSH

SUDBURY (CP) — Drawn and quiet-voiced, Prime Minister Trudeau appealed Wednesday night for a "civil dialogue" by all citizens of Canada.

Even a country as richly endowed as the United States has not solved the problem of violence inside or outside its borders, he said.

Canadians were fortunate that they had no civil disorders. They were remarkably mature. But there were some individuals who shouted such things as "go home to Quebec" and "you bloody Communist."

"This is not the dialogue on which civilized society can be built," he told a packed crowd of 6,000 in Sudbury Arena.

His message about violence was underlined by tighter security measures for him. Mr. Trudeau and his staff occupied one floor of a hotel here Wednesday night and only they were allowed on the floor.

OTTAWA (CP) — A State memorial mass for Senator Robert Kennedy will take place in Notre Dame Roman Catholic Basilica here Sunday at 3 p.m. with members of the diplomatic corps and government leaders attending.

Sudbury police guarded every entrance to the floor. The RCMP occupied a suite across the hall from that of Mr. Trudeau. Provincial police were also involved in the security arrangements, which included patrols by unmarked cars and plainclothesmen near the hotel.

ATTENDS FUNERAL

Mr. Trudeau told his audience at the arena that he had considered cancelling his Sudbury trip after attending the Montreal funeral earlier in the day of his "dear friend" Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, who died in Ottawa Saturday.

But the prime minister said he thought that the best tribute he could pay to Mr. Laurendeau was to come to Sudbury where Canadians of many origins worked together in peace, harmony and prosperity.

Sudbury represented the kind of Canada Mr. Laurendeau was building. The greatest homage Canadians could pay him would be to accept his ideas on how French and English can live together in one great country.

Mr. Trudeau said the shooting of Sen. Kennedy "cast a shadow over all of us."

"One can only reflect on the frailty of human society," he said.

If people wanted to live in peace and prosperity, they must find a civil dialogue.

'We Shot Him' She Said

(Times News Services)

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles police issued an all-points alert today for the apprehension of a woman they said might have been involved in the murder of Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

A police spokesman said Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, arrested on charges of shooting the senator, was seen with a woman shortly before the attack took place.

The woman was described as white, aged 23 to 27, and five feet six inches tall.

Insp. Peter Hagan said officers still believed only one person was involved in the shooting, but didn't want to overlook any possibility.

The case was not considered closed yet, said Hagan, press liaison officer for Police Chief Tom Reddin.

The bulletin was issued Wednesday after a Kennedy campaign worker told police that a woman in a polka dot dress ran from the Ambassador Hotel early Wednesday at about the time an assassin fired eight shots at Kennedy.

BLACK POLKA DOTS

"We shot him," Miss Sandy Serrano said the woman told her.

Police described the woman in their bulletin as a white female, 23 to 27 years old, 5-foot-6, wearing a white voile dress with three-quarter sleeves, and small black polka dots.

Miss Serrano, a 20-year-old youth for Kennedy worker from nearby Pasadena, explained in a television interview after the

BORN IN JORDAN

Suspect Inflamed By Mid-East War

By RICHARD E. MEYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His name is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

Police say he is a cool, close-mouthed Jordanian who fired a bullet from close range into the brain of Senator Robert Kennedy, killing him.

Mayor Samuel Yorty says Sirhan aparently wrote in a notebook about "the necessity to assassinate Senator Kennedy before June 5, 1968." That date was the first anniversary of the outbreak of the latest Arab-Israeli war.

Neighbors, former employers and the authorities say he hates Jews.

The record says Sirhan is 24 years old, five-feet five, weighs about 120 pounds, has a swarthy comlexion and wiry hair.

He has been an exercise boy at a race track, wanted to be a jockey and worked in a health food store.

He was under maximum security guard in a hospital ward at the Los Angeles County central jail, charged with six counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

WILL CHANGE CHARGE

One of the assault charges will be changed to murder.

He is to appear at 8:30 a.m. Monday for preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Joan Klein.

Sirhan's index finger was broken and his left ankle sprained in a tussle that ended in his capture, seconds after Kennedy was shot early Wednesday.

Kennedy had just thanked his supporters for his victory over Senator Eugene J. McCarthy in California's Democratic presidential primary election.

Sirhan has talked to police, but not about Kennedy or the shooting.

Officers said he was advised of his rights, but didn't want a lawyer. He refused to give officers his name.

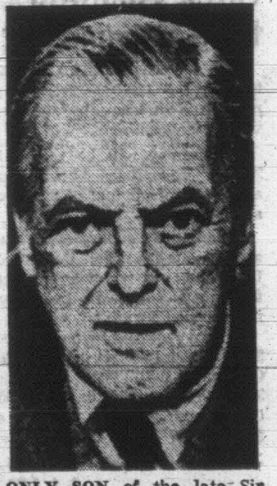
'It Hurts Us Very Bad'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The family of Sen. Robert Kennedy's accused assassin sent a brief telegram to the Kennedy family today which expressed sadness and remorse.

"It hurts us very bad what has happened. It hurts everybody very much. I am crying for them all," said the telegram which was signed "Mrs. Mary Sirhan and family of the accused assassin, Sirhan Sirhan," who reportedly was taken from their Pasadena home to another city under police protection.



ONLY SON of the late Sir Winston Churchill, journalist Randolph Churchill died in London Wednesday night from an undisclosed illness. He was 57. (See story Page 15.)

'IF THEY WANT YOU, THEY CAN GET YOU'

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy always sensed it would come some day.

"I play Russian roulette every time I get up in the morning," he would say.

"But I just don't care. There's nothing I could do about it anyway."

Kennedy has been described as a fatalist, one who never looked beyond the next moment and who was prepared for tragedy any day.

Today, after he had died of wounds inflicted by an assassin, the memory of a long, introspective, and rare conversation surfaced in the minds of the few who had heard it.

Kennedy was relaxing in the rear of his campaign plane, winging through the night sky, taking him home to Hickory Hill, his home in McLean, Va., after a rigorous week of midwestern campaigning.

He spoke broodingly.

Wasn't he concerned, he was asked, about the perils of such wild crowds as he had attracted that day and nearly every day of his presidential campaign?

"No," he said. "I just don't worry about that. There's no sense in worrying about those things. If they want you, they can get you."

He thought for perhaps 30 seconds and then said, "Well, let's not talk about that."

A reporter thought of his brother, John F. Kennedy, assassinated; of an older brother, Joe, killed in wartime; of his sister, Kathleen; of his wife's parents and his close friend, Dean Markham, killed in plane crashes.

But wouldn't it be a national crisis if one of his stature were to be harmed, after the violence to his brother and to Martin Luther King Jr.?

"Perhaps it would, I suppose so," Robert Kennedy said. "But what can I do about that?

"I'll tell you one thing: If I'm elected president you won't find me riding around in any of those awful cars."

He was referring to the closed, armored presidential limousine President Johnson has used since John F. Kennedy's motorcade assassination.

Bobby Kennedy would ride in open cars, he said, so the people could see their president.

Security on the Kennedy campaign has been a 210-pound former FBI agent named Bill Barry. Faithful to a fault, Barry has ignored battered knees and wrenched muscles to lead his much smaller boss through the frenzied mobs that try to tear him to pieces.

"Of course, I worry about what would happen to my family, to the children," Kennedy mused on the plane. "But they're well taken care of, and there's really nothing else I can do, is there? So I really don't care about anything happening to me."

And then there was a long pause: "This isn't really such a happy existence, is it?"

VIOLENCE PROBE LAUNCHED

Let Law Rule, Johnson Urges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Let us, for God's sake, resolve to live under the law."

With this solemn invocation to a troubled nation, President Johnson Wednesday night dispatched a select nine-member panel on the mission to seek causes for violence of the sort that struck down Robert F. Kennedy.

In a 7½ minutes address on nationwide television and radio, the president said:

"My fellow citizens, we cannot, we just must not, tolerate the sway of violent men among us. We must not permit men who are filled with hatred, and careless of innocent lives, to dominate our streets and fill our homes with fear.

"We cannot sanction the appeal to violence, no matter what its cause and no matter what the grievance from which it sprang . . .

"A great nation can guarantee freedom for its people and the hope of progressive change only under the rule of law. So let us, for God's sake, resolve to live under the law."

To head the special commission, the president chose Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University and brother of former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Other members are Archbishop Terence Cooke of New York; Albert E. Jenner Jr., a

Until the moment that he achieved victory in the California primaries, Robert Kennedy had suffered no more than the casual wear and tear incidental to a hot campaign. He had been snatched at by eager hands, and lost any number of cuff links to souvenir hunters, and even suffered a chipped front tooth in an accidental bumping of heads.

There are always those who must press in on a man of the hour, particularly if he happens to be young, personable and bears a famous name. They want to touch him, as if in hopes that some of the magic will rub off on their anonymous selves.

But not kill him. Not to fire into the theatre box, or steady the cross-hairs of a telescope sight at the upper window, or blast at close range in a hotel corridor.

Lincoln and John F. Kennedy were United States presidents, but Robert Kennedy was still only a candidate. The American assassin grows more hasty.

This one, the killer who insinuated himself within almost point-blank range of his target, remains alive. The stupidities that put John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald beyond reach of interrogation are not likely to be repeated.

What the FBI and the courts learn from Robert Kennedy's killer may reveal more than has yet been learned about the anatomy of assassination.

★

Their findings, however, are unlikely to persuade the hankerers after conspiracy that one violent man with a skinful of hate may have acted according to no plan other than his own.

Admittedly, it is much more titillating to believe that back of the triggerman was an organization composed variously of Black Muslims, smouldering white Southerners, or those young anarchists who are raising hell with the universities.

The choice varies with the antipathies of the speaker.

Evidence indicates that young Senator Kennedy was a victim of the backlash of last year's war between Israel and the Arab states—a foreign conflict, and in no way related to the interior struggle of black against white or Vietnam hawk against dove.

We can be glad of that, at least. Had the evidence pointed definitely to domestic plotting, a nation already cursed with more violence than it can handle might have reacted with explosive fury.

★

Out of the tragic affair, has come renewed pressure for anti-firearms legislation. This, at best, may reduce the number of handguns in casual circulation, and at worst descend full force on the legitimate sportsman.

But whatever the weapon, I think that the hard-hit Kennedy family has suffered from a state of affairs to which we in Canada are by no means strangers.

This is an insufficiency of those safeguards that would keep the walking time-bomb from working the havoc of which he is all too capable.

Oswald, as later evidence turned up, was a psychiatrist's nightmare. He should have been under treatment, not walking free in Dallas.

Perhaps if Robert Kennedy's assailant had been subjected somewhere along the line to psychiatric screening, detention and treatment, the bloody episode in the Ambassador Hotel corridor would not have taken place.

Hindsight comes easy. But what screening, what treatment can cure the violence that resides in the American city?

I am not referring here to the studied violence of the racketeers, with their business-like killers who operate on contract. That brings its own taint; but it is less to be feared than the violence of frustration, depression and disillusionment that makes a mockery of the American dream.

Violence, I suggest, is not inborn. It evolves when democracy degenerates into anarchy of the faction and the individual.

Our neighbors are deep in trouble. We sympathize . . . but Canadians should also take warning.

Luck Has Kept Our 'Violent Bomb' From Detonation

Only luck and the grace of God has protected Canadian politics from the black smear of assassinations, a Liberal election candidate said here Wednesday.

Esquimalt - Saanich Liberal Dave Anderson told an audience at St. Ann's Academy:

"There is much prejudice in Canada and much stupidity. We may not be in as bad a situation as California and Alabama, but this is not due to any virtue on our part.

"It is only due to good luck and the grace of God."

Mr. Anderson, speaking only hours after news arrived of the shooting of U.S. presidential candidate Robert Kennedy, said that if anyone doubts that similar tragedies could happen here, consider history.

"I suggest you consider for a momentt, D'Arcy McGee, one of the fathers of confederation whose assassination was the result of a blind political and religious projudice."

He referred also to "the three or four political deaths that have taken place in and around Montreal as a result of bomb outrages by separatists."

How can canadians prevent such "stupidity and outrages"? Canada must strive for open and honest politics," a political life in which appeals are not made to religious, racial or lingustic prejudice."

He said Canada must ensure that political parties reflect the opinions of all Canadians and that our institutions are capable of meeting change.

"We must avoid the dissatisfaction so evident in many countries abroad and to the south, which leads to violence. This is not the job of the prime minister alone or of parliament alone, but of every Canadian." Victoria Liberal candidate David Groos, appearing on the same platform, said the event is a lesson for world that we must "learn to live with our neighbor and share with him part of what we have."

He said, "Right here in Canada we must remove more of the causes of violence, the things that fester in men's minds, social injustice, economic injustice and permanent unequal opportunity."

He said democracy is not perfect, "but you younger people who do not suffer from the prejudice of your forefathers, I think through you and your use of the democratic precesses, you are going to be the salvation of Canada."

Low-Key Campaign For Newcomer

By ERIC MAURICE

Dr. E. Harvey Richardson is new to the game of politics. His style is unsophisticated, almost apologetic.

As NDP candidate for Victoria in the June 25 federal election, the 40-year-old research physicist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich is involved in his first political campaign. He has worked with anti-war and humanitarian movements and is a former president of the Victoria branch of the World Federalists.

He was born in Portland, Oregon, but moved with his family to Victoria before he was a year old.

What about the candidates? Why are they running? What do they stand for? What are their objectives?

The Times assigned a new staffer, Eric Maurice, to take a fresh look at the Greater Victoria hopefuls in the June 25 federal election.

The interviews appear daily, Victoria candidates first. This is the third.

In an interview, he distilled his low-keyed policy statements thoughtfully. The approach is palatable, but inexperience is not traditionally a big vote-getter.

Dr. Richardson's view of leadership personalities is inscrutable. He feels the NDP will gain from a general dissatisfaction among the electorates with the old-line parties leadership. But the man they will turn to, he feels, is Tommy Douglas, who has been associated with the old school of parliamentarianism much longer than either Mr. Stanfield or Mr. Trudeau.

If elected to Parliament, Dr. Richardson said he could make "convincing arguments" for locating the facilities of a research-oriented Canadian precision manufacturing enterprise in Victoria.

Logical Site

He declined to identify the firm, but said "Victoria is the most logical site under present circumstances." The climate here and the computation centre at the university make the city attractive to such a business.

Once started, the enterprise would attract similar ones.

Dr. Richardson believes Canadian independence is the fundamental issue in the campaign. National unity, the issue the Liberals are most concerned with, is secondary.

The New Democratic Party preaches maitre chez nous economics.

"It is not a narrow economic nationalism, but Canada should have an economy which can stand on its own feet."

He said foreign control of the Canadian economy is the problem, not merely foreign ownership, but he admitted the two generally go hand in hand.

"If the federal government shows a fair amount of leadership, it can keep control."

Not an Issue Here

He said housing is another key NDP issue in this election, but it is not particularly important in Victoria. Nationally, there is an "acute shortage" of housing, he said.

Housing starts are below the minimum recommended in the fourth report of the Economic Council of Canada and the need is up.

"The cost of housing is so high that it is beyond the reach of people with an income of less than $8,000 a year."

This is due to increases in the cost of land and mortgages because the increase in labor and material costs is "comparatively insignificant," Dr. Richardson said.

Provide Lots

He said an NDP government would go into the real estate business by "providing serviced lots at reasonable prices.

"Real estate is a totally nonproductive enterprise," he said, and the way to stop speculation is for government to compete with speculators in providing land.

Dr. Richardson affirmed NDP policy favoring a "made in Canada" constitution containing guarantees of fundamental rights, especially linguistic rights.

He said an NDP government would bring in socialistic measures where they are required and compete with private enterprise where there is an obvious need, but "the policy of the New Democrats [illegible] thing."

The NDP would establish a Canadian Capital Resources Fund to mobilize Canadian capital for development and research and set up crown corporations "where it is considered necessary," as in drug manufacturing, he said.

"I believe we have the highest priced drugs in the world."

Scientist Needed

Dr. Richardson thinks it's time to get scientists into politics, because "an increasing amount of legislation involves scientific and technological matters."

A political newcomer, he shies away from predictions about the outcome of the June vote, but said the NDP "might well" form the next official opposition.

"Many voters may be influenced by the candidates and the leaders, but it is impossible to tell which way until June 25."

Dr. Richardson is an enterprising candidate with an unrefined sense of things political.

Whether his grass-roots demeanor can be melded with the NDP hierarchy to produce effective parliamentary representation — indeed, whether he will even get the chance to try — must await the outcome of the June reckoning.

PROJECT 100

Students' Efforts Lauded

A drive by British Columbia school students to send mobile classrooms to underdeveloped countries has almost doubled its objective.

The centennial year campaign by youngsters across the province had aimed at sending five vans abroad.

Five have gone and six more have been ordered.

The youth movement set its sights on $125,000 and romped home with $205,130, Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace announced in an interview today.

Mr. Wallace, who served as general chairman for B.C. centennial celebration in 1966 and 1957 said the campaign was "one of the most satisfying aspects of our celebrations.

"The students set out to share our birthday party with less fortunate youngsters . . . and they did remarkably well."

SPECIAL PRAISE

He had special praise for students of Greater Victoria who contributed $88,000 in a single project — the March of Millions which took place here last fall.

But Mr. Wallace also pointed out that even the smallest schools in B.C. engaged in dozens of pursuits from car washing to bottle collections and every dollar had the same importance to the success of the drive. It was known as Project 100.

A letter is going to all schools next week over the signatures of Mr. Wallace and C. G. Archibald, chairman of the B.C. Centennial special projects committee.

It says countries selected for aid are Guyana, Tanzania, Zambia, Hong Kong, India and Pakistan. British made trucks were converted to teaching purposes in B.C., much of the work undertaken by students at B.C. Vocational School, Burnaby.

Each van carries a generator unit, audio-visual teaching aids, film strips, books, science equipment and in some cases physical education equipment.

DONORS' MESSAGE

Each mobile school carries a framed certificate attesting to the spirit and interest of the B.C. student donors.

The letter will state that a cash grant of $2,000 goes with each van for purchase of additional books and materials and for each of two succeeding years, $1,000 grants will be sent. Total value of each gift is about $16,000.

A follow-up on the project will be conducted.

"This will ensure that the vision of the students who conceived the idea of mobile education resource centres does not fade but will in fact serve the youth in remote areas of our developing sister nations in the Commonwealth," the letter states.

Messenger Pleads Guilty To Taking Money From Mail

An 18-year-old employee of a messenger company contracted to deliver special delivery letters pleaded guilty today to two counts of theft from the mail.

Stephen Lambert, 4649 Cordova Bay Road, was apprehended Wednesday after a special investigator for the post office sent marked letters to himself.

Investigator Carl Hansen said Lambert admitted taking the letters, one of which contained $3.

Magistrate Ostler remanded tht accused to June 13 for a pre-sentence report.

15-Year-Old Admits Rash Of Burglaries

To Be Sentenced On 16th Birthday

A 15-year-old boy appearing in open court today pleaded guilty to 13 counts of house breaking and one of escaping lawful custody.

Court was told the boy was arrested after three break-ins in Oak Bay May 27.

A revolver and ammunition were taken from one house, and Oak Bay police said the accused told them "If I was pushed, I would have used it."

The other 10 break-ins were in Saanich between April 22 and May 25.

City police reported the boy escaped from the Juvenile Detention Home, 1125 Pembroke, on Tuesday. He returned voluntarily with his father early Wednesday.

SECOND YOUTH

An 18-year-old, Kenneth Clements, of 740 Kings, earlier pleaded guilty to four counts of breaking and entering. Police said he accompanied the juvenile on the four occasions.

The loot from the 13 break-ins totaled over $330 in cash, some jewellry and rare coins. Little was recovered. The stolen revolver was located by a police dog in Oak Bay bushland.

Clements is to be sentenced June 11. The 15-year-old is to be sentenced June 19, the date he told the court is his sixteenth birthday.

Freak Accident Sends Driver To Hospital

A man is in only fair condition in hospital today after his car jacknifed on the Trans-Canada Highway at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Roy Starck of 2604 Millstream sustained head injuries in the freak accident just north of the Thetis Lake cutoff.

Police said the car Starck was driving was being pushed south by an auto driven by John Dierick of 2738 Winster Road.

The cars apparently locked bumpers and jack-knifed across the highway, the collision injuring Starck.

In the city, a 72-year-old pedestrian was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after she was struck down by a car.

Police said Mrs. Dorothy McConnell, 1126 Rockland, suffered cuts to her arms and legs when she was struck at Fort and Cook by a car driven by Alois Mayr, 3959 Cedarwood.

Mrs. McConnell was released from hospital after treatment.

RUDOLPH STANISH
. . . bong, crack, splash

To King Of Omelet It's Art!

By JOHN SLINGER

Jet-set chef Rudolph Stanish, self-proclaimed king of the omelet makers, ferried into Victoria today to conduct a luncheon appreciation of the omelet as objet d'art.

The man who single-handed prepared omelets for 3,000 guests at president John Kennedy's inaugural breakfast is now a one-man band for egg marketing boards.

The B.C. Egg Marketing Board, sponsors of the Empress hotel reception, dearly hope Mr. Stanish, 54, of New York, will convince people that the egg is something more than breakfast fare.

●

Breaking dozens of eggs into a huge silver bowl that bonged as he cracked the shells, Mr. Stanish explained that the egg was the "purest of all foods," and that "the omelet is the most useful single thing you can cook."

Eggs cracked, Mr. Stanish, a former butler who looks much like the one who always did it in those English mysteries, began to concoct his delicacies in specially-built aluminum frying pans over propane burners.

●

Swirling and swishing a mixture of chives and chopped bacon through the beaten egg, he sprinkled cheese over the top and folded in the edges. He rolled the omelet off the pan on to a plate quickly — he can turn out four omelets per pan per minute — and handed it to a lady who tasted it and said: "Terrific."

Mr. Stanish leaves Victoria to begin a world tour for egg producers.

The man who makes omelets for the Vanderbilts and Whitney's and all those beautiful people, at $125 a shot, says that for entertaining at his own home, he relies on his own personal cook.

City Committee Wants Bylaw To Clean Up Backyards

City hall officials today took the first step in a move to clean up the eyesore caused by automobile graveyards.

A unanimous motion of the finance committee recommended to council that a bylaw be drafted to prohibit the keeping of srecked cars on city lots and also control untidy or overgrown backyards.

Assistant city manager William Hooson told the committee Mayor Hugh Stephen had expressed concern over the problem and similar bylaws had been passed in Esquimalt, New Westminster and Edmonton.

In May, Island municipal authorities requested through the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities aid from the Motor Vehicles Branch in disposing of automobiles which had passed the time of their usefulness.

Their resolution will be considered by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at the annual meeting in September at Vancouver.

AIMED AT STORAGE

Mr. Hoosen said today a bylaw was not to be considered as an attempt to interfere with a person's rights but mainly to get at persons who were storing wrecked car bodies on their property.

He said the city are receiving a lot of complaints on this matter.

Ald. Lily Wilson said she would be reluctant to interfere with young people working on cars in their backyard.

"It's more important that they be able to work there than be out on the streets getting into trouble," she said.

Ald. Percy Frampton agreed but said he was concerned over who was going to determine whether a property was unsightly or not.

REMAIN UNTIDY

Mr. Hooson said the Edmonton bylaw refers to properties which remain untidy or unsightly and the Esquimalt regulation also uses the word "remain."

"It's the continual unsightliness we're looking for," said Ald. Frampton. "If a lot remains untidy month after month then its got to be cleaned up.

Mr. Hooson said the city solicitor had said there would be inherent problems in administering such a bylaw but that it was within the power of the municipalities to regulate such matters.

Recently Oak Bay proposed a bylaw to restrict untidy lots and caused great furore over a clause limiting boats over a certain length on the property. Following a public hearing the bylaw was revised.

Jury Trial In Holdup Charge

Lone Survivor of Crash Has Bail Set at $20,000

Bail was set at $20,000 today for the only survivor of a car crash that killed two young men May 11.

Peter Simpson, 21, of Toronto, is charged with armed robbery, car theft, and breaking and entering.

He elected trial by judge and jury and said he was applying for legal aid. He was remanded to June 13.

He was a passenger in a convertible that slammed into a tree in View Royal while it was being chased at a high speed by Esquimalt police.

Robert Rickward, 20, died almost immediately, and Roger McEwan, 22, died later the same day.

Simpson suffered a broken foot, broken ankle, and head cuts. He appeared in court today on crutches.

Shortly before the crash, police were called to an armed holdup at Ernie' Fine Foods, 1616 Hillside.

Three men with sweaters pulled over their faces had entered the store and ordered one employee on to the floor and locked a second in a cooler.

The trio escaped with $158.

Later Esquimalt police gave chase to a car. The car attempted to elude them and was doing an estimated 80 miles an hour when it slammed into a tree on the Old Island Highway near Jedburgh Road.

Pioneer Land Dealer Dies at 79

Pioneer Victoria investment and real estate dealer Robert Hugh Shanks, 79, died today after a lengthy illness.

Until his retirement in 1962 he had been 57 years in the Victoria-based Canadian head office of B.C. Land and Investment Agency, of London, starting as office boy and leaving as president.

During the Second World Far Mr. Shanks acted as a dollar-a-year consultant for the federal government and was instrumental in the purchase by the defence department of Hatley Park, home of Royal Roads Services College.

TRADING CO. AGENT

He also was agent for the Hudson's Bay Co. subsidiary, Rupert's Land Trading Co., which owned acreage where the University of Victoria and a housing subdivision now stand.

His wife, daughter of a pioneer Victoria family, predeceased him in 1961.

Among Mr. Shanks' offices were the presidency of Victoria Real Estate Board and the Society of Residential Appraisers. He also had been honorary treasurer of B.C. Protestant Orphanage for 21 years between 1935 and 1956.

His home was at 1017 St. Patrick Street, Oak Bay.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Monday at Hayward's chapel.

LOFFMARK:

No Comment On Hospital Fee Hike

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark today declined comment on the possibility of an increase in the $1 a day co-insurance charge for general ward care in hospitals.

But he confirmed his department is studying the possibility of giving local and regional hospital boards added powers which could include the right to offer a higher standard of care than the provincial and national average.

Asked if this would mean some hospital boards might charge patients extra, Mr. Loffmark smiled and said: "No comment."

He explained it is felt by hospital boards they are unable to operate in a "normal" way because they are required to obtain permission from BCHIS for a number of routine policy decisions and actions.

EXCEED STANDARD

If a national standard of health and hospital care results from the medicare plan it is possible that hospital boards would be given the right to exceed that standard—or a similar provincial—if they wished, he said.

This would be part of a broader range of options that might be given local and regional boards.

A similar provision has already been included in new school financing legislation passed by the legislature this year. Educational programs offered above a provincial average become the responsibility of local boards—and taxpayers.

Ask The Times

Q. I was interested in the great philanthropist and friend of the Negroes in the 18th century named Anthony Benezet; could you tell me what nationality he was, where he was born and his religion? E.N.

A. Benezet was an American, born Jan. 31, 1713, at St. Quentin, France. His family moved to London to join the Society of Friends (Quakers) and went to Philadelphia in 1731. Benezet wrote several pamphlets against the slave trade (1762-71) and on behalf of the American Indians. He died in Philadelphia, May 3, 1784, according to the Century Cyclopedia of Names.

Q. Is there any local organization that collects used stamps? M.M.

A. The SPCA collects used stamps. These are sorted and sold at about seven cents a pound. Proceeds are used to help in SPCA work. The Victoria branch of the SPCA is located at 3150 Napier Lane.

Wages Take Jump In Manufacturing

OTTAWA (CP) — A substantial increase in average wages paid in manufacturing industries occurred in April as the result of rate increases and overtime payments following settlement of industrial disputes, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Average weekly wages in manufacturing were $103.67 in April, compared with $100.62 in March and $96.50 in April last year.

Wages in the durable goods manufacturing industry rose to $115 a week from $108.53 in March and $105.06 in April last year.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Stock markets appeared today to have done any discounting they would do because of the killing of Sen. Robert Kennedy as gains were posted on both the Toronto and New York exchanges.

There was no immediate reaction in foreign exchange markets although the British pound eased.

AT NEW YORK—After a hesitant opening, the advance resumed again where it left off Wednesday after a series of five straight daily gains.

Wide gains were made by the more highly priced glamor stocks. Prices made a solid advance on the American stock exchange. Inco, the Canadian blue chip, was up ⅞. Alcan gained ¼ and McIntyre ½. Dome fell 1, Distillers ½ and Granby ⅛.

AT MONTREAL — Prices moved ahead in moderately active trading.

In industrials, Great Britain and Canada Investment climbed 1⅛ to 13⅛ and Simpsons 1 to 37. Rothmans edged up ⅝ to 23½.

Liquor issues were active as Melchers added 2¾ to 35 and Canadian Breweries ⅝ to 8⅞.

AT LONDON the market moved quietly higher today, showing little effect from the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. However, dollar stocks retreated broadly.

British government securities were firm after a cautious opening and there were gains of up to ⅛.

Canadians were narrowly mixed. Abitibi, Husky and Trans-Canada Pipeline were up.

AT VANCOUVER prices were mixed during moderate trading as 855,369 shares changed hands to 11 a.m.

'Promising' Uranium Find in B.C.

The first southern B.C. uranium strike in a decade was reported today by Norex Uranium Ltd., which has 66 mineral claims in the China Creek area between Castelgar and Trail.

Norex president Ralph Ernewin, of Vancouver, said preliminary sampling of the property had produced amounts ranging from a trace to several pounds per ton and a $36,000 program of diamond drilling has been commenced.

He called the strike "promising" and said a three-stage exploration program is planned at a possible total outlay of $336,000.

A spokesman in the provincial mines department called the find geologically interesting in that previous uranium strikes have been reported further north but remain undeveloped.

Uranium production in Canada is limited to northern Ontario—Elliott Lake area—and Eldorado-Uranium City area of northern Saskatchewan.

World demand for uranium in the next few years cannot be met with current productive capacity, it is estimated, which has led to accelerated exploration activity in the last two years.

MANY CLAIMS

Mr. Ernewin said several other companies are active in the China Creek area and more than 200 claims have been registered for prospecting and proving over an area of some 40 square miles.

He said the area had been first prospected around the turn of the century.

If justified by the first stage, a second phase of exploration would be undertaken at a cost of $150,000 over three months, with a third for a similar amount pending results of phase two.

Norex recently sold out an initial offering of 250,000 shares at $1 each. Shares are due to be listed on Vancouver Stock Exchange Monday.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — The appearance of U.S. selling in flax contributed to declines at the close of trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Toward mid-session fairly active trade developed in flax and barley but flax prices were erratic in fairly good volume.

Good volume was taken by domestic shippers on declines in barley influenced by local selling.

Moderate activity in oats was associated with domestic trade.

Some inter-month spreading was evident in rapeseed and rye dealings with prices fractionally easier in a light trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Active buying by all facets of the trade sent grain futures prices ahead on the board of trade today.

Soybean meal prices again set some seasonal highs while soybean oil posted new lows. Soybean prices, however, closed on an irregular note. Buying of wheat futures was active from the start.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Brother Ridicules Funny-Talking Sister

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was born in Vermont, where I lived for over 50 years. Now, owing to ill health, I am living with a younger brother in Nevada.

I have had little formal education, and my brother and his wife are both college graduates. To them, my way of speaking is hilariously funny. Even their children will repeat something I have said, and the whole family will laugh uproariously.

My brother will say, "We're having company tonight. Stick around. They'll get a kick out of hearing you talk." Should I be flattered? Or should I suggest they charge admission?

I respect my brother and his family for their kindness to me, but how does one keep from feeling resentment? I sometimes wonder if others are also going through the same thing, and if so, how do they handle it?

HURT

DEAR HURT: In all probability, your brother and his family are not aware of how you feel. So tell them. People with accents, (southern, Yankee, eastern, midwestern, and foreign) are frequently the objects of "curiosity," away from home. Of course it is rude and unkind to laugh at such a person, even though the laughter may be more from amusement than ridicule.

DEAR ABBY: Unlike the 14-year-old girl whose problem was a mustache, our 13-year-old daughter, Cynthia, has thick, black sideburns which are very conspicuous.

I think they look terrible, and when she goes anywhere with me, I make her comb her hair to hide them, but Cynthia thinks they look so "neat" she loops her hair over her ears to show them off!

Abby, she tries to tell me they are "in" now. In fact, she picked up a newspaper at a barbershop showing an ad of "HIS AND HER" sideburns, sold by some wig-maker in New York. (Do they actually make such items, or is it a joke?)

Cynthia boasts that she's the only seventh grader (male or female) with genuine sideburns — like Dino Martin.

I never thought I would produce a freak like her. Maybe she'll outgrow it, but in the meantime, will you pray for us?

PASS CHRISTIAN, MISS.

DEAR PASS: The only problem I see here is a mother who is making a problem where none exists. Let the child alone. When Cynthia's sideburns become a liability to HER, together you can find a solution. In the meantime, I'll pray for a better understanding between you two.

DEAR ABBY: Last year we put in a swimming pool. Please don't get the idea that we are millionaires. We aren't. We're just average folks in moderate circumstances. We like to share our pool with our neighbors, but some people don't know when enough is enough.

We started serving soft drinks to the kids, and beer to the adults, but that didn't last long. We did a bigger business than the country club.

How can we let our neighbors know that there are days when we've invited guests, and the whole neighborhood gang is not invited? I know we should not have been so big-hearted last year, but now that we realize our mistake, what should we do?

PORTOLA VALLEY

DEAR PORTOLA VALLEY: Fly a little "flag" on a pole to let your neighbors know that the pool is open for "all." If you plan a private party, no flag. Then educate your neighbors. It's as simple as that.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too gentle in your answer to the teen-ager who looked her mother in the eye with hat and said, "I DON'T OWE YOU ANYTHING, I DIDN'T ASK TO BE BORN."

If she were my daughter, I would have said, "That's right, and I didn't HAVE to raise you either. I could have sent you to an orphanage."

ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR ABBY: There is a humane society to protect dumb animals from starvation and neglect. Too bad they don't have a humane society for husbands!

I know a woman who sends her husband to work every morning without any breakfast. (He eats an orange on the way.) Not only that, but she doesn't pack him a lunch, either, and she knows there's no place to buy anything within a mile of where he works. If I didn't pack extra sandwiches in my lunch this guy would starve to death. When he gets home from work he has to clean up the house and take care of the kids. And on weekends HE does the laundry. What do you think of a wife like that?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: Before passing judgment, I'd have to know if the wife is sick or just plain lazy. If she's sick, I'd try to get her some help. If she's lazy, and her husband puts up with it, he may qualify for help from the humane society. (It's for "dumb animals.")

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a recent expert team game, both North-South pairs reached an impossible spade slam. At each table, the opening lead was the heart king and each South player saw a chance to make his contract. He would discard a club on dummy's ace of hearts and start on diamonds. Unfortunately for all South players, West was unkind enough to ruff the third diamond with the nine of trumps and the hand would collapse.

Opening lead—♥K

The bidding in the box is that of the first table. South was rather critical of North's jump to four spades and pointed out that, if North just had five spades to the king and nothing else, the slam would be practically a lay-down.

We agree. North's hand might hold the cards to produce game opposite some minimum opening bids but we play percentages and, in general, there would be no game unless South could rebid over a single raise by North.

At the other table, North made the bid that we consider correct and raised to two spades. South might well have simply bid game but he was looking for a slam and bid three diamonds. North proceeded to jump to four spades, whereupon South bid six. The same lead and the same one down resulted.

North and South had one of those happy partnerships in which each partner tries to blame himself for any bad result. North said immediately, "I should have bid three hearts over your three diamonds. That surely would have warned you of duplication and you would have contented yourself by merely going to game."

South replied, "Yes, I would have, and three hearts would have been a better call, but I did not have to go to the slam. I might well have bid only five spades. After all, you only raised to two as your first bid."

We think both North and South were correct in their analysis and even more correct in their parnership approach to discussing disaster hands. They will improve with each session of play together.

ACCUSED CLAIMS

Delisting Cost Him $3 Million

TORONTO (CP) — A Vancouver man testified Wednesday that he lost $3,000,000 and was forced into bankruptcy in 1962 when the Toronto Stock Exchange delisted shares of S. K. D. Manufacturing Co.

Max Isaacs, facing 22 charges of wash trading in S. K. D. shares in June and July, 1962, told Judge Garth Moore that he only "exists" now while his wife works.

Wash trading is defined as creating a false or misleading appearance of active public trading in securities involving no change of ownership.

Isaacs, formerly of Montreal, said he gained control of Eastern Dairies in the early 1940s, when he first became interested in stock transaction.

He sold out in 1943, receiving $300,000 and a $50,000 bonus, and went on to deal in other firms, making more than $1,000,000 in 1958 when he sold his shares in Claude Neon to General Outdoor Advertising of Chicago.

Isaacs said he gained control of S. K. D., automotive manufacturing firm, in 1962.

WOULD HAVE RISEN

"I owned most of the common stock of S. K. D. in February, 1962," he said. "If I didn't sell, the stock would have gone up to $50 because of the pressure of short selling."

Isaacs testified that Montreal brokers put pressure on him to get rid of the shares. He had various nominee accounts, he said, because he was advised when he began to buy Eastern Dairies that he should not keep too many shares in one account.

Prosecutor Clay Powell suggested that by February, 1962, Isaacs had most of S. K. D.'s common stock at about $8 a share, and from then until July it rose to $17.50 a share. He said Isaacs put the price up with his purchases.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Stock markets appeared today to have done any discounting they would do because of the killing of Sen. Robert Kennedy as gains were posted on both the Toronto and New York exchanges.

There was no immediate reaction in foreign exchange markets although the British pound eased.

AT TORONTO: in industrials, Inco gained 1⅞ to 112⅞, Standard Radio 1¾ to 52¾, Rothmans 1⅝ to 23⅝, and Canadian Breweries 1¼ to 9½.

Dome Mines advanced 3¼ to 68¼ and Patino and Conwest ⅞ each to 23⅝ and 11⅞. Leitch Mines fell 25 cents to $9.50.

Great Plains Development rose ¾ to 17½ and Banff Oil ½ to 12⅞ Asamera lost 35 cents to $8.00.

Final volume was 2,989,000 shares compared with 3,016,000 Wednesday.

AT NEW YORK—After a hesitant opening, the advance resumed again where it left off Wednesday after a series of five straight daily gains.

Wide gains were made by the more highly-priced glamor stocks. Prices made a solid advance on the American stock exchange. Inco, the Canadian blue chip, was up ⅞. Alcan gained ¼ and McIntyre ½. Dome fell 1, Distillers ½ and Granby ⅛.

AT MONTREAL — Prices moved ahead in moderately active trading.

In industrials, Great Britain and Canada Investment climbed 1⅝ to 13⅛ and Simpsons 1 to 37. Rothmans edged up ⅝ to 23½.

Liquor issues were active as Melchers added 2¾ to 35 and Canadian Breweries ⅝ to 8⅞.

AT LONDON the market moved quietly higher today, showing little effect from the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. However, dollar stocks retreated broadly.

British government securities were firm after a cautious opening and there were gains of up to ⅛.

Canadians were narrowly mixed. Abitibi, Husky and Trans-Canada Pipeline were up.

AT VANCOUVER prices were mixed during moderate trading as 855,369 shares changed hands to 11 a.m.

Industrials were marginally stronger with Canadian Brewerits pacing advances with a gain of $1 to $9. Pacific Petroleums gained .50 to $21.50 and Captain International moved up .37 to $10.37. Block Brothers traded at $11.37, a drop of .37.

Oils were weaker with Merit off .02 to .43, Peace River down .02 to .30 and Giant Reef off .10 to $1.75. Sunlite gained .10 to $5.35.

Gains and losses were evenly balanced in the mining section. Hearne Copper moved up .40 to $4.50, Coast Silver advanced .03 to .91 and Lornex gained .15 to $6.80. Coronet was off .07 to $1.01, Kimberley was down .03 to $1.02 and New Cinch slipped .09 to $1.20.

'Promising' Uranium Find in B.C.

The first southern B.C. uranium strike in a decade was reported today by Norex Uranium Ltd., which has 66 mineral claims in the China Creek area between Castelgar and Trail.

Norex president Ralph Ernewin, of Vancouver, said preliminary sampling of the property had produced amounts ranging from a trace to several pounds per ton and a $36,000 program of diamond drilling has been commenced.

He called the strike "promising" and said a three-stage exploration program is planned at a possible total outlay of $336,000.

A spokesman in the provincial mines department called the find geologically interesting in that previous uranium strikes have been reported further north but remain undeveloped.

Uranium production in Canada is limited to northern Ontario—Elliott Lake area—and Eldorado-Uranium City area of northern Saskatchewan.

World demand for uranium in the next few years cannot be met with current productive capacity, it is estimated, which has led to accelerated exploration activity in the last two years.

MANY CLAIMS

Mr. Ernewin said several other companies are active in the China Creek area and more than 200 claims have been registered for prospecting and proving over an area of some 40 square miles.

He said the area had been first prospected around the turn of the century.

If justified by the first stage, a second phase of exploration would be undertaken at a cost of $150,000 over three months, with a third for a similar amount pending results of phase two.

Norex recently sold out an initial offering of 250,000 shares at $1 each. Shares are due to be listed on Vancouver Stock Exchange Monday.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — The appearance of U.S. selling in flax contributed to declines at the close of trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Toward mid-session fairly active trade developed in flax and barley but flax prices were erratic in fairly good volume.

Good volume was taken by domestic shippers on declines in barley influenced by local selling.

Moderate activity in oats was associated with domestic trade.

Some inter-month spreading was evident in rapeseed and rye dealings with prices fractionally easier in a light trade.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Active buying by all facets of the trade sent grain futures prices ahead on the board of trade today.

Soybean meal prices again set some seasonal highs while soybean oil posted new lows. Soybean prices, however, closed on an irregular note. Buying of wheat futures was active from the start.
